

SEA PICTURES

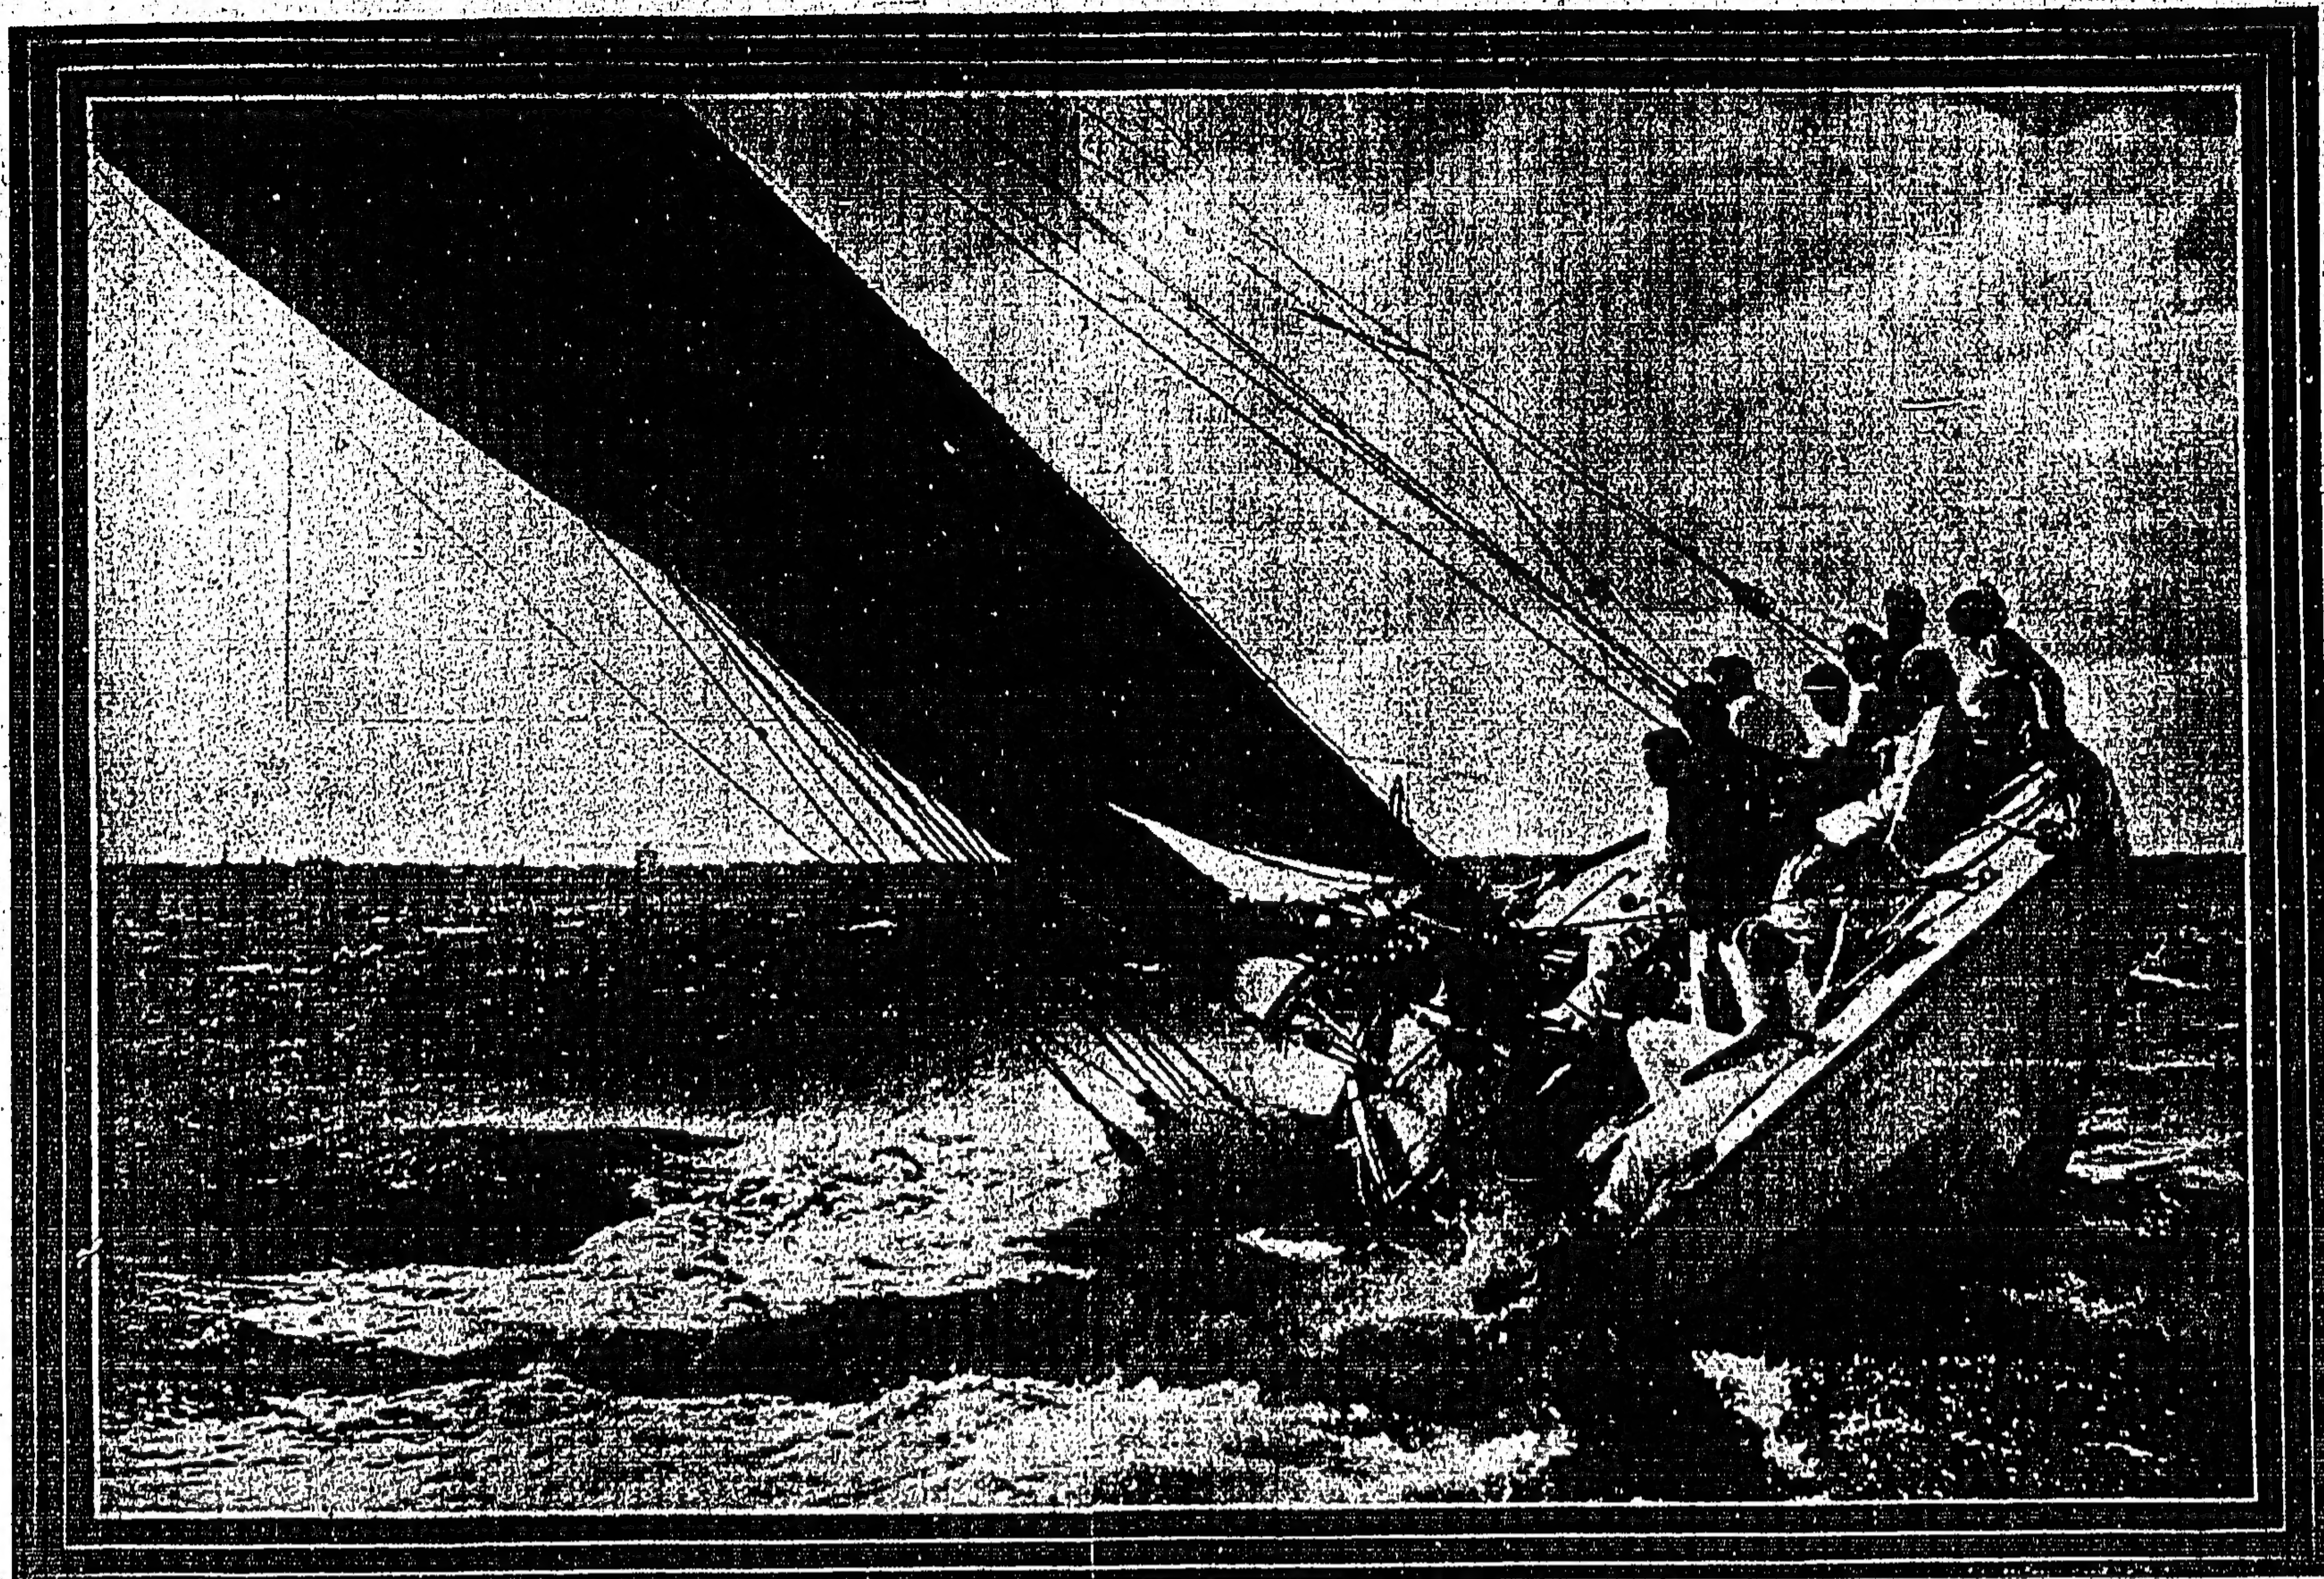

The dramatic pictures on this page, exclusive to "The Telegraph," highlight three moods of the sea as man encounters it.

There is a vast difference between the sea in the beautiful action study at the right and the bullet-torn sea of the Dunkirk evacuation, seen on the last picture on the page.

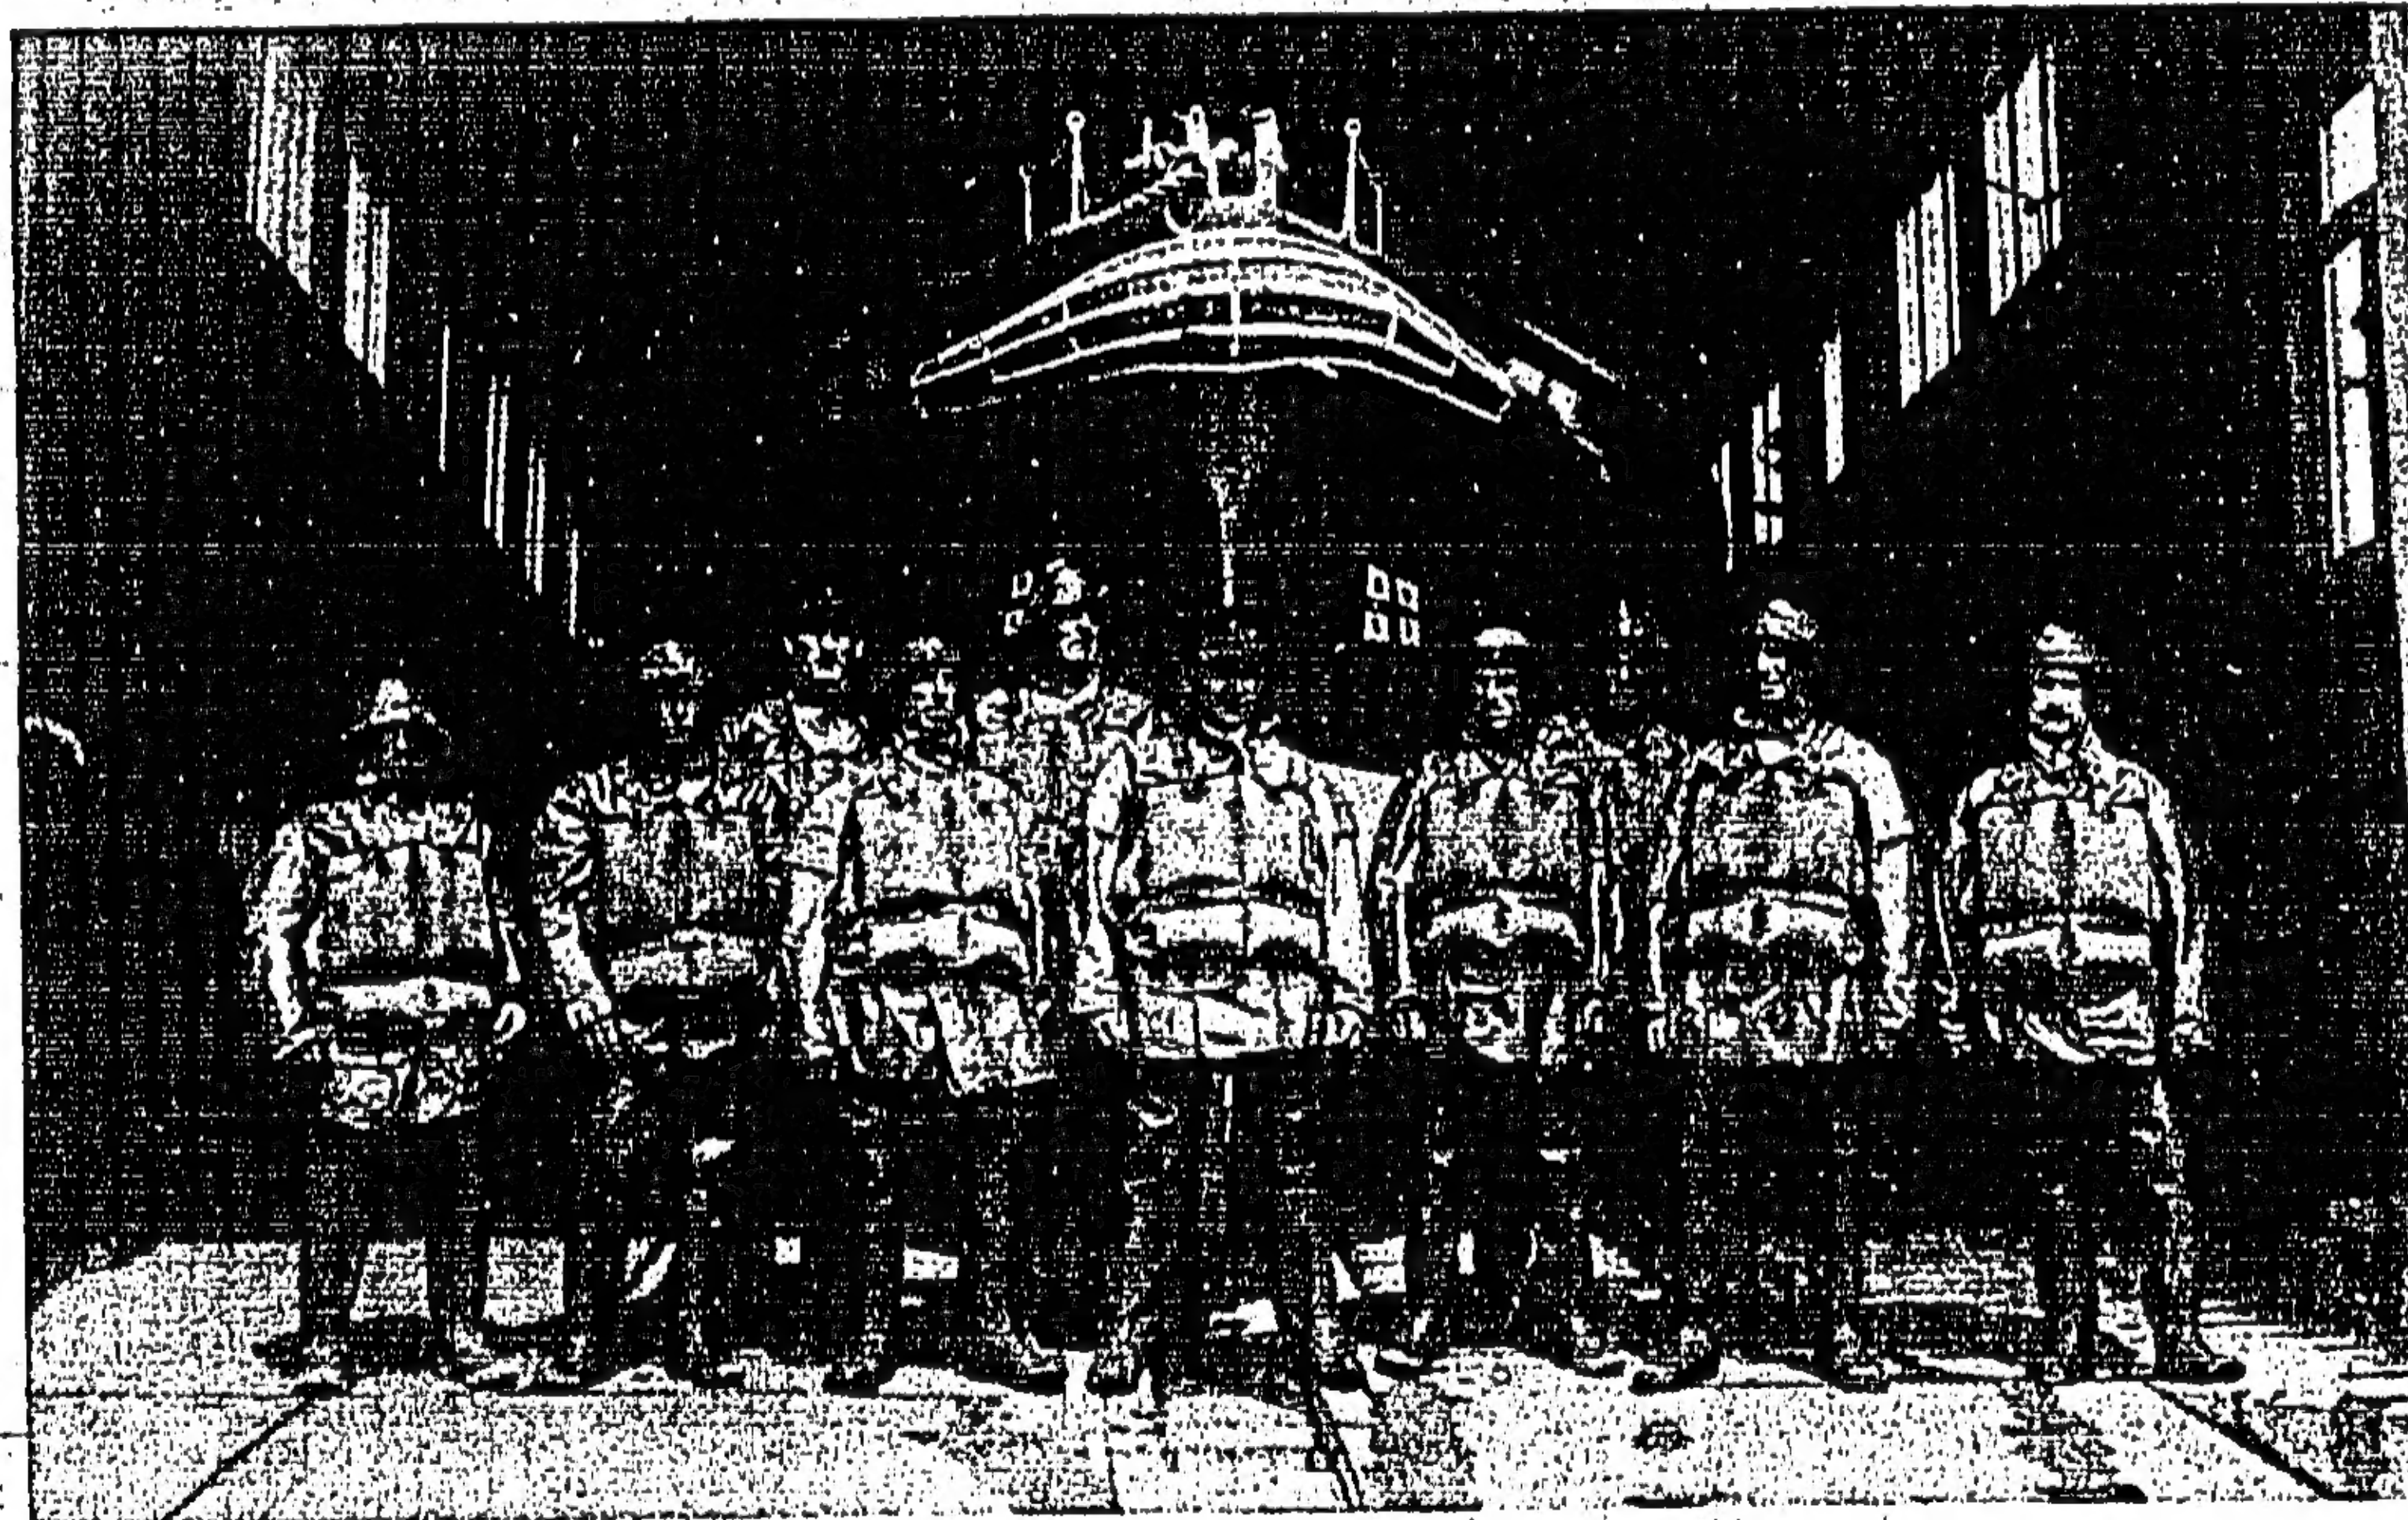

Yet men who were peaceful yachting enthusiasts a few months before took part in the grimmest hours sea-warfare has ever known. Several died in helping evacuate British troops from Flanders.

The other pictures show the men to whom the sea is always grim — British lifeboat crews. To them too the war has brought new dangers, new labours.

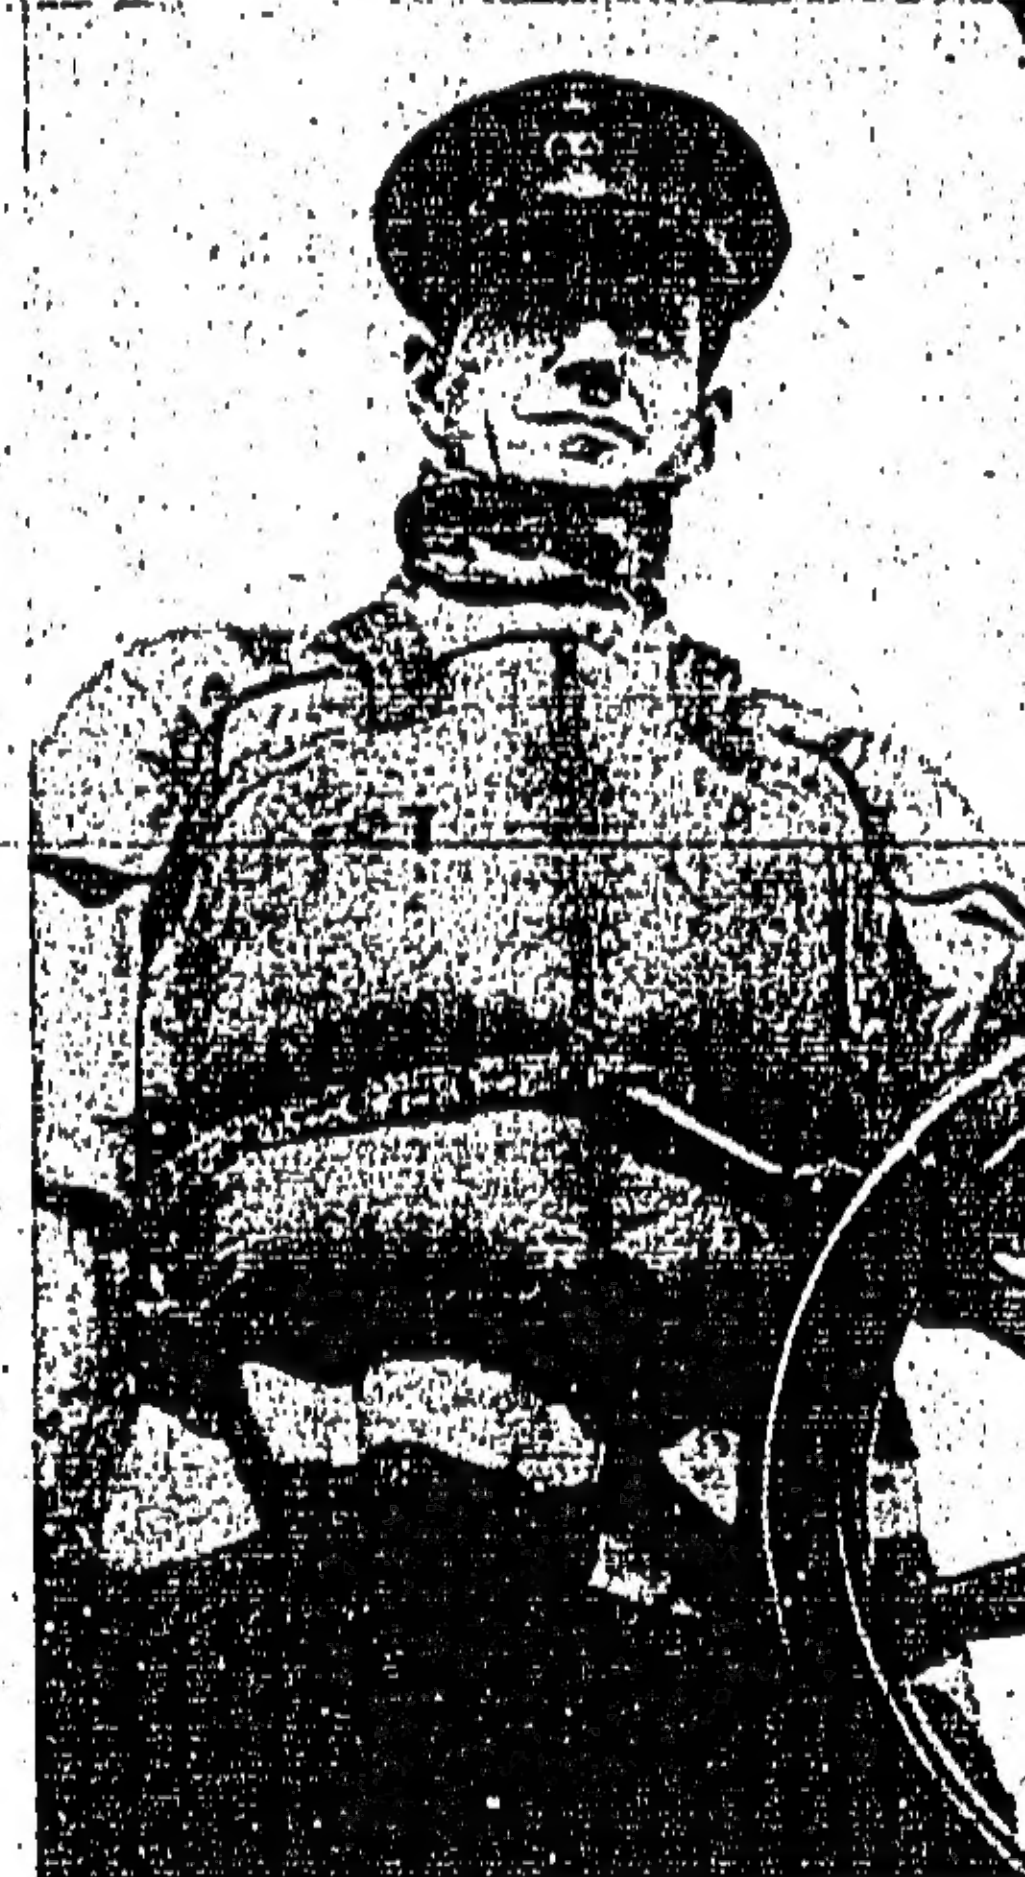

But that same sea is the one thing Hitler's legions can not conquer. It is the seas that will bring Britain final victory.

LEE RAIL AWASH.—This magnificent yachting picture, one of the finest ever taken, won a major prize in an American photographic contest for Cameraman Morris Rosenfeld. The yacht is the "Typhoon," one of the famous craft of the wealthy New York Yacht Club.

Britain's lifeboat crews have rescued more lives during the last nine months than during any similar period in history. Submarine and mine warfare has made their work arduous, dangerous. This is the crew of the Southend lifeboat station.

Coxswain—Page of the Southend lifeboat. Repeatedly since the war began, the lives of neutrals, women and children, have depended on the skill and courage of British lifeboat coxswains.

LIFEBOATS CARRY ON

Fine, modern equipment is carried on all British lifeboats. All but a dozen boats on isolated shores are new motor-driven. This is a patent device for firing a lifeline to stricken ship.

British troops lined up on the beach at Dunkirk were swept by Nazi machine-guns. Yachtsmen, like those in the top picture, helped in the miracle evacuation. Several gave their lives.

In all weathers, British lifeboats, often manned by fishermen, stand by to save life at sea. Their heroism and devotion to duty is world-famous.

Miss Observation

GIRLS getting make-up taped now: not pink, not orange, but apricot. Healthy red-brown - lipstick. Suits most girls too.

GIRLS at home wearing new flower hats look best with rose-pink lipstick, not mauve or cyclamen any more. New powder colour: Cameo.

KNEES latest thing to get beauty culture in U.S.A. Half hose worn for cycling.

SHOES getting flatter. Three to one typists counted wearing neat low heels in yesterday morning.

BLACK on decrease; grey, camel, navy with bright touches popular for girls' business outfits.

WALLFLOWER red-brown shirt and hat make navy or grey suit look very slow. Latest colour scheme from Paris.

GIRL FRIEND wearing new pastel coat improved—literally—out of recognition. Was looking for medium-brown girl in medium-brown straight coat; never recognised gay girl in light blue-and-brown plaid. Tip for mouse-coloured and unenterprising: Go pastel.

STOCKINGS are still worn silk and sheer; but thinnest cotton ones sold out from my favourite store.

STOCKING COLOURS: With flannel grey and camel, light suntan. With browns, rose beige. With navy or black, stockings toned to accessories.

RIBBONSHIRTING: This year's version of last year's passion for dirndl-gathers. Ribbon and Lastex yarn shirred in one operation; used as trimmings for frocks, blouses, various other clothes, furnishings. Grey chiffon blouse trimmed six horizontal rows red ribbonshirting, high-spot of recent exhibition. Can be done by home dressmaker using elastic thread in shuttle instead of usual machine silk.

DE-FUZZ, new American word for taking hair off legs. Favourite methods, there and here: Electric razor, wax plasters.

SAXE BLUE (short for Saxon?) remains English-woman's favourite colour. In any range of dresses or cottons sax blue sells out first, yellow last, said representative of a big wholesale firm. French first choice, colleague tells him, is still black every time, even in summer.

LOVELY LINGERIE FABRICS

SUCH a number of brides-to-be are busy stitching for their trousseaux, for dainty lingerie is an expensive item when bought ready-made, and the money you have to spend will go so much farther if you can make some of these garments yourself.

Besides, you can choose your own fabrics, colours and special designs. Look, for instance, at the very attractive ensemble of nightdress and matching jacket you see in the sketch.

EXQUISITE DESIGN

Their design is simplicity itself, and their exquisite loveliness is due to the soft, delicate crepe with a tiny all-over pattern of pink and blue roses and true lovers' knots on a lovely soft pink ground, in which they have been made.

One of my friends, who is getting married, showed them to me with great pride the other day.

One of the lovely Grafton anti-shrink fabrics in a design of true lovers' knots has been chosen for the trousseau nightie, on the left, and the dainty jacket to go with it.

WILL NOT SHRINK

"DON'T you think they are lovely?" she exclaimed. "I made them myself in one of the new Grafton anti-shrink lingerie fabrics, which are guaranteed never to shrink, stretch or lose their colour."

And she showed me some lengths of these materials which she was going to make up into other pretty clothes: some plain, some patterned—all equally charming and in the delicate shades which are so fashionable for lingerie.

Recipes Bring Eggs To Table

By JUDITH WILSON

THE wise housewife should not neglect this good protein food in her meals. Either the brown-shelled or white-shelled egg is a storehouse of protein, minerals and vitamins.

The protein in both the yolk and white is necessary for the growth and the repair of body tissues, according to the Bureau of Home Economics, Department of Agriculture. The minerals found in the yolk include lots of iron (in which ordinary diets are likely to be low) and good supplies of calcium and phosphorus. Egg yolks also contain vitamins A, B-1, G and D; the whites are rich in vitamin G.

Since the case in favour of eating more eggs is such a good one, here are several recipes for tempting egg dishes.

TOMATO AND EGG RAREBIT

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups strained tomato
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1 cup grated cheese

Melt butter and mix in the flour. Gradually add tomato, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Then add seasonings and eggs. Cook 4 minutes. Add cheese and cook until cheese is melted. Serve at once on toast.

POACHED EGGS PROVINCIAL

2 large onions, chopped
1/2 cup cooking oil
2 cups tomato sauce
Pinch of thyme

Mix sauce for poached eggs by sauteing onions in oil until beginning to brown. Add tomato sauce, and thyme, and simmer until onions are soft. Pour egg and serve with sauce poured over eggs.

POTATO OMELETTE

1/2 cup milk
1 cup mashed potatoes
1 teaspoon onion juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper

Combine milk with mashed potatoes. Add onion juice, pepper and salt. Mix in beaten egg yolks. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into greased pan and cook until bottom is brown. Then place under broiler to brown top, and serve with bacon.

MUSHROOM-EGGS AND NOODLES

1/2 lb. mushrooms, chopped
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups milk
Seasonings
4 eggs

Saute mushrooms in butter; sprinkle with flour, add milk and seasonings to taste. Cook 3 minutes. Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender and drain. Place noodles in greased baking dish, making 4 depressions. Break eggs into depressions. Pour sauce over eggs and bake in moderate oven until eggs are Pretty hands and nails—that's the ambition of most girls once they become beauty-conscious. And one of the best ways to encourage this worthwhile beauty trait is to give her a manicure kit. She'll find it's fun to keep her nails polished and shapely.

Manicure Kit For Young Girl

By JACQUELINE HUNT

IN every mother's life there comes a day when she realises that the little girl who yesterday was her baby is beginning to think about being to-morrow's glamour-girl. Toward that end she's becoming hair-conscious, complexion-conscious and hand-conscious. Unless you are a very casual mother you have already taught your daughter a soap-and-water complexion ritual and simple comb-and-brush routine.

But what have you done about her hands? Teaching her to keep them clean is good as far as it goes. But it isn't enough. What about her cuticles? What about the skin texture? Now is the time to take advantage of her newly aroused interest in her looks and starting doing things about them. On her next birthday or as a reward for the good grooming steps she has already mastered, give her a manicure kit for her very own use. One containing manicure scissors, a good, flexible nail file, an emery board, a nail white pencil, a stick for pushing back the cuticle, and, nicest yet, a good looking buffer.

Next teach her to use these implements in a simple but consistent daily routine. Show her how to hold that file and how to use it to shape her small nails roundly, leaving a tiny rim of white. Show her how to use her nail brush under the nails and around them and then to soak her hands in warm soapsuds for a few minutes to soften the cuticles. Demonstrate the pushing back of the cuticles with the little stick gently so the nail root will not be injured to cause unsightly white spots.

Polish Brings Pride

Buy her some paste polish or even a cake of the dry variety and dab it on the nails yourself the first time—applying the buffer vigorously. Build from tips toward the cuticles, not across the grain of the nails, not across. After she glimpses the lovely lustre that results you won't have to do this again. She'll be proud to do it herself in the future. She will be equally pleased with the magic worked by the little nail white pencil so there will be no more grimy nail tips. The time to use the latter is just before drying her hands.

If you really want to teach her to do the job thoroughly, buy her a fragrant hand cream or perfumed hand lotion—or both if your budget allows. Little girls—like big ones—love pleasant odours and if you place these things within her reach, she soon will be helping herself to them after she has washed her hands. This will soon eliminate chapping, a condition that is common to all children.

For luxurious, once-in-a-while care, there is a fragrant nail oil which you can warm and apply to her fingertips to soften and help stimulate healthy nail growth. Of course, you should do this for yourself regularly! The easiest way to do it is to saturate flannel strips with it and wrap these around the fingers while preparing for the rest of her complete manicure.

Appeal to Her Vanity

If your daughter is really a problem child, preferring to dig in the soil, climb trees or jump rope to keeping herself dainty and feminine, try appealing to her vanity. Perhaps there are little girls who can resist the subtle argument of a long-coveted ring or bracelet, but they are rare. These needn't spoil her more careful—perhaps even to the point of remembering to put on gloves "just like mother" when she makes her garden.

Later on when she has her first long party dress, you can add as a reward for her faithful handgrooming a bottle of liquid nail enamel in a soft delicate pink for use only on these special occasions, of course.

Handkerchiefs Are Used As Novel Dress Tops

By ELEANOR GUNN

NEW YORK—Evening dresses, the folded-over bodices of which are made from handkerchiefs, are something new. Take a handkerchief that is from 15 to 20 inches square—one of the many beautifully printed ones—and you will, with a little practice, find that it can be draped into a good-looking dress top. The skirt worn would be plain. You will find also that handkerchiefs may be made into aprons, using either one or two large ones.

Another tricky little novelty is the apron with matching shawl! One such set made of open fishnet cotton is being sold around the square apron and shawl with contrasting wool. The set looks very well over a plain sports dress for, as I've tried to put across, shawls and aprons are very new for sports or play clothes but are also worn for gala occasions.

How about providing shawls for your bridesmaids if you are having bridesmaids in your family this June?

Ever so often purple, orchid, wistaria, violet and such shades suddenly appear and conquer the town. "Wistaria hysteria!" is one shop's announcement of this interesting event. It about describes the rush women make for these shades when they receive the slightest encouragement. The time seems ripe for a revival of them, but "green" grows the fashion! In another shop whose windows play up, among other greens, a "deep hot-blue-green."

Whatever your colour choice, let it be gay. The need for gay clothes was never greater and women can do their bit by wearing them.

As previously reported, cottons are having their hey-day, among them check gingham which seems a particularly happy choice now that checks are better than ever.

Skin Protection

If you turn pink instead of taking on a healthy tan under the sun, then use a heavy tinted cream or a good liquid powder that will protect you. And use a soothing cream at night.

WATCHING RUSSIA

London, June 25. In the Commons to-day Mr. Dalton, Minister of Economic Warfare, stated at question time that the decline in imports of war materials through Vindivostok had continued. However, he was still keeping a constant watch on that trade.

Mr. G. L. M. Mander will give you an assurance that you will co-operate in the closest possible manner with the Ambassador at Moscow?

Mr. Dalton: I'll gladly give that assurance. This, of course, is one of the matters which have already taken up with the Soviet Authorities—Reuter.

BEAUTY TREATMENT

HOMÉ beauty culture will make you look more beautiful so why not spend a few minutes every day in acquiring a charming appearance. Top left: Take care of the ugly hard lines which appear round the nose and mouth. An effective massage is illustrated above. Use a light tapping massage with an upward movement.

Below: Relax the mind and body completely for some minutes during the day. This is as effective as any beauty treatment. It makes the tired lines and that worried look disappear.

Top right: A rubber brush for scrubbing the face is one of the best methods of toning up the circulation. It should be done every morning with quick upward movements.

For Your Lapel

AMONG the latest dress accessories are brooches made in the form of military epaulettes.

They are of gilt and have shiny gold fringes. They are just the thing to wear in your lapel, on pocket flaps or upon your shoulders. There are necklaces of choicer length to match made of flexible gold with a large double epaulette motif in front—also complete with gold fringes.

Musical Boxes

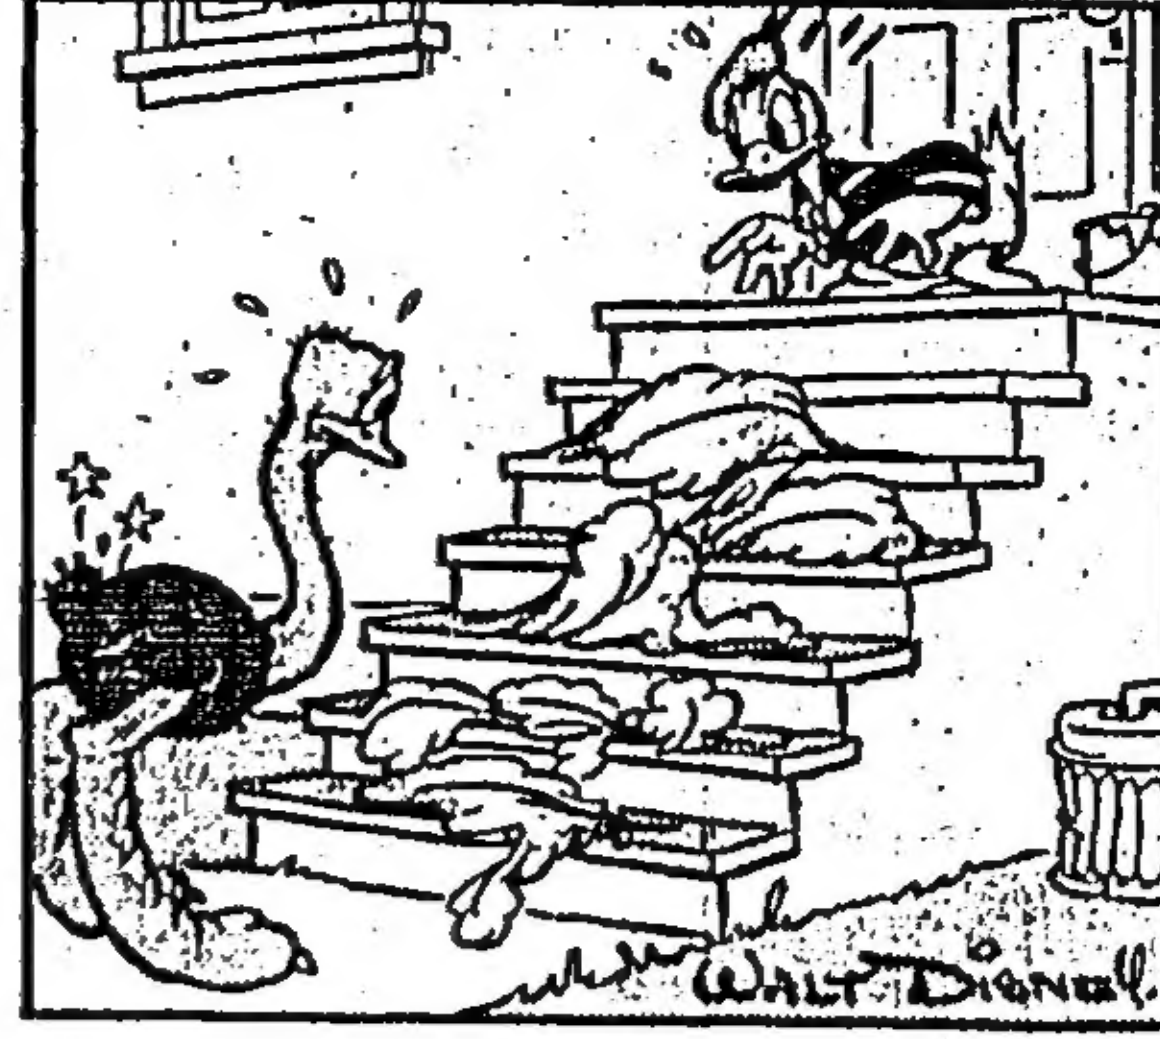

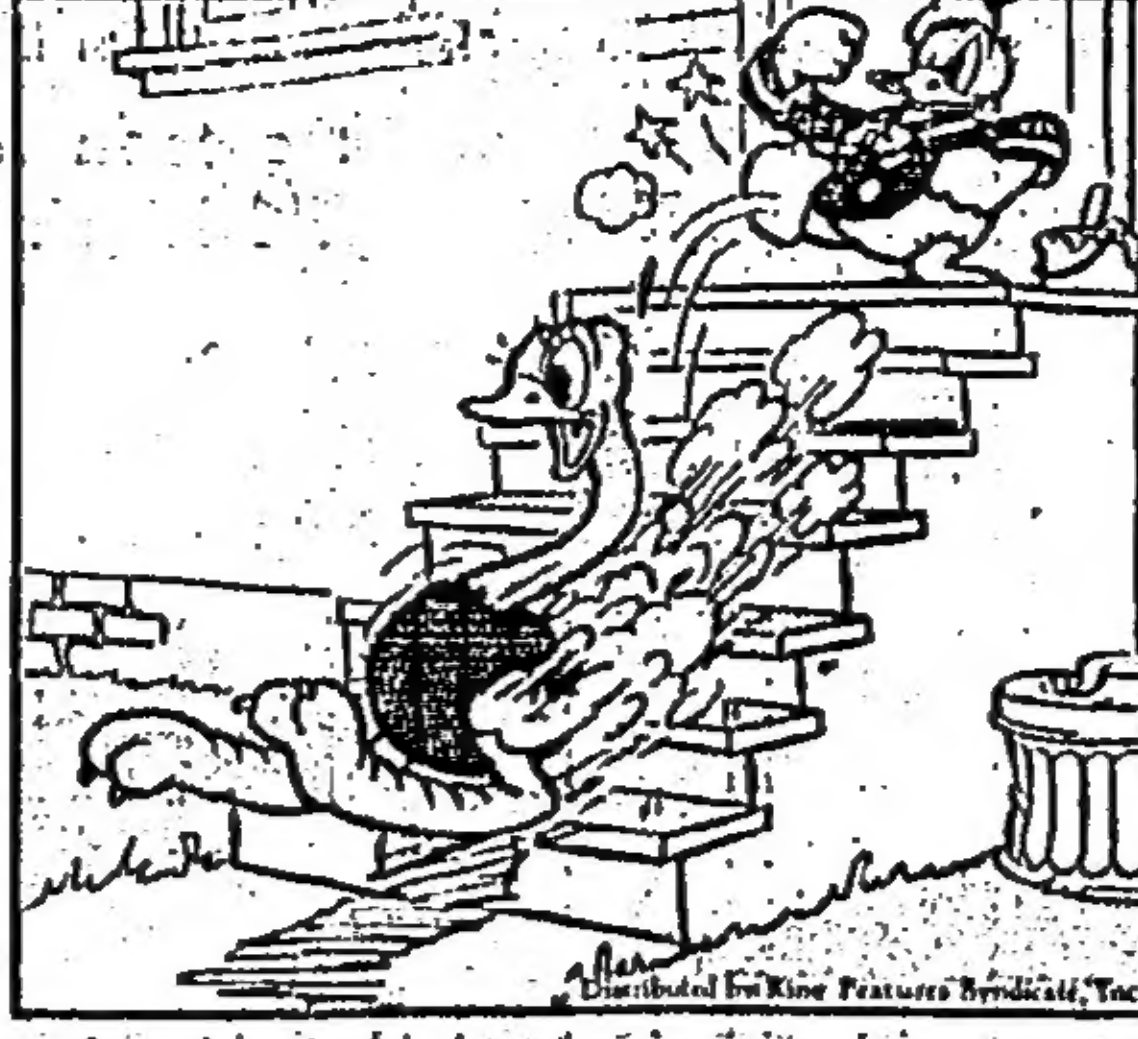

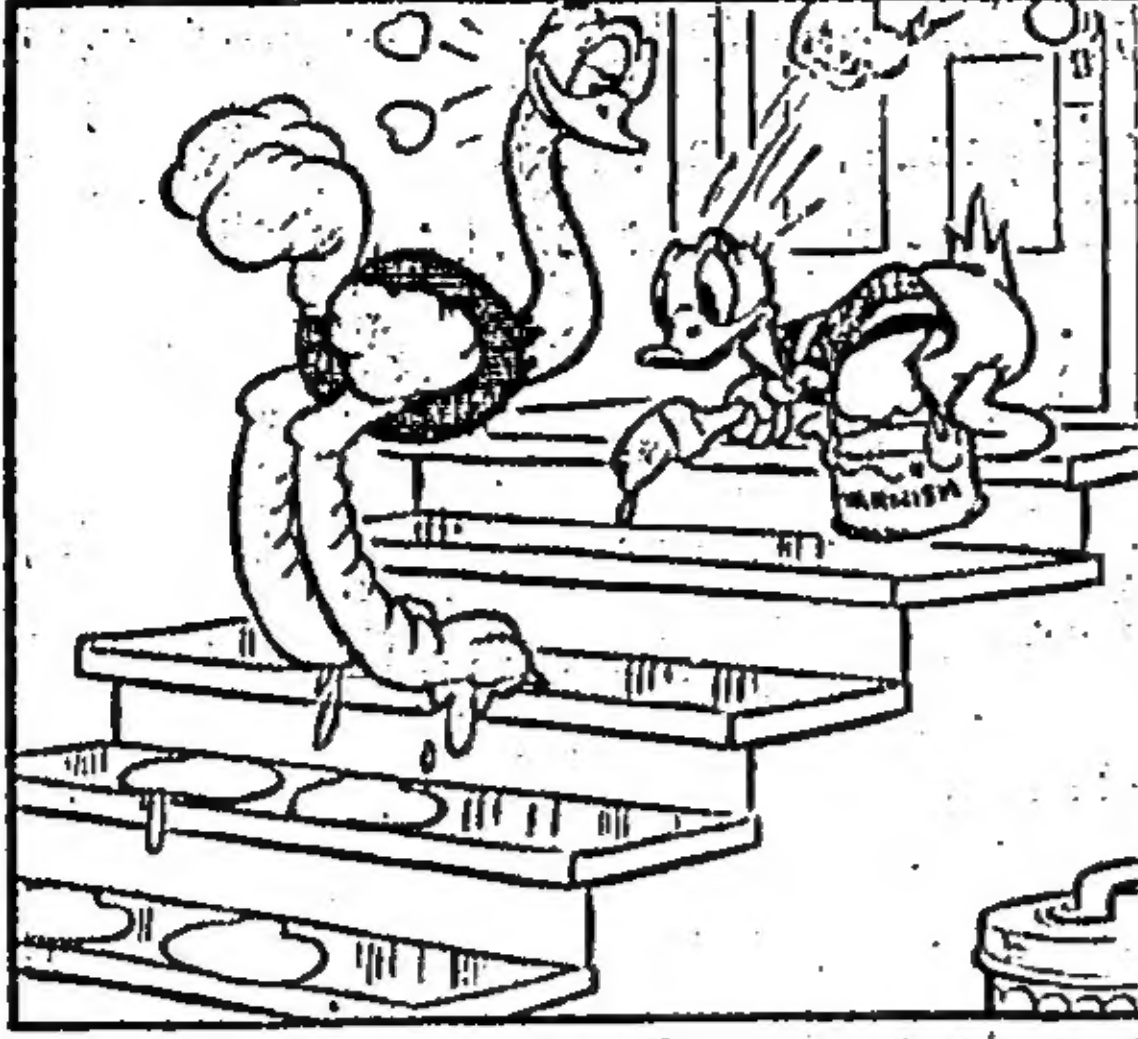

TASTES seem less sophisticated nowadays than of heretofore. We find amusement in all sorts of simple little things.

Perhaps that is why so many people are bringing out from retirement musical boxes of various kinds. One very popular one is in the form of a cigarette box. It has a china lid, attractively decorated with painted figures. When it is lifted the box plays an amusing tinkling little tune.

Colours Harmonize

VIVIAN Donner, the fashion commentator, recently appeared at an afternoon party in a soft olive green frock with matching gilet but trimmed with pale yellow and fuchsia flowers. A short snood held the hat over her dark curls. Her lipstick was matched to the fuchsia-red of her flowers; her complexion powder a clear, rosy tone to make the costume colour more flattering.

NEW NAZI TRICK ON THEIR RADIO

The Germans are employing a new radio trick in an effort to cause anxiety in England.

Recently they broadcast the names of several British naval ratings who have been taken prisoner.

This same names, those of men from the destroyer Glowworm, were given over the German radio several weeks ago. The relatives of the men have long since received the official intimation from the Admiralty of their capture.

It is obvious that the names have been repeated, not as a reassuring gesture to the men's families, but to

FRENCH ACTION

Churchill Tells Of British Part

London, June 25. Rising at 3.47 p.m. to-day to make his latest war statement in the House of Commons, the Prime Minister, Mr. Churchill, said:

"The House will feel profound sorrow at the fate of the great French nation and the people to whom we have been joined so long in war and peace and whom we have regarded as trustees with ourselves for the progress of liberal, cultured and tolerant civilisation in Europe. There is no use or advantage in wasting strength and power upon hard words and reproaches. We hope that that strength and power will be given to us to rescue France from the ruin and bondage into which she has been cast by a mighty enemy and other causes. (Cheers.)

"But, relying upon the true genius of the French people and their judgment upon what has happened to them when they are allowed to know the facts, we shall endeavour to keep such contacts as are possible through the bars of their prison.

"Meanwhile, we must look to our own salvation and effectual defence, upon which, not only the British, but the French and European and the fortunes of the whole world depend.

"The safety of Britain and the British Empire is powerfully, though not decisively, affected by what happened to the French fleet. When it became clear that the defeat and subjugation of France were imminent and that the fine army, upon which so many hopes were set, was retreating under the German advance, M. Reynaud, courageous Prime Minister of France, asked me to meet him at Tours, which I did on June 13, accompanied by the Foreign Secretary and Lord Beaverbrook, Minister of Aircraft Production.

"I see that some accounts have been given of these conversations with the French Government which do not at all correspond with the facts. We have, of course, the record kept by one of the Cabinet secretaries who was in attendance, but I do not propose to go into this at any length.

Separate Peace Request

"M. Reynaud, after dwelling upon the conditions at the front and the state of the French army, with which I was well acquainted, asked me whether Britain would release France from her obligation not to negotiate for an armistice or peace without the consent of her British ally. Although I knew how great the French sufferings were and that we had not so far endured equal trials or made an equal contribution in the field, I felt bound to say that I could not give our assent, but that it would be no use in adding mutual reproaches to other things we might have to bear.

"We agreed that a further appeal should be made by M. Reynaud to the United States and that if the reply were not sufficient to enable him to go on with the fight, then we should meet again and take a decision in the light of the new facts. On June 16 I received a message from M. Reynaud, who had then moved to Bordeaux, to say that the American response was not satisfactory and requesting a formal release for France from her obligation under the Anglo-French agreement.

"Cabinet immediately convened and we sent a message of which I shall not give the full text, but the general substance was that separate negotiations, whether for an armistice or peace, depended upon the agreement made with the French Republic and not any particular administrative or statements. They therefore involved the honour of France.

"However, in view of all one saw of all they had suffered and the forces evidently working upon them, it was intimated that, provided the French fleet was dispatched to British ports and remained there while negotiations were conducted, His Majesty's Government would give its consent to the French Government asking what terms of armistice would be open to them.

"It was also made clear that His Majesty's Government was resolved to continue the war and to cut itself out of association with any inquiries for an armistice."

Need For Parliament

Mr. Horre-Belisha said he considered the Prime Minister's statement showed the absolute necessity at these times of carrying Parliament with them at every stage.

"Is it not inconceivable that this great surrender could have been made had the French Parliament been in session and had public opinion, as expressed through the Press, not been subjected to rigorous censorship?" he asked.

"Will the Prime Minister assure us—as I am sure he has the matter at heart—that in this country Parliament and the free Press will be maintained so that the Government will not be cut off from the stimulus and inspiration of the patriotic elements in the country?"

Mr. Churchill: It was certainly no fault of the French Parliament that it was not in session.

Mr. Horre-Belisha: I agree. Mr. Churchill: And it certainly was no fault of the French Press that it was not able to comment on these matters. It was driven pell mell from its seat by the rapid advance of the enemy. I trust that measures we shall take will prevent any similar experience overtaking my honourable friend or the British Parliament. Arrangements have been made which I cannot conceive will be necessary, but which are very carefully worked out to enable Parliament to continue to be the guide, corrector and support of His Majesty's Government and for the Press also to play its functions in all the vicissitudes which may lie before us. (Cheers.)

Pressed by Mr. J. Maxton (Independent Labour) to explain how M. Reynaud's cabinet had been removed and from where the Petain Government derived its authority, Mr. Churchill said:

"It certainly cannot do so in a word. It is a very difficult matter to understand the politics of another country; it sometimes is very hard to understand the politics of one's own. (Laughter.)

Asked by Sir Percy Harris (Liberal) for an assurance that at an early date there would be an opportunity for a full, free and frank discussion of the whole situation, Mr. Churchill said he was very much in favour of such a discussion, in public if possible and in secret if necessary. (Cheers.)

According to United Press, Mr. Churchill said it was clear from the Armistice that the French fleet would pass to the control of Germany and Italy fully armed.

REFRESHER CLASS

Medical Men Give Dinner To Professors

A social evening was held on Monday at the premises of the Hongkong University Alumni Association, in the form of a Chinese dinner. It was the occasion of the end of a refresher course, and was given by medical graduates of Hongkong University and medical graduates of Canton University, to the medical professors and lecturers of Hongkong University.

Dr. Eugene de Souza welcomed Professor and Mrs. Gordon King and Professor R. C. Robertson on behalf of the medical graduates, and thanked the Professors for their very patient and effective teaching, also that done by their assistants. He also mentioned the old days of the Hongkong College of Medicine, not so well staffed and equipped. It was very fortunate that the present undergraduates and graduates were receiving very good teaching and instruction at the University, by able men. He remembered the day when Major General Sir William Gascoigne, Officer Administering the Government, presented a microscope to the College of Medicine, saying that of all the professions that of the healing of the sick came first.

Professor King in thanking Dr. de Souza also thanked the hosts for the dinner, and promised to repeat the class next year: perhaps some of the lectures would take place at night, to suit medical practitioners who would not be able to attend in the day. Professor Robertson in a humorous speech mentioned an experience he had in pathology.

A group photograph was taken after dinner, and it was a very enjoyable evening in a friendly atmosphere.

MILITARY WEDDING

Lance-Cpl. J. E. Carter And Miss B. Wilson

The wedding took place at St. John's Cathedral yesterday between Lance-Cpl. John Ernest Carter, R.E., and Miss Berenice Wilson. The Rev. S. Hinchcliffe, S.C.P., officiated and Mr. J. R. M. Smith was at the organ.

The bride is the youngest daughter of the late Mr. Thomas Wilson, and Mrs. Wilson of King's Lynn, Norfolk. Prior to her marriage she was governess to the children of Captain and Mrs. Neve, of 25 Peak Mansions.

The bridegroom is the third son of Mr. and Mrs. James William Carter, of Grimsby, Lincolnshire.

The couple are both well-known at the Cheero Club. The bridegroom has for some time helped with dances, acting as master of ceremonies.

Arriving on the arm of C. S. M. Bartlett, R.E., by whom she was given away, the bride looked charming in pale mauve lace with wine accessories and a corsage of hydrangea flowers and gladioli.

She was attended by the Misses Avril Neve and Rosemary Prior, as bridesmaids. They wore powder blue frocks, and had wreaths of mauve and blue hydrangea flowers in their hair, and carried Victorian posies to match.

Mrs. Neve, as matron-of-honour, wore a smart black frock with white accessories.

Sergeant Lewis undertook the duties of best man.

Hour Of Destiny

THE people of Britain are living to-day through one of the supreme moments of their history, and indeed of all history. The future of our island and Empire, of the French and all democracies, of the very spirit of freedom among mankind, stands in the balance. At such an hour there is only one virtue for us all, and that is courage; only one vice, and that is to breathe the word defeat.

The news is black. No good can come of dissembling the facts. The German onslaught, propelled with unprecedented weight of machinery and explosive, burst with terrific speed through Holland, Belgium and the defences of France and the Channel ports. To protect these ports from enemy hands has been a cardinal point of British politics and strategy down the centuries. Possession of them has given the Nazis tremendous advantages for a war by sea and air against Britain. The peril of invasion has come nearer than at any time for close on a thousand years.

That is the debit side, and it is heavy. All the more reason, then, to steel our resolve and "summon up the blood." Our Navy stands supreme, our heroic Air Force grows. The great nation of the United States is awakening from its isolation, and help in ever-increasing strength will soon be on its way across the ocean.

The enemy has achieved his success by the sheer weight of mechanism. Against its overwhelming force no courage, however inspired, no sacrifice, however splendid, is enough to bar the way. We have lived to see the day, prophesied by successive thinkers since the industrial age began, when machines have veritably become the master. What is the answer? More machines, more planes, more tanks, more guns and munitions to rout and destroy the Frankenstein at his own nightmare game. Then, when the terror is over, we can rebuild again a world of sane, free men.

The duty of every man, therefore, at this hour is to fight and to work as never before in our history. To this must be added the duty of stern courage, whatever blows may strike us—and they will be grim. There is only one treachery to-day—to betray the courage that defends the freedom of man. As individuals we are but sparks in the great fire-stream of history; the spirit that moulded our people to greatness was the spirit of liberty, and so long as that is kept alive for our sons to cherish, what befalls each one of us in its defence is of small account.

William Forrest, London "News Chronicle" War Correspondent who has seen for himself the effect behind the lines on the civil population of Hitler's Blitzkrieg, here says:

COOL HEADS ARE THE NEED OF THE MOMENT

THE scene was a cafe struck a dramatic pose and in one of the Channel ports in France now threatened by the Nazis.

After a sleepless night of non-stop bombing the townspeople were coming up from their cellars or coming down from the cliffs. Car-loads of exhausted refugees were resuming their journey to the south, which spelled safety.

Into the cafe, where I was having breakfast with some of my colleagues, came a French Boy Scout, breathless with excitement. "On dit que les Allemands sont deja a Abbeville," he shouted.

A group of refugees, sitting at the next table, sprang to their feet, exchanged glances of paralytic fear, then dashed into the street, and vanished.

Two of the waitresses began to run round in circles, wringing their hands.

The third waitress, a middle-aged woman, looked scornfully at them for a moment, then

"They say that the Germans are in Abbeville. Who says so? It is the traitor of Stuttgart (the French-born Haw-Haw who broadcasts from Radio Stuttgart). Don't believe a word of his abominable propaganda. I have a husband and even brothers at the front. With millions of other French soldiers they stand between us and the Boche."

IT was magnificent, but of no avail. Looking out of the window we saw that the refugee cars which an hour or so before had been speeding south towards Abbeville were now streaming back. Escape to the south was cut off.

The refugees moved fast—without bound they could not tell—but the dread news moved faster. Panic seized the town.

Shops and cafes closed down at the last of the bombers had gone, the survivors, instead of enjoy-that were getting up steam to leave.

In a few minutes we were left alone in our cafe with the waitress who had denounced the alarmists. As soon as we had paid our bill she began to put up the shutters. Panic-mongering had prevailed against pep-talking the respite, had to endure this further strain on their frayed nerves.

The delayed-action bomb does no more material damage than another bomb, but its effect on morale is immeasurably worse. Or take the lone tanks which prowled far in advance of the main enemy mechanised column: At night a village went to bed with the comforting thought that the vanguard of the enemy was still 50 or 60 miles away. In the morning it would awaken to the sound of machine-gun fire and see a Nazi tank career-ing towards it.

The villagers don't wait to find out whether the tank was followed by others. "The Boches are coming," went up the cry, and the villagers took to flight. The tank, of course, was doomed to destruction. Sooner or later its career was stopped by an anti-tank gun; but the loss of one tank was far outweighed by the damage it had done—not, I repeat, the material but the psychological damage.

Panic was sown all along the line of its wild suicide adventure. Thousands went to swell the stream of refugees. Roads were blocked worse than ever before. Another handicap had been placed on the mobility of the Allied forces.

We Must Understand What Has Happened

IN determining the best course we can take, it is of the first importance to understand how its results have been attained.

There is a fundamental difference between the method on which the offensive in France was carried out and that of 1914. I am not referring to the fact that it took the form of a penetration of the French centre followed by a turn outwards to the right towards the coast, whereas the 1914 offensive was a sweeping advance round the French coastward flank followed by a swing inwards to the left. Nor is it merely that the means have greatly developed from those employed a quarter of a century ago. These differences are not fundamental.

Far more striking is the way that the Germans realised, and exploited, the decisive importance of machine-power compared with man-power.

The basic in their success was that, instead of relying on masses as in 1914, they pinned their faith to the penetrative power of a highly-mechanised force manned by relatively small numbers—to quality rather than quantity.

It would appear that three armoured divisions, operating in conjunction with perhaps 300 dive-bombers and backed up by a few motorised divisions, made the breach which shook the defences of France. The number of men employed in this vital thrust was but a tiny fraction of the total arrayed along the frontiers.

The German advance of 1914 may be likened to an invading tide of Marching men; the advance of 1940 to a torrent of machines. On meeting a dam the torrent makes a crack, penetrates it and expands again beyond until another dam is met, when the process is repeated.

While we are now coming to talk about "total warfare," shouting the term as if it were a new slogan to save thought, the Germans have progressed a stage beyond it—by exploiting the conception of "qualitative warfare."

Their conscript masses have helped to mask from us the significance of the special skeleton keys which they were forging for their purpose.

It was through the use of picked forces with the essential character of volunteers that they paved the way for their startling achievements. The men composing these key forces comprised only a small fraction of their total man power. These chosen men, who fulfilled the "Gideon" principle, represented by the tank crews, the aircraft crews and the parachutists.

Yet their conception is not such a novelty as it may appear to most of our statesmen and public. It is merely an advance to the stage which was reached by our more advanced military thinkers soon after the last war.

What the German Command did was to put into practice ideas from which it was not too proud to learn, whereas our own authorities, trusting them as untried "theories," considered it safer to keep in the familiar rut.

There is nothing so unsafe for a nation as military conservatism.

IT is altogether the new art of war which was applied on the battle-scarred fields of France and Flanders. The art was developed in Spain and Poland. It was perfected. It was satanic in its subtlety.

Among the factors which contributed to the success of War Lord Adolf I put Panic one of the first.

Cool heads are, therefore, decidedly the need of the moment in England.

$5,000,000 Arms Works Being Built

By A Parliamentary Correspondent

SOME idea of the size of munition factories now being built, and the speed at which they are going up, was given by Colonel Llewellyn (Parliamentary Secretary, Ministry of Supply) in the House recently.

One factory, he said, covered 2,000 acres. It had miles of roads and railways, and its own station on the railway line adjoining. With equipment it would cost $5,000,000.

In spite of the vast scale of the undertaking it was expected that the factory would be finished in one year.

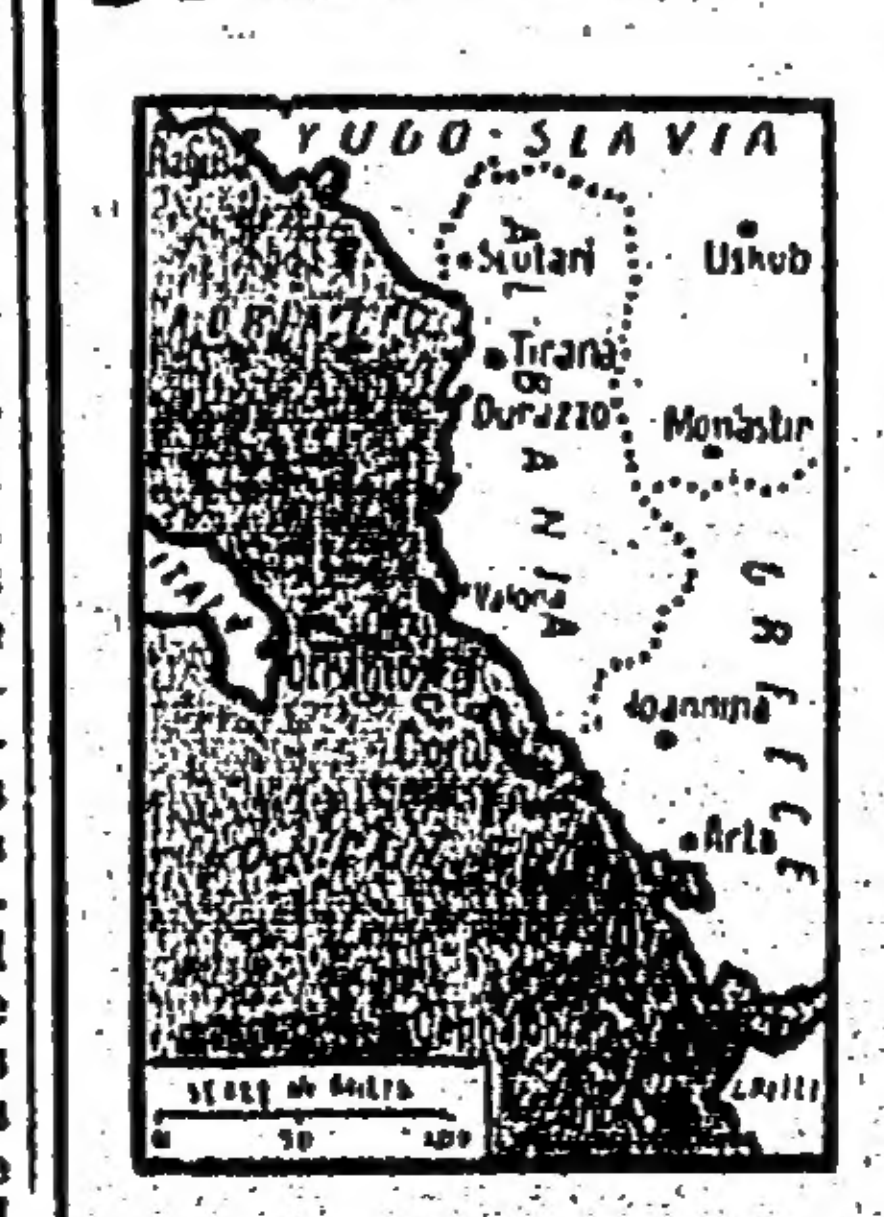

Allegations Denied

The factory was mentioned during a discussion of allegations of dishonesty and malpractices in the building of factories, and militia camps brought before the House by Mr. R. Stokes (Lab., Ipswich).

The allegations were denied both by Colonel Llewellyn and Sir Edward Grigg (Parliamentary Secretary, War Office). Inquiries made by various authorities, said Sir Edward, had found no case for further inquiry, but the papers had been sent to the Select Committee concerned with expenditure who could decide if any further investigation was needed.

Dealing with the case of Major Rold-Kollett, who was said to have been discharged by the War Office because he had drawn attention to alleged waste and extravagance in the building of camps, Sir Edward said no foundation for the charge had been found, but he was prepared to look personally into the matter.

R.A.F. Attack Nazi Supply Depots WIDESPREAD RAIDS ON GERMANY

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—An Air Ministry communique states: "Yesterday, our bombers, although hampered by bad visibility, attacked aerodromes at Eindhoven, Scipol and Waalhaven, which are the bases in occupied Dutch territory from which enemy bombers can set out to attack this country."

"The operations were continued during the night. Scipol was again attacked and also the aerodrome at Delooy."

"Aerodromes at Muhlheim and at Kessen Westphalia were also bombed."

Naval Base Raided
"Other formations of our bombers attacked the naval base at Helder, where explosions and fires were caused."

"At Dortmund, an oil deposit and marshalling yards were bombed and also targets at Kamen, east of Dortmund, and Kassel, where the aircraft works were set on fire."

"Aerodrome buildings and aircraft works at Deichhausen, near Bremen, were also attacked."

"Other aircraft bombed Dortmund-Ems Canal, where the lock-gates and barges were hit."

"Railway junctions and stations near Emmerich, between the Ruhr and the Dutch frontier, were also damaged."

Planes Return Safely

SUPERB COURAGE

Brilliant R.A.F. Pilot
Awarded The D.S.O.

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—A remarkable story of personal dash and courage is revealed in the announcement of the award of the D.S.O. to Flight Lieutenant Soden, who is at present missing.

Flight Lieutenant Soden's flight was ordered to France at short notice and during the following two days he acted as leader in many combats against the enemy. He personally shot down five enemy aircraft and possibly two more, while his flight destroyed a further seven.

Attacked 50 Planes
On one occasion, Flight Lieutenant Soden attacked, single-handed, between 50 and 60 enemy fighters, destroying one of them.

On another occasion, while his aerodrome was being heavily bombed, Flight Lieutenant Soden jumped from the shelter of a trench, climbed into the nearest fighter aircraft without knowing whether it was fully fuelled or armed and, despite the presence of delayed action bombs on the aerodrome, which was covered in smoke, he took off and attacked a greatly superior force.

Flight Lieutenant Soden is a Londoner, aged 23.

Trade Pact With Soviet Discussions Still In Progress

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary of State, was asked if he were now in a position to make a statement regarding the negotiation of a trade agreement with Russia.

In replying, Mr. Butler said that discussions were at present in progress.

"It is not possible," he continued, "to make a more detailed statement at this moment except that they are now willing to resume diplomatic relations with the British Government."

Invitation Received
"The invitation from the Russian Government is receiving careful consideration."

"I am not in a position to make any statement regarding the nature of our reply."

Mr. W. Thorne (Labour) suggested that the matter be speeded up and a settlement arrived at as early as possible.

"The Government fully realise the importance of the matter," declared Mr. Butler.

Mexico was now willing to resume diplomatic relations with the British Government, Mr. Butler said.

House Of Commons
Statement

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary of State, was asked what was now the position in the Dutch East Indies.

He was also asked what discussions, if any, had taken place either with the Japanese Government or with the United States Government or with both concerning any possible developments arising from the removal of the Dutch Government to London.

Nothing To Report
In replying, Mr. Butler said: "There is nothing to report from the Netherlands East Indies where the situation is normal."

"The Government have made known their desire that the status quo in the Netherlands East Indies should be preserved."

"Declarations in the same sense have been made separately and independently by the Governments of the United States and Japan."

Japan Sends Her Fleet

Tokyo, June 25.

The Imperial Headquarters say that announcements have been made regarding dispatch of part of the Japanese Fleet to South China waters and to Halphong to "watch for the time being conditions of the transportation of goods to China via Indo-China."—United Press.

Japanese Inspectors
Tokyo, June 25.

Final arrangements for the dispatch of Japanese inspectors to French Indo-China in accordance with the Franco-Japanese agreement for the prohibition of transportation of goods and materials through Indo-China to Chungking, have been made as the result of the joint conference between the War, Navy and Foreign Offices on Monday.

The Foreign Office at noon today issued the following statement: "The Japanese Government has decided to send a number of military experts and the Legation First Secretary, Mr. Takeshi Yanagisawa, former Japanese Consul-General at Hanoi, Mr. Ushio Munemura, and others to French Indo-China, who will be assisted by several members of the Japanese Consulate-General at Hanoi."

"Part of the Japanese inspectors will shortly leave for the spot. Pending arrival of the Japanese inspectors, a number of Japanese military and naval officers and non-commissioned officers will be sent to Hanoi by a Japanese warship in order to observe the actual conditions of the stoppage of the transportation of materials and goods to China through Indo-China."

"The categories of materials and goods to be prohibited from being sent to China through French Indo-China will be determined after investigations by military experts on the spot, pending which the Japanese Legation at Hanoi will be notified."

Mr. Haruhiko Nishi, the Director of the European and Asiatic Affairs Bureau of the Foreign Office, that the Governor-General of French Indo-China has decided to continue the general inspection of the frontiers of French Indo-China."

It is understood that the Japanese inspectors representing the Foreign Office, the Army and the Navy will total about 40. They will leave Japan for Hanoi in a few days.

The headquarters of the Japanese inspectors will be established in the Japanese Consulate-General at Hanoi.

The Army Department of the Imperial General Headquarters announced at noon to-day that the Army will send 25 inspectors including Major-General Isamu Nishihara, commander of the party, who will be accompanied by several attaches.

The Navy Department of the Imperial Headquarters announced that part of the Japanese fleet in South China will be detailed to Halphong to inspect the conditions of the transportation of materials and goods through Indo-China.

It is further announced that the Navy will send seven inspectors to Indo-China including Captain Kuratsune Yanagisawa, Commander Junichi Negi and Lt. Commander Takeshi Fukuda.

Part of the group of Japanese inspectors for Indo-China will leave here by air to-morrow.—Domel.

army concentrations on the island itself.

There has been no official pronouncement yet by the Governor General of French Indo-China but it is believed that the French colony, although no longer able to rely on support from the Motherland, will certainly resist any Japanese attempt to enter Halphong or to land troops on French soil.

It is pointed out in this connection that a not inconsiderable part of the French navy, including cruisers and submarines, is stationed in Indo-China waters.

Floods On Frontier
Meanwhile, the 1,500 Japanese troops stationed along the Hongkong frontier are shoudering this morning in the heaviest floods experienced in the Shum Chun district for many years.

The Shum Chun River has overflowed its banks at several points, inundating the surrounding countryside. Parts of Shum Chun itself are reported to be under water and the highway between Shum Chun and Namtau, which the Japanese have been repairing with conscript Chinese labour, is under water at several points.

Except for Japanese planes lazily reconnoitring for Chinese troop movements, there are no signs of military activity along the frontier.

A "Domel" message this morning, however, claimed that Japanese forces yesterday entered Pingshan, 14 miles north-east of Shumchun.

The message indicates that it is the intention of the Japanese forces to occupy the entire border area from Namtau to Mira Bay.

It is reported that the two bridges across the Shum Chun River will be dismantled by the military authorities to-day. These bridges were dismantled in August last year, but were repaired after the Japanese evacuated the frontier area.

Appeal For Refugees
Mr. Chan Kam-po, Chairman of the Po On Chamber of Commerce, who is now in Hongkong, has appealed to local Chinese circles to donate funds to relieve the large number of refugees who fled into the New Territories after the fall of Namtau and Shumchun.

The evacuation was carried out in orderly fashion some of the refugees withdrew with the Chinese troops while the rest fled across the border into the New Territories.

People sat down on the benches and found it rather like being in a bus—wondering when it was going to start. They were not very talkative, except for one man who decided he was the war of the party. Most of them began to doze off until the shelter looked like a railway station waiting room.

They heard no bombs or anti-aircraft fire, though some planes passed overhead.

Then after a couple of hours the sirens blew the all-clear.

They all got up and trooped back across the street to bed, except for one Canadian observer who mounted his bicycle and peddled down the street under the glare of spot and helmeted wardens, to report at the microphone that after all really nothing had happened.

Release Of Prisoners
Article 19 requires the release not only of German war prisoners but of civilians "detained for acts in favour of the German Reich." This Article adds that the French Government must hand over all Germans named by the German Government who are residing in France and in the French Colonies, protectorates and mandated territories.

The French Government undertakes to prevent the removal of German military and civilian prisoners from France to French possessions or abroad.

The complete lists will be submitted of all prisoners who have already been taken outside France as well as German war prisoners who are sick or wounded and are incapable of being transported.

FRENCH RADIO BREAKS DOWN

NEW YORK, June 25 (Reuter).—The Radio Corporation of America and the press wireless circuits between New York and Bordeaux suddenly went silent to-day.

It is believed that this is due to the German jamming restrictions on French transmitters.

NAIROBI, June 25 (Reuter).—A communiqué issued to-day states that all is quiet on all fronts.

SHOES for GOLF and HIKING

LOTUS "DORMEONE" SHOES are very old and tried favourites. They have two special features—the LOW HEEL and the "DORMEONE" STRAP.

The heel is only 3/4" high. This means that the weight of the body is thrown well back and a correct stance is enforced. Almost as good as the ideal—the barefoot stance.

The "DORMEONE" strap acts like a veritable extra ligament, bracing the arch of the foot constantly and taking away the strain of the low heel. It is adjustable both for position and tension. It permits a full day's golf or hiking without foot fatigue.

DUPLICATE STATEMENT

House Of Lords Hears
Churchill Explanation

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—A statement similar to Mr. Winston Churchill's in the House of Commons was made by Viscount Caldecote, Leader of the House of Lords, to-day.

In the course of his statement, Lord Caldecote emphasised that in both the occupied and unoccupied regions of France, "Marshal Petain and his colleagues are held tight in the grip of the enemy. The real governors of France will be found in Berlin, not Paris."

Difficult Relations
Britain's formal relations with the Government of France, he said, were now bound to be very difficult and were actually full of danger. In fact, they might prove actually full of danger. In fact, they might prove actually impossible, save with the consent of Germany, that any such relations should exist at all.

"With sorrow I am afraid that it must be recognised that the French submission has made the severance of formal relations between France and Great Britain for the time being almost inevitable."

"But I am empowered to give an assurance that if there are any contacts which can be maintained, His Majesty's Government will lose no opportunity."

Importance Of French Fleet
Discussing the fate of the French Fleet, Lord Caldecote said no one would be unaware of the powerful aid which the Fleet could bring either to Germany or to Great Britain.

"Our defences would indeed, in part, depend upon the ships which had still quite lately been operating in the Mediterranean with the Royal Navy. It would be more than a misfortune and cause for shame if the forces so lately used in the service of the Allies were to be transferred to the enemies of France and ourselves."

In conclusion, Lord Caldecote hoped that the French Empire in many parts of the world would be more than a misfortune and cause for shame if the forces so lately used in the service of the Allies were to be transferred to the enemies of France and ourselves."

He declared that the superior initiative and skill of "our troops in the Middle East has established, in that part of the field, a definite supremacy over the lackey and ally of Germany."

"The feat of the trawler with a four-inch gun in subduing an Italian submarine may be regarded as typical of that supremacy."

WOMEN GOLFERS CONTRIBUTE TO WAR FUND

Schoolgirl Overcomes The Champions At Royal Mid-Surrey

(By "Birdie")

RUSHING IN from all parts of Britain, and snatching brief holidays from their war-work, over 130 women golfers, including the champions (past, present and future) took part in a grand tournament at the Royal Mid-Surrey course organised by the "Daily Sketch" in aid of the British War Fund just over a month ago.

Included were Miss Pam Barton (the champion), Miss Wanda Morgan (1935 British champion and international), Miss Molly Gourlay (1926 and 1929 English champion and international), Mrs. A. C. Critchley, formerly Miss Diana Fishwick (1930 British champion, 1932 English champion and international), Miss Doris Chambers (1923 British champion and international) and Miss Beatrice Perry (nine times winner of Tasmanian title).

But Miss Maureen Ruttle, 17-year-old schoolgirl at Parkstone, overcame this formidable field with a very fine 75 (two over Par).

This champion of the future jumped to fame a couple of years ago when she made herself the stumbling block for several of the "stars" in the Open. Being still at school, she has only her week-ends for golf, but since the war began she has played in 15 competitions and has won all of them! She went out in a perfect 36, but the bunkers at the 10th put a 5 on her card and she came home with 39.

Wanda Morgan was second with 77, which was a magnificent effort considering that this, as was the case with many of the others, was her first time of swinging a club since August last year. Molly Gourlay returned a gallant 70 in her first game since last August, but Pam Barton was among the "also rans" with 81.

How essential practice is Miss Barton learned at the 10th. For a champion to take two out of a bunker might cause comment; three might create an article—but sympathise with the champion for she took four to get out of the sand at the 10th!

However, it was the game and the cause that mattered. This was a reunion of players who had not seen each other since last year, and medals were provided for all to commemorate the occasion.

Henry Cotton, whose wife took part in the tournament, augmented the proceeds with the auction of a set of clubs from seven authentic champions—himself, James Braid, J. H. Taylor, Sandy Herd, Arthur Havers, Alfred Padgham and R. Whitcombe.

COTTON turned up just after his wife had finished.

Said Mrs. Cotton: "I have walked 27,329 kilometres watching you play golf, and you can't turn up in time to watch me."

Said Mr. Cotton when asked why he did not carry his wife's clubs:

(1) that he did not want to be accused of putting his wife in a position of lawfully taking his advice;

Tests For Soviet Sportsmen

MOSCOW, June 18 (Reuter).—Soviet sportsmen are undergoing tests for the "ready, for labour and defence" badge.

In addition to 14 tests in running, swimming, skiing and other sports the new schedule includes six exercises to test the competitor's strength, agility, courage, speed, endurance and accuracy.

In the test for courage, for example, candidate may choose between parachute jumping, rope-walking or climbing a difficult mountain.

Tennis Postponed

The League tennis matches arranged for yesterday were cancelled owing to the sudden condition of the grounds.

(2) that he did not want to do a caddy out of a job;
(3) that he didn't want to have a domestic scene on the course by having his wife refuse his advice, as she certainly would.

THE leading scores of the Tournament were:

Seratch.—Miss M. Ruttle 75, Miss W. Morgan 77, Miss L. Leaver 78, Miss I. Duxford 79, Miss M. Gourlay 79, Mrs. Revvink and Mrs. J. Beck 80, Miss Pam Barton 81.
Silver Division (Handicap).—Mrs. Black 89—12—71, Mrs. S. E. Lawrence 84—13—71, Mrs. C. R. Armstrong 81—9—72.
Bronze Division (Handicap).—Miss M. Turquand 101—33—69, Miss M. Abbott 97—19—78, Miss C. Rizoul 97—19—78, Mrs. Houston 105—27—78, Mrs. S. Parker 105—27—78.

ANOTHER news item from Home is that arrangements for the "News Chronicle" £500 Tournament have been completed, and will be held on the East Brighton course on September 4, 5 and 6.

There will, however, be a new order this year. The competition will be open to professional and amateurs with handicaps of 3 or less, and will be in the nature of an unofficial championship as the Open is unlikely to be played this year. Alfred Padgham, now a wartime policeman, won last August with an aggregate of 279 for 72 holes.

Apart from the £500 prize money for the professionals, there will be prizes for the three leading amateurs. All the proceeds will be shared by the Red Cross and the P.G.A. benevolent fund.

The competition has been sanctioned by the English Golf Union and the P.G.A. One round will be played on each of the first two days, and two rounds on the final day.

THE thirty-seventh-hole victory of Henry Cotton over Alfred Padgham in the "News of the World" £1,250 tournament appears to have raised an argument at Home whether 18 or 36 holes provides the fairer test.

Cotton was one up after the first 13, and the match was all square at the 26th. Some seem to think that to have the match decided on the extra hole was unsatisfactory. Personally, I think it an idle argument. If the match were over 18 holes, and if it were all square at the 18th, it would then have to be decided on the extra 10th, which would amount to the same thing.

And it can be advanced in favour of the longer match, that the greater the number of holes, the greater are the chances of the more consistent and better player winning.

London Counties Win Easily

DETAILS of two further county cricket matches have reached Hongkong—Leicestershire beat Northants by 8 wickets at Barwell, and Derbyshire and Notts drew at Trent Bridge—while in a third match, London Counties easily beat Honor Oak by 111 runs.

Only two centuries were scored, and both were in the Derby-Notts match. A. Alderman was 100 not out in Derby's second innings, and G. F. H. Heane scored 101 in Notts' first knock. Drake (Leicester) returned the best bowling analysis of the day—6 for 26—while Wellard (Somerset and London Counties) took 5 for 27 against Honor Oak.

Filipino Flyweights Fight a Draw

Leading Contenders For World Championship

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18 (UP).—Little Dado and Little Pancho, Filipino boxers who top the flyweight ranks, fought to a draw in ten rounds here last night.

Dado, a 2-to-1 favourite prior to the bout, landed four blows to Pancho's one, but they were of the "creampuff" variety and left Pancho unmarked.

Pancho missed frequently, but when he landed he staggered Dado, for his punches were solid and carried all his weight behind them.

Dado after the bout said he sought to win on a knockout in the last two rounds, but "Pancho tied me up nicely."

FAST AND FURIOUS

THERE were no knockdowns, but the bout was fast and packed with good action.

The fight proved to be a financial failure, for the gross gate amounted only to U.S.$5,300. Dado took 50 per cent. of the gate, while Pancho had to be content with 12½ per cent. Dado weighed 111 pounds, and Pancho 111½.

Little Dado is generally recognised as the leading flyweight.

Gain In Membership

Meeting Of Photographic Society

The second annual meeting of the Photographic Society was held last night when a sound financial position was reported. Mr. W. Clark presided.

Mr. H. A. McKay said it had been a very successful year despite prevailing conditions.

Membership had risen from 20 to 30. In the first All-China Exhibition in December 400 prints were submitted from Hongkong and Shanghai. Of these 100 were accepted for exhibition and 50 to represent pictorial photography in China and sent to London to be shown at the Royal Photographic Society's Exhibition.

AMERICAN OPINION

One Hundred Per Cent Behind Great Britain

That the citizens of the United States of America are 100 per cent behind Great Britain in her present struggle for freedom, was the view expressed by Dr. R. E. Boddoe, member of the American College of Hospital Administrators and Superintendent of the Saint Memorial Hospital at Wuchow, at the weekly luncheon of the Hongkong Rotary Club yesterday.

Dr. Boddoe said he had just returned from the United States, where he had the privilege of speaking over 250 times in 12 months on Far Eastern affairs.

"You may be interested to know," he said, "what the consensus of American opinion is today. I wish to say to you that the United States is 100 per cent behind England in this terrible situation. (Applause.) I want you to know also that there are many insidious and destructive forces, but having gone all over the country and spoken to thousands of people, I am quite confident that when the crisis develops you will find your cousins on the right side." (Applause.)

After saying he was proud of his Anglo-Saxon heritage, Dr. Boddoe concluded: "I want you to know that I recognize, together with millions of American people, that there is something fine and clean about an

HORSES DROWN

Bordeaux, June 25. Five hundred and eleven horses from New York destined for the French Army, went to the bottom of the Bay of Biscay last week when the 7,430-ton steamer Villa Namur, formerly the American liner American Merchant, was torpedoed twice by a U-boat.

Survivors of the British crew revealed the story of the sinking on their arrival at Bordeaux, to-night, after four days adrift in lifeboats in the open sea before they were picked up by a French cruiser—United Press.

The Villa Namur was built in New York in 1920 for the Munson Steamship Line, and was one of the many American ships sold to continental interests shortly after the war.

Week's Shipping Losses

London, June 25. British tonnage lost by enemy action in the week ended June 16 was 52,642, of which 5,000 were lost during combined operations off French ports and are not mercantile losses in the ordinary sense.

Figures for this period are accordingly 10 British ships, eight Allied and six neutral.

German mercantile losses up to June 23 amounted to about 847,000 tons and Italian to 224,000 tons.—Reuter.

A Look Through The "Telegraph"

50 YEARS AGO

June 26, 1900. That charming ornament of the London stage, Florence St. John, asserts that she reduced her weight from 134 to 104 lb. simply by walking a great deal and going almost entirely without liquids at any time. She first lost 10 lb. of excess weight, imperceptibly, over a period of six weeks. She then put the rest on the corner of the eye, and blue lines beneath. She never "makes-up" the lips at all, slightly considering that the expression of the face depends very much on the mouth. If used dry, bismuth gleams like white marble, when used moist, the effect is white. She removes her "make-up" with cold cream and a wash of borax and camphorated water. "Florry" tells us a great deal more, but we hold it over until we can find time to write an article on the mystery of the beauty.

10 YEARS AGO

June 26, 1930. The untimely wave of illness which has overtaken the Test cricketers seems to be spreading to Wimbledon. Mr. W. Alvarez (Spain) has been compelled to scratch from all sections, being confined to his bed. The barometer question was revived to-day when the American, Miss Edith Cross, and the Danish player, Miss Stichel, appeared at Wimbledon without stockings. They were reminded of the Wimbledon tradition and the players then explained that they had acted in ignorance. All the overseas players have now been instructed regarding stockings.

5 YEARS AGO

June 26, 1935. A black cloud looms on the boxing horizon. It is the bulk of Joe Louis, Alabama negro, 21 years of age, and 196 pounds. Germany had agreed never again to resort to what was known during the war as unrestricted submarine warfare, declared Sir Bolton Eyre-McNeill, First Lord of the Admiralty, amid loud cheers, when replying to a question put by Admiral Campbell.

The First Lord said the German representatives during the negotiations in connection with the Anglo-German Naval Agreement, stated that Germany was prepared unreservedly to adhere to the rules of submarine warfare set out in Part IV of the London Naval Treaty.

This provides that, except in cases of persistent refusal to stop, on being duly summoned, or active resistance to a visit or search, a warship, whether surface vessel or submarine, may not sink or disable merchant vessels without first having placed the passengers, crew and ship's papers in a place of safety.

Ship's boats are not regarded as a place of safety unless the safety of passengers and crew is assured in existing sea and weather conditions or by proximity to land, or near the presence of another vessel able to take the passengers and crew aboard. This undertaking, given by Germany, was an entirely new one, said the First Lord, and was not an extension of any pre-war one. The only Powers juridically bound by Part IV of the Treaty were Britain, the United States and Japan, as France and Italy did not ratify it.

ACCIDENT SEQUEL

Claim For Damages By Indian Dismissed

An action brought by Ghulam Hussain against A. W. Holland for $1,000 damages was dismissed by Mr. Justice Williams at the Supreme Court yesterday, when judgment was given for defendant with costs.

Mr. D. B. Evans appeared for Holland. Plaintiff was not legally represented.

The claim of $1,000 was made up of $50 for medical expenses, and $950 as general damages. Plaintiff claimed to be crippled for life and unable to resume his work as a watchman following an incident on August 20, 1939, when he was knocked down by a car driven by Holland in Chatham Road.

Plaintiff appeared in Court with a walking stick, and hobbled into the witness box. He said that he was suddenly knocked down by the car while he was walking along Chatham Road about 4.20 a.m. on August 20. His right leg had been getting weaker and weaker since the accident.

After he had been in hospital for about nine days, the doctor had suggested that his leg below the right knee should be amputated. He became frightened, and left the hospital. He was afraid to go back to the hospital as the doctor had said he could not be cured otherwise.

He had considerable pains in the leg after being away from hospital for a month, but on returning to hospital, was told the same thing, and left again.

Defendant's Evidence

Defendant, in evidence, said he had been to a ship at Kowloon Docks, and was driving towards the Star Ferry when he saw plaintiff with three other men about 50 yards away. He sounded his horn, and the party moved over to the left. Just as he was passing, he saw a figure running towards him. He jammed on his brakes, but the man was struck by the left front headlamp. He lifted the man up and took him to Kowloon hospital.

He reported the accident about 10 a.m. that day, and as a result of that, was summoned for failing to report the incident immediately, and driving with an expired licence. He pleaded guilty to those summonses.

In answer to Mr. Evans, defendant said he had never been summoned for driving without due care and caution, negligently, while being drunk, or anything of that kind.

Plaintiff's counsel, Mr. J. H. Davey, submitted that the accident was caused by the negligence of the defendant, and that the defendant was liable for the damages claimed.

The court found in favor of the defendant, and dismissed the claim for damages.

PROMPT ISSUE OF WAR LOAN ADVOCATED

Singapore Councillors Suggest Immediate Action

MR. J. I. DAWSON, the Chamber of Commerce representative on the Singapore Legislative Council, giving his personal views at a recent meeting, said he favoured the prompt issue of a war loan. He thought an issue at par, currency 19 years, rate of interest three per cent., were adequate terms. The Colony could subscribe at least $30,000,000, he said.

Mr. E. C. H. Charlwood and Mr. E. N. C. Woolleton also advocated immediate action regarding a loan and suggested war taxation in incomes.

Mr. Dawson said the servicing of the loan would require extra taxation, and he personally felt that income tax was "the fairest and most equitable" means of servicing it and meeting other steeply rising burdens of wartime.

This was conditional, however, on the tax applying to the whole of Malaya and to it being in force for a definite time after the end of the war.

He had hoped that the report of the committee which was appointed to investigate the question of a war loan would have been tabled that day, and that they should learn that it was favourable to such a measure—the purpose of which would be to make available to the Imperial Government with the least delay possible a large sum for the prosecution of the war. It was unfortunate that that had not been possible, but in its absence he took the liberty of making a few remarks on the subject of a war loan and the means to service it.

Prompt Issue

Mr. Dawson said he had all along contended that the prompt issue of a war loan was an essential step, and that opinion was also held by a considerable number of representative institutions and men. The arguments against its issue, or for its indefinite delay until all the sureties of taxation necessary to ensure its service and liquidation were cut and dried, had seemed to him over-cautious, for there had never been any doubt that the Colony could finance such a loan, although the method might be open to differences of opinion.

The suggestion had been made by a responsible local association that the terms of a war loan should be—issued at par, currency 19 years, rate of interest three per cent.—which seemed to him to be adequate terms.

He was of opinion, however, that, if possible, a war loan should be issued jointly by all Malayan Governments. But if that meant delay while lengthy arguments and correspondence were conducted with the different administrations in order to settle beforehand what share of the cost and charges each should bear, he would rather say—let us get on with a Colonial loan at once and let the Malay States make their own decisions as soon as they could.

He did not overlook that there were serious objections to such a course, and undoubtedly a Malayan loan was by far the best.

Therefore he hoped that the extreme gravity of the situation would spur all concerned to negotiate with drive and urgency, and to eschew meticulously.

Fresh Taxation

The service of the loan would undoubtedly require fresh taxation. With others, he had devoted considerable time and study to ways and means of taxation, and quite a number of potentially important sources of revenue had presented themselves, but, as the report of the body which had been conducting that investigation was not yet complete, he could say no more on that aspect.

Nevertheless, he felt he could say that his personal opinion, which had never been hostile to the principle of a tax on incomes and profits, was confirmed that almost all alternatives to such a tax had serious objections and it was likely to provide, in the fairest and most equitable fashion, the means to service loans and to meet the other steeply rising burdens of war-time.

But to that conclusion he attached the conditions that it had to apply to the whole of Malaya, had to be in force only for a definite time after the end of the war, and be in that respect under control of the legislative bodies.

Above all, it had to be administered firmly and effectively, and even ruthlessly where there was reason to suspect attempts to evade or to corrupt, added Mr. Dawson.

BRITAIN'S EFFORT

Crystal Palace. Towers For Demolition

London, June 25.

Two of London's most prominent landmarks are to be demolished—the steel towers of the Crystal Palace. The iron in them is to be given to the Government.

The trustees made this announcement to-day, stating they felt the time had come for them to give what they could towards the Government's request for all the scrap iron that could be spared.

The towers were the only structures of the Crystal Palace which remained after the disastrous fire on November 30, 1936. They are 230 ft. high and contain several thousand tons of iron.—Reuter.

1 FILM 5 MONTHS, £4,250,000

IN less than five months the film version of "Gone With The Wind" has earned £4,250,000 in the United States.

This beats all previous box-office records there, says the British United Press.

And the film is still going strong. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer expect that more than £7,500,000 will have gone into box-offices before the film has finished its run in America.

Then there will be the receipts from the British Empire.

M.G.M. is trying to gross £1,000,000 in Britain alone.

But, as P. L. Mannoek, "Daily Herald" Film Critic, announced the suggested minimum of 3s. 6d. to see the film is causing a storm of protest in Britain.

Miss Margaret Mitchell, so far a "one-book" author, has refused to write a sequel to "Gone With the Wind."

She received £12,500 for the film rights to her book, but this has now been doubled.

LATE NEWS

MILITARY MEASURES ANNOUNCED

Japanese To Enter Indo-China?

TOKYO, June 25 (Reuter).—The Japanese Army Command in South China has announced that operations were begun on June 17 to "cut off by force" the transport of war supplies to General Chiang Kai-shek through French Indo-China.

It adds that information obtained through air reconnaissance and reports from friendly Annamites had shown that this traffic was continuing as actively as ever despite the repeated Japanese protests.

Agreement Ignored
The announcement ignores the agreement reached between the French and Japanese Governments since June 17 on the subject of stopping the supplies.

At the same time, the Japanese Navy Ministry states that arrangements have been made to despatch warships to Halphong to watch in regard to the conditions of transport of goods through French Indo-China.

Still Quiet In Saigon

SHANGHAI, June 26 (UP).—The official Domei News Agency reports from Tokyo that the Japanese Army in South China has announced its determination to "halt the flow of supplies through Indo China by force."

The announcement adds that several crack Japanese units have already started preparations.

It does not indicate whether the Japanese have already invaded Indo China.

Saigon-Radio was still functioning at 9 a.m. It did not mention hostilities, indicating that all was normal there.

The Japanese naval spokesman in Shanghai has no information. The French Consulate denies that hostilities have started and said that Indo China was quiet this morning.

SHANGHAI REPORTS

SHANGHAI, June 26 (UP).—There are reports here that Japanese forces have invaded Indo China. It is thought that they are the result of a misunderstanding of the Japanese South China Army announcement that they intend to use force to stop the flow of war materials through the French Colony to China.

Japanese reports from Canton—which is probably where the story will break—have so far not mentioned any crossing of the French border by the Japanese.

It is considered worthy of note that the Japanese could conduct operations inside China which would cut off supplies through Indo China without actually invading the French territory.

Tokyo reports state that despite the Japanese protest there has been "little improvement in the prohibition of the transit of war materials to Chungking through Indo China." The reports said Japanese aerial reconnaissance and intelligence reports indicate that shipments are continuing as "actively as ever."

FRANCO-ITALIAN ARMISTICE TERMS: THE COMPLETE TEXT

DEMILITARISATION OF FRENCH AFRICA IS ITALY'S CHIEF DEMAND

THE TEXT OF THE FRANCO-ITALIAN ARMISTICE HAS NOW BEEN RELEASED, AND REVEALS THAT THE TERMS ARE COMPARATIVELY LIGHT. ITALY PRIMARILY SEEKS TO DEMILITARISE FRENCH METROPOLITAN TERRITORY AND HER MEDITERRANEAN AND AFRICAN POSSESSIONS.

She also demands full and constant use of Djibouti with its equipment, and control of the French section of the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railway.

Demilitarised zones are to be evacuated of French troops within ten days.

Churchill Fears French Fleet is Lost to Enemy

LONDON, June 25 (British Wireless).—In his statement in the House of Commons to-day, Mr. Winston Churchill referred to the French Fleet in connection with the French surrender.

After telling the House of M. Reynaud's message on June 16 requesting formal release for France from her obligations under the Anglo-French Agreement, Mr. Churchill went on:

"On the same evening I was preparing to go and see M. Reynaud and was in fact in the train when I received information that he had been overthrown and a new government, under Marshal Petain, had been formed. This government had been formed for the prime purpose of seeking an armistice with Germany.

Tried To Save Fleet

"In these circumstances we naturally did everything in our power to secure proper arrangements for the disposition of the French Fleet. We reminded the new government that the condition indispensable to their release had not been complied with, the condition being that the Fleet should be sent to British ports.

"I think it would have made no difference to the negotiations, for there was plenty of time to do it and the terms would hardly have been more severe than they were.

"In order to enforce the earnestness with which we held to our view, we sent the First Lord of the Admiralty and First Sea Lord, as well as Lord Lloyd, to establish what contacts were possible with the new ministers.

Fleet Lost

"It was, therefore, with grief and amazement that I read Article 8 of the Armistice terms. This article, to which the French Government has subscribed, says that the French Fleet, excepting the part left free for safeguarding French interests in the Colonial Empire, shall be collected in ports to be specified, there to be demobilised and disarmed under German and Italian control.

"From this text it is clear that the French war vessels under the armistice pass into German and Italian control fully armed.

"We note, of course, in the same article, a solemn declaration of the German Government that they have no intention of using them for their own purposes during the war. But what is the value of that? Ask half a dozen countries. What is the value of such a solemn assurance by the German Government?

"Furthermore, the same Article 8 speaks from the operation of such assurance and solemn declarations, these units necessary for coast surveillance and mine-sweeping. Under this provision it would be possible for the German Government to reserve ostensibly for coast surveillance, any existing units of the French Fleet.

"Finally, the armistice can at any time be voided on any pretext of non-observance, and the terms of the armistice expressly provide for further German claims when peace between Germany and France comes to be signed.

"Further Statement Later
"The House will naturally not expect me to say anything about the future. The situation at the present time is so uncertain and obscure that it would be contrary to public interest to attempt to pronounce upon it."

Holding out the expectation of a further statement next week, Mr. Churchill concluded: "We continue to hope the House will continue to extend their full confidence to His Majesty's Government and will believe that neither patience nor resolution will be lacking in the measures they may take for the safety of the Empire."

Plot Against Norway's King

Dramatic Revelation
By M. Koht

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—A Nazi plot to undermine the position of the King of Norway has been revealed by M. Koht, the Norwegian Foreign Minister.

The German usurper, he said, tried to get representatives of the Norwegian people to agree that King Haakon should put aside his constitutional functions.

A new Council would then be formed to take over the functions of the King and his Government.

No matter how the scheme was carried out the arrangements would be under the pressure of a foreign army and would never express the will of the Norwegian people, M. Koht declared.

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—The Lord Mayor's Red Cross Fund has reached £2,000,000.

Hostilities To Cease

Article 1.—France will cease hostilities in metropolitan territory, in French ports in South Africa, in the colonies and territories under the French mandate.

France will also cease hostilities in the air and on the sea.

Italians To Remain

Article 2.—When the armistice comes into force and for the duration of the armistice, Italian troops will stand on their advanced lines in all theatres of operations.

Demilitarisation

Article 3.—In French metropolitan territory, a zone situated between lines referred to in Article 2 and a line drawn 50 kilometres as the cross line beyond the Italian lines proper shall be demilitarised for the duration of the armistice.

In Tunisia, a militarised zone between the present Libyan-Tunisian frontier and a line drawn on an attached map shall be demilitarised for the duration of the armistice.

In Algeria and French African territories south of Algeria, which border the Libyan zone, 200 kilometres adjoining the Libyan frontier shall be demilitarised for the duration of the armistice.

For the duration of hostilities between Italy and the British Empire, and for the duration of the armistice, the French Somaliland coast shall be entirely demilitarised.

Italy shall have full and constant right to the use of the port of Djibouti with all its equipment together with the French section of the Djibouti-Addis Ababa Railway for all kinds of transport.

Evacuation Of Troops

Article 4.—Zones to be demilitarised shall be evacuated of French troops within ten days after cessation of hostilities, except for only the personnel strictly necessary for the supervision and maintenance of the fortification of works, barracks, arms deposits and military buildings, and troops required to maintain order in the interior as shall be determined later by the Italian Armistice Commission.

Appeal For Eire Unity

Northern Ireland's Overtures

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—A suggestion that Northern Ireland and Eire should unite for defence purposes for the duration of the war was discussed by Lord Glenborrough, Chief Unionist Whip of the Northern Ireland Government, in an interview to-day.

He said: "When Mr. de Valera has overcome the difficulties with which he is faced, and has thrown in his lot with the other great peoples of the British Empire—in the defence of liberty, if he asks Lord Glenborrough to drop constitutional questions for the period of the war and stands in with him in defence of our beloved country, I know what the Ulster leader's answer will be."

Malta's Message Of Courage

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—"We are fully determined with God's help to maintain the integrity of this part of the British Empire whatever happens and whether the time be short or long. We have every confidence in a final victory."

This is the reply of the garrison and people of Malta to the Prime Minister's message assuring them of his conviction that they would make the defence of their island glorious in British military history.

Frontier Situation

DEFENSIVE STEPS TO BE TAKEN

IN VIEW of the attitude adopted by the Japanese Press and certain of its spokesmen in recent days, certain precautionary measures of a purely defensive nature have been adopted in Hongkong, the "Telegraph" was reliably informed this morning.

Official sources stress the fact that there is no cause for apprehension among the general public.

JAPANESE POLITICS

One-Party Scheme Analysed

TOKYO, June 25 (Reuter).—Active leadership in the movement to form the projected single powerful political party is favourably received by the Japanese newspapers.

As the resignation of Prince Kanoye has long been expected, there is no sentiment of surprise. All papers agree that his efforts will be confronted with great difficulties before they are crowned with success, but they hope that with his leadership, a really powerful political party, with the whole-hearted support of the entire nation, will soon be brought into being.

"Political reconstruction should not be a mere dissolution of the existing political parties and a re-assembly of their members with the same old ideas, writes the 'Asahi Shimbun'.

Must Go Further
"Nor would the aim of the new party movement be a mere acquisition of administrative power."

Another paper, the 'Nichi Shimbun', declares: "Japan's position to-day is quite different from that of yesterday. In other words, Japan must co-operate in building up a new world order.

"In this lies the necessity for remoulding the political structure of this country," the paper asserts.

The 'Kokumin Shinbun' envisages difficulties ahead, but hopes that Prince Kanoye will attack the problem with a clear understanding of the rising power of the nation.

DUKE OF KENT IN LISBON

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—It is learned authoritatively here that the Duke of Kent arrived recently in Lisbon, where he represented His Majesty the King at the national celebrations of the 800th anniversary of Portuguese independence.

Conflicting Indo-China Reports

INVASION OF FRENCH COLONY NOT CONFIRMED

ALTHOUGH a private message received in Hongkong this morning stated that hostilities had broken out in Indo-China, no confirmation of this was received from the normal news agency sources.

"United Press" from Manila reported that everything appeared to be all quiet in Indo-China as the normal radio broadcasts were being received and no mention had been made of any trouble.

Army's Announcement

A "Reuter" message from Tokyo dated yesterday declared that the Japanese Army Command in South China had announced that operations were begun on June 17 to "cut off by force" the transport of war supplies to General Chiang Kai-shek through Indo-China.

It adds that information obtained through air reconnaissance and reports from friendly Annamites had shown that this traffic was continuing as actively as ever despite the repeated Japanese protests.

BRITISH SUPERIOR

What War In Africa Has Revealed

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—The war in Africa has now been in progress for ten days and can safely be asserted, it is stated authoritatively in London, that the British forward troops have shown themselves very much superior to the enemy in initiative, dash and skill.

On the Kenya front, there were many successful attacks. The border town of Mayale was several times raided.

On the Sudan front, activities included an attack on the Metemma Garrison by British troops, assisted by Abyssinians when 50 casualties were inflicted on the enemy.

Success In Skirmishes
In British Somaliland, skirmishes have invariably left the advantage with the British irregular troops.

On the Libyan front, armoured patrols penetrated deep into enemy lines to the complete surprise of the enemy, whose morale has been affected.

Many Libyans conscripted into the Italian forces, who have fallen into British hands, have expressed the hope to be allowed to join the British forces against the Italians.

Heavy Italian Losses

Fifty Italian aircraft have been destroyed on the different fronts. Italian aircraft have given a poor account of themselves, their performance confirming the belief that the training of Italian personnel has been relatively inadequate.

The morale of all ranks of the British forces is declared to be excellent.

Armistice Carriage To Go to Reich

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

BERLIN, June 25.—Marshal Foch's personal railway car, in which the Armistices were signed in 1918 and 1940, has been ordered by Fuhrer Hitler to be brought here as a souvenir of the second Armistice.

Put on a lowbed chassis car and pulled by a tractor, the car will be brought to the nearest railway station from which it will travel by rail to the German capital.

5 DIE IN RAIDS ON BRITAIN

London's Reaction To First Alarm

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—Five people are now believed to have been killed during Monday night's raids on the south-west of Britain.

At least 14 people were injured.

It is reported that among those killed were a mother and her daughter who were standing at the front door of their house.

A man was hit by a bomb splinter while looking out of a window.

Latest Figures

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—The Ministry of Home Security states that the latest reports indicate that five persons were killed and about 20 injured in last night's air raids.

London Reaction

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—A description of how most of London took its first air raid alarm since the beginning of the war was broadcast yesterday by Bryan Meredith, Canadian observer to the R.B.C.

Several people got up last night and cursed Hitler. I was one of them, he began. Everyone was curious to know how they would react. The sirens wailed in the distance, and they came closer and closer until they were all around them. They were not as penetrating as was expected and this was the first comforting reaction—there was nothing in it. I am not a bit upset.

Tumbling around in the darkness, he said, he got some clothes together and trailed across the street. On the edge of the sidewalk was a faintly illuminated sign bearing the letter "S" on the building behind the local A.R.P. shelter.

BRIDGES DOWN ON BORDER

The Hongkong military authorities admitted this morning that the two bridges across the Shum Chun River have been demolished. It is emphasised that this is a purely precautionary measure.

This military spokesman refused to comment on a report that civilians residing in Fanling and other border area towns have been advised to evacuate to Kowloon.

The "Telegraph" understands that almost all ladies living in the border area have already evacuated to the urban area.

SEA PICTURES

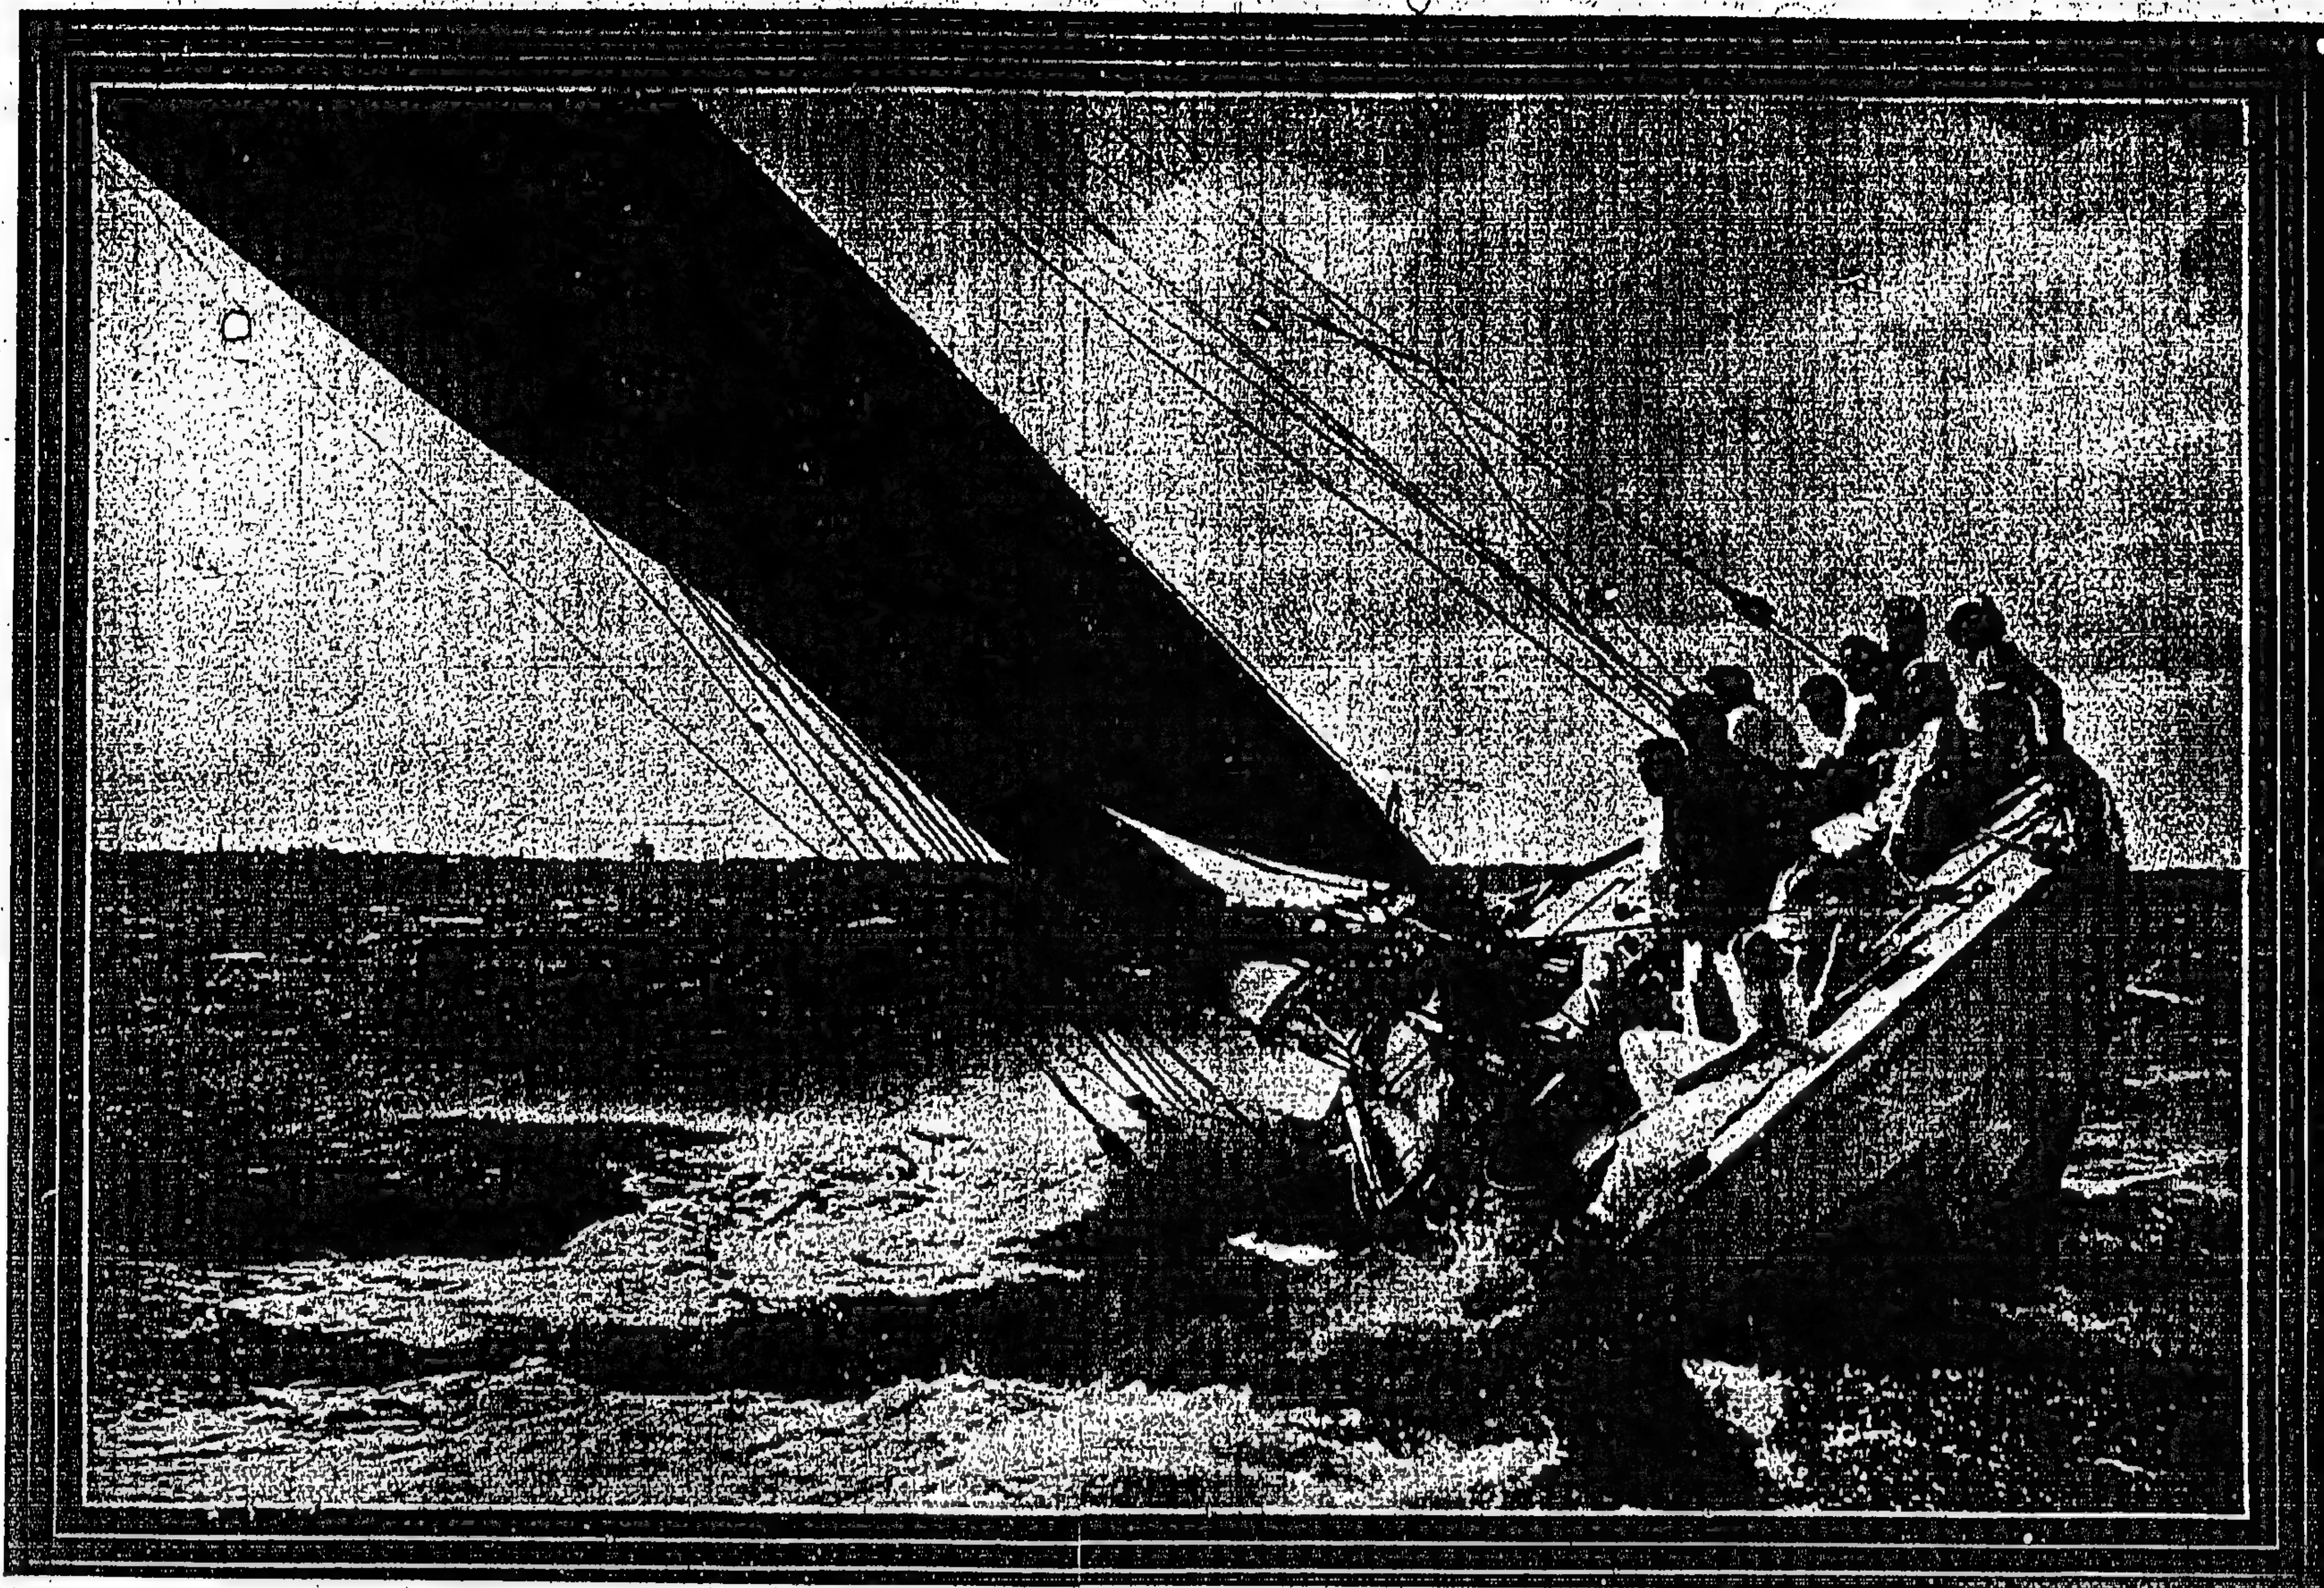

The dramatic pictures on this page, exclusive to "The Telegraph," highlight three moods of the sea as man encounters it.

There is a vast difference between the sea in the beautiful action study at the right and the bullet-torn sea of the Dunkirk evacuation, seen on the last picture on the page.

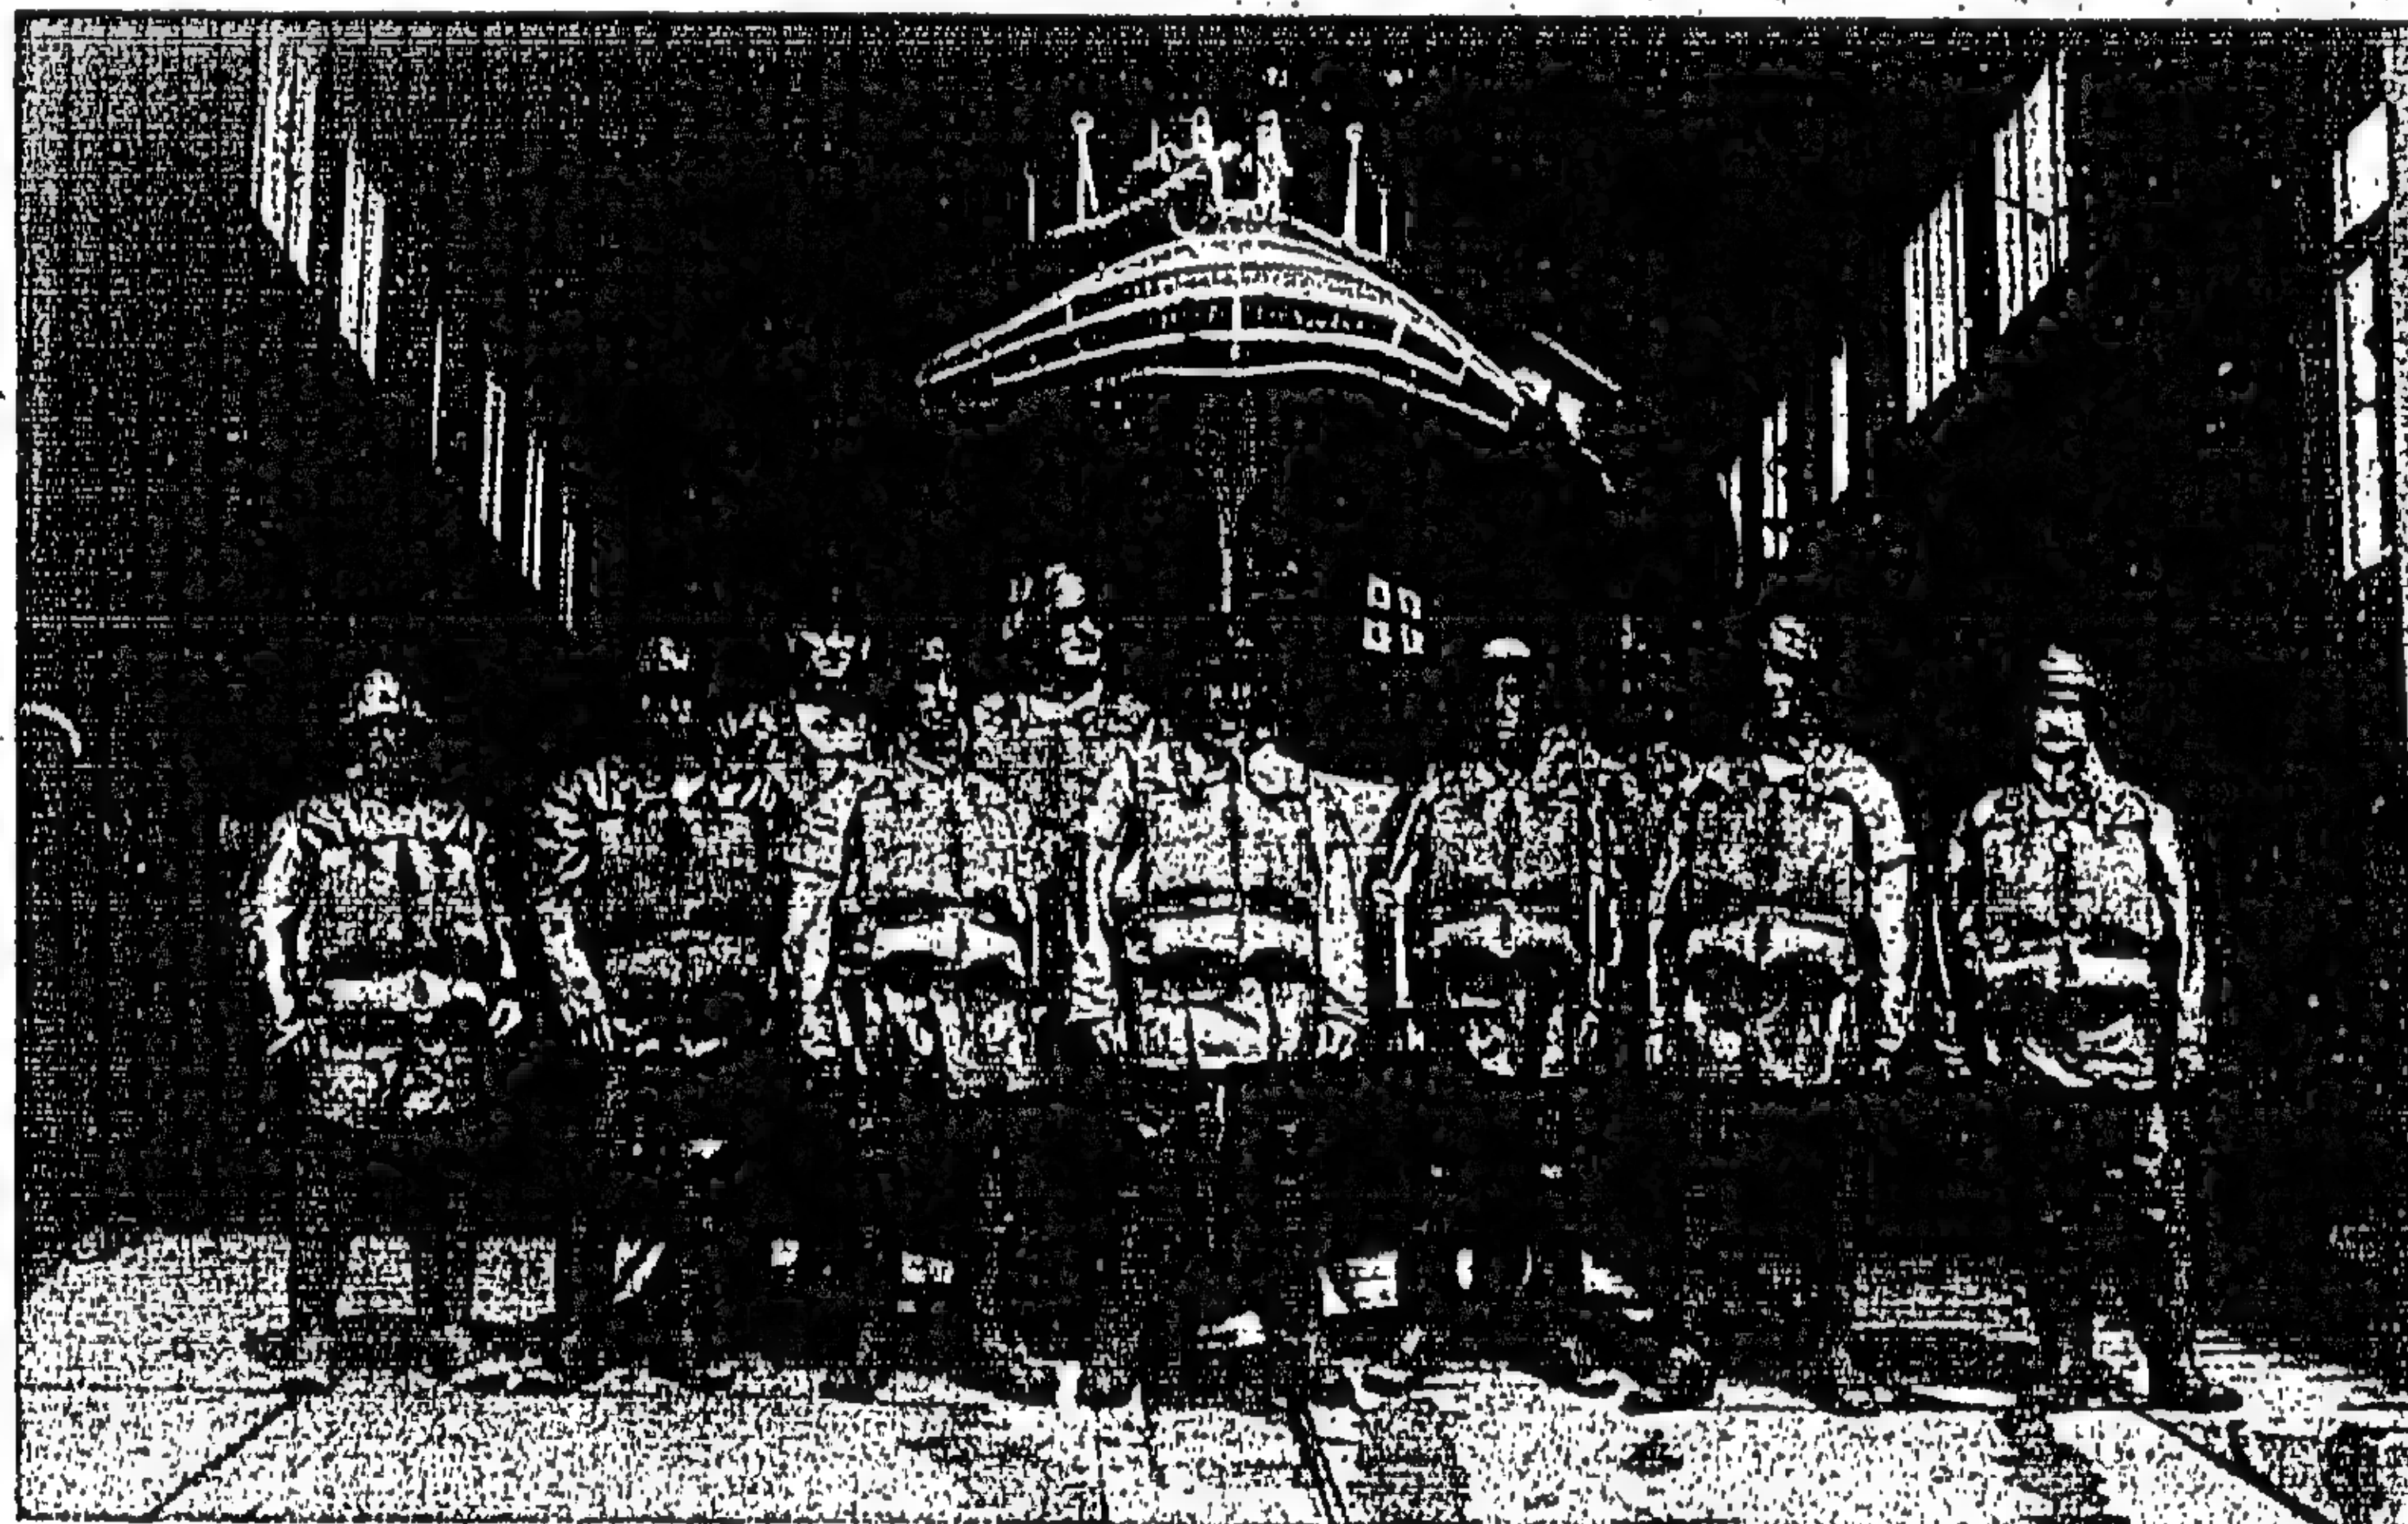

Yet men who were peaceful yachting enthusiasts a few months before took part in the grimmest hours sea-warfare has ever known. Several died in helping evacuate British troops from Flanders.

The other pictures show the men to whom the sea is always grim — British lifeboat crews. To them too the war has brought new dangers, new labours.

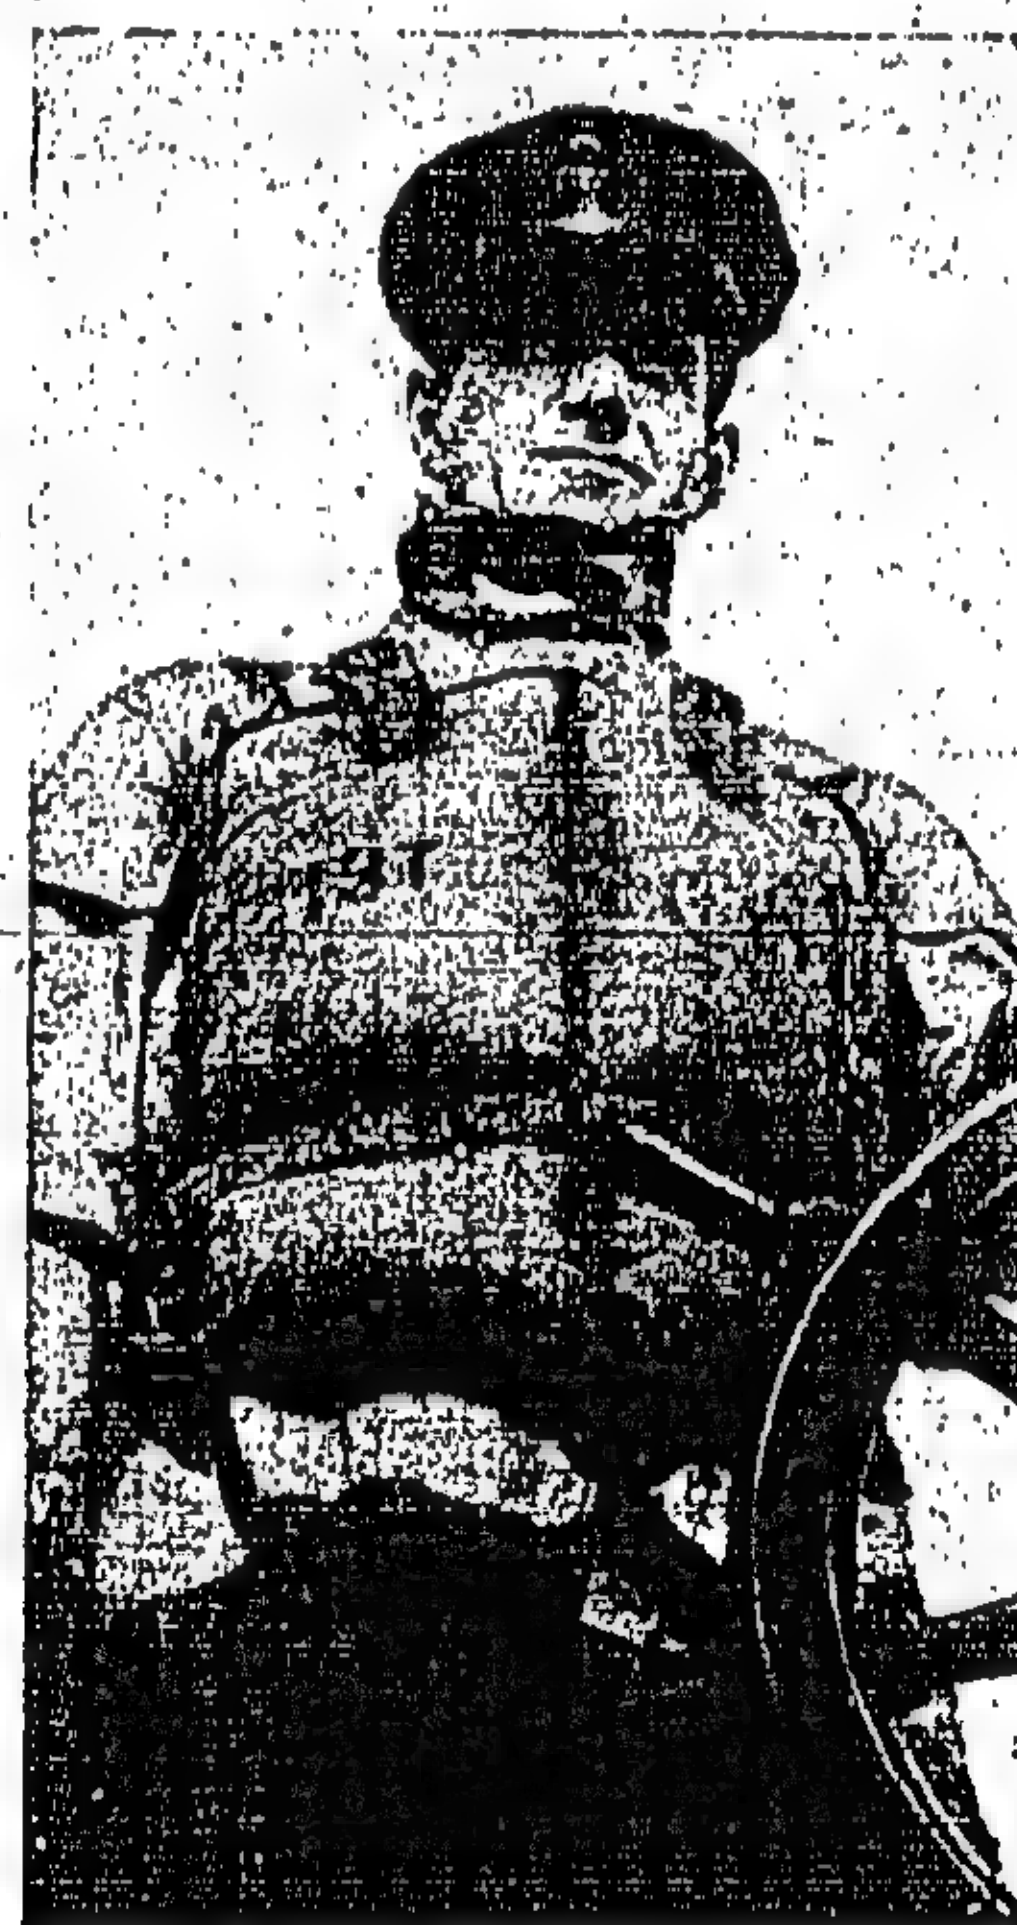

But that same sea is the one thing Hitler's legions can not conquer. It is the seas that will bring Britain final victory.

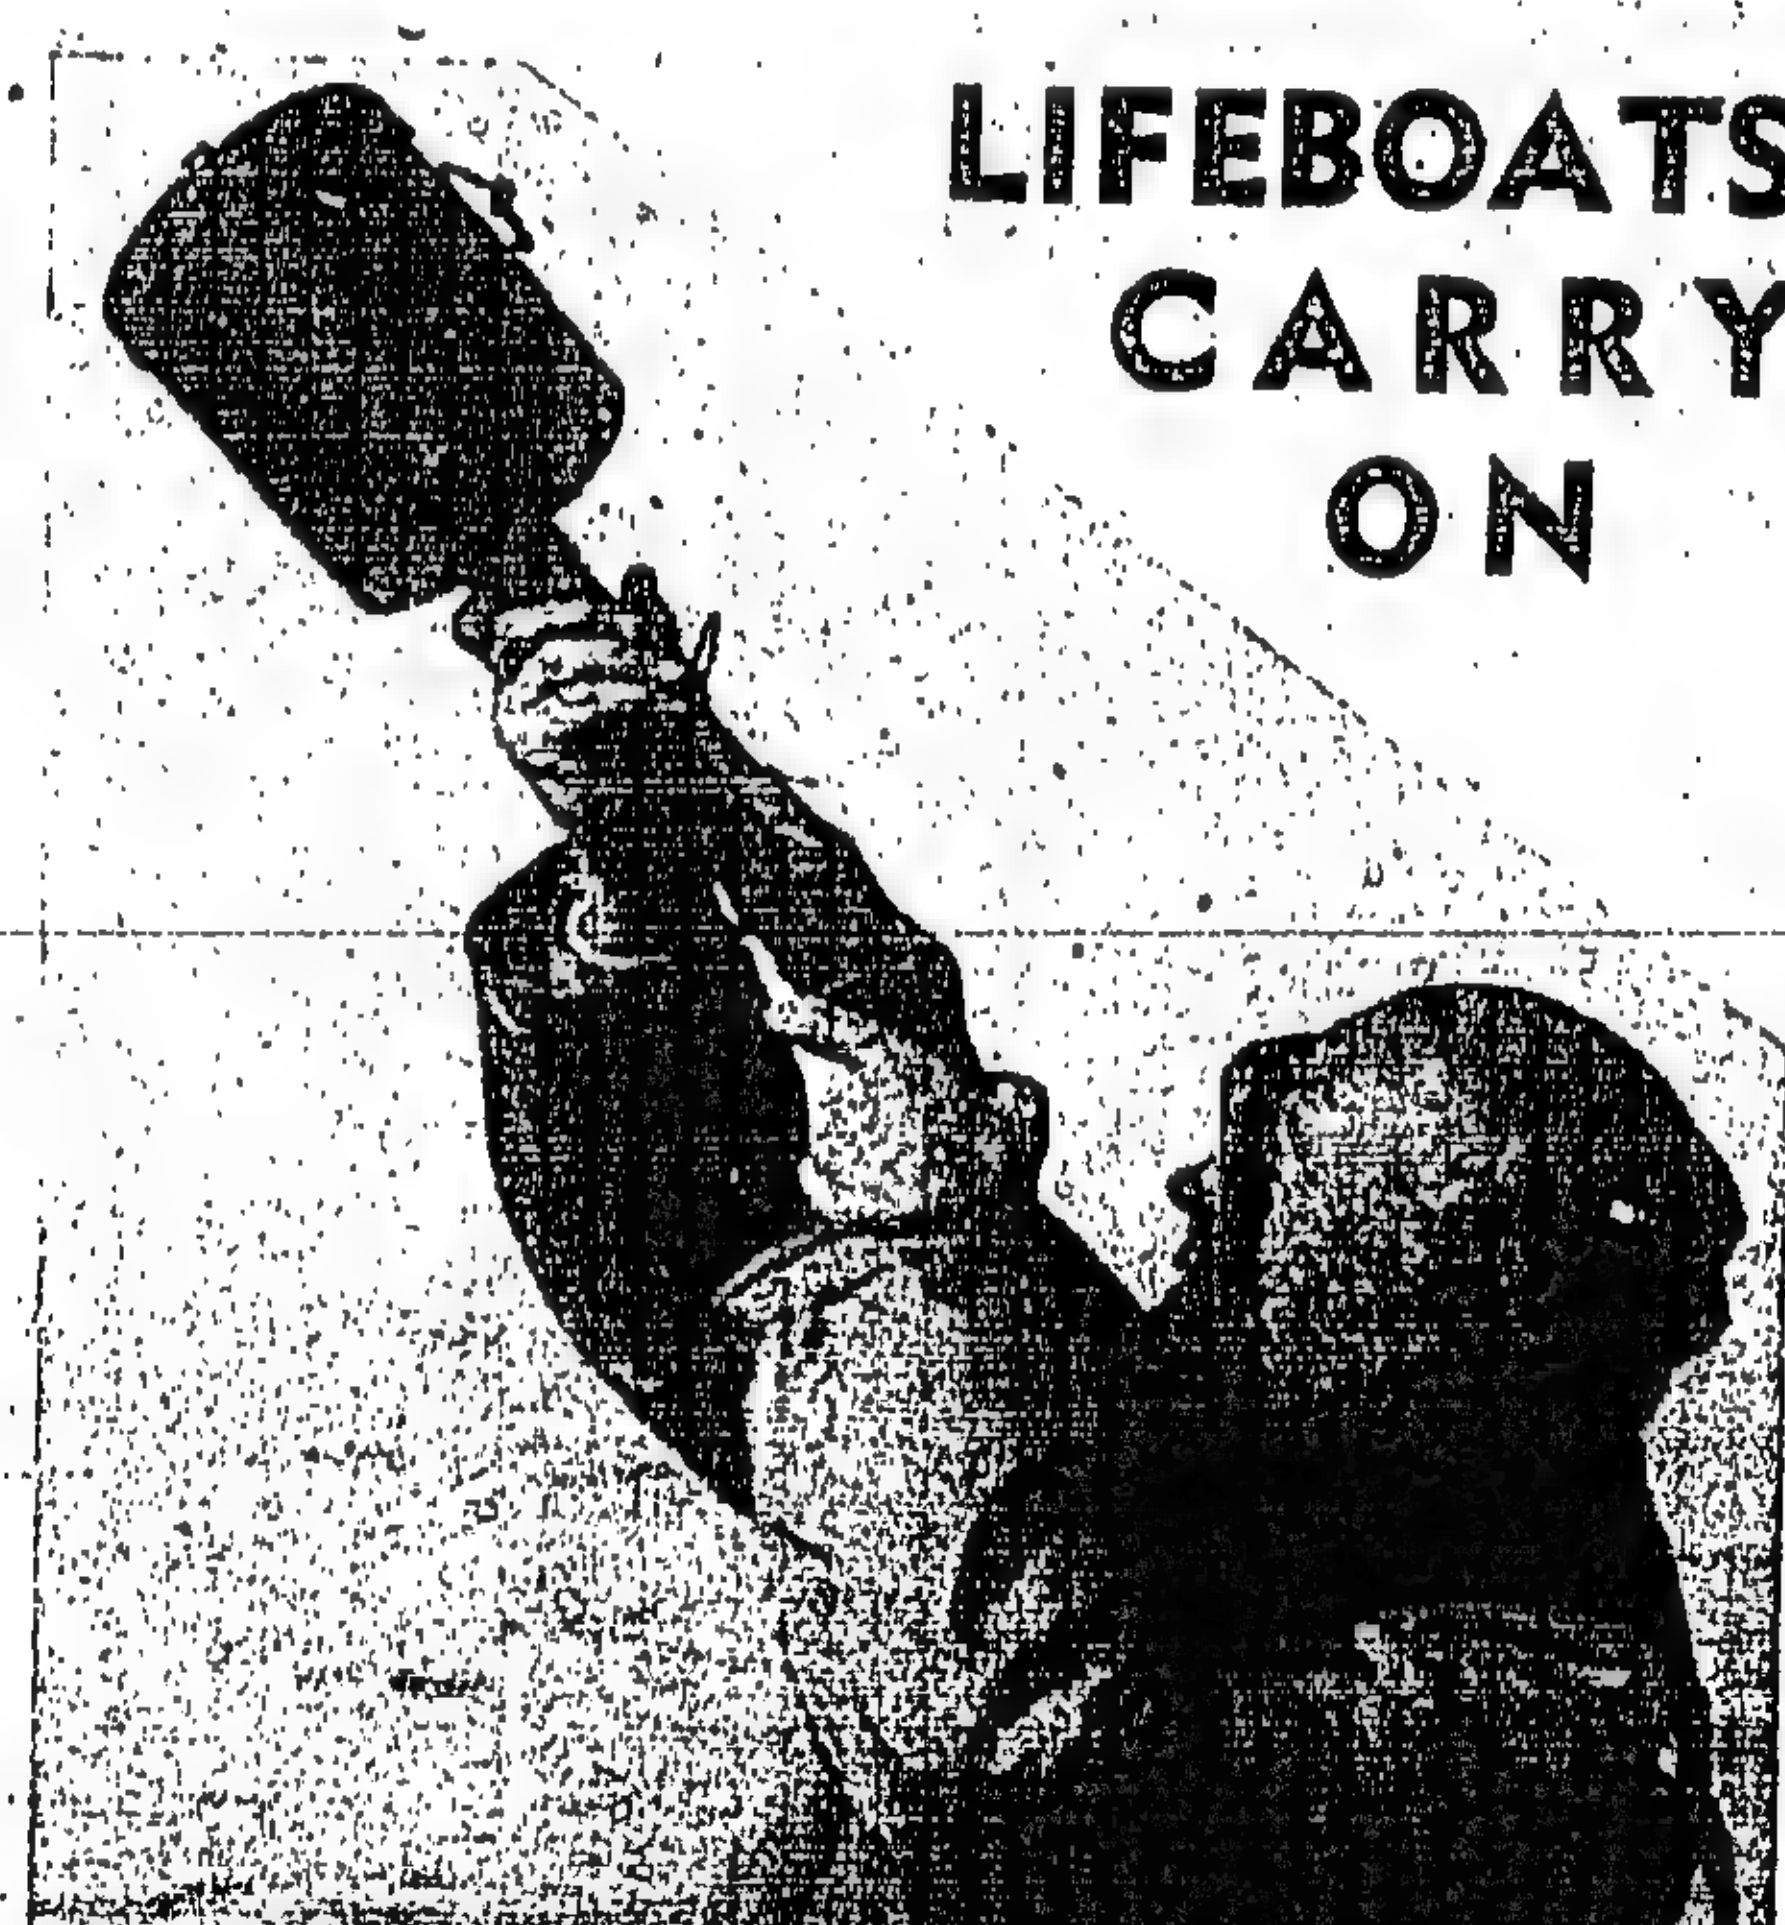

LEE RAIL AWASH.—This magnificent yachting picture, one of the finest ever taken, won a major prize in an American photographic contest for Cameraman Morris Rosenfeld. The yacht is the "Typhoon," one of the famous craft of the wealthy New York Yacht Club.

Britain's lifeboat crews have rescued more lives during the last nine months than during any similar period in history. Submarine and mine warfare has made their work arduous, dangerous. This is the crew of the Southend lifeboat station.

Coxswain Page of the Southend lifeboat. Repeatedly since the war began, the lives of neutrals, women and children, have depended on the skill and courage of British lifeboat coxswains.

LIFEBOATS CARRY ON

Fine, modern equipment is carried on all British lifeboats. All but a dozen boats on isolated shores are now motor-driven. This is a patent device for firing a lifeline to stricken ship.

In all weathers, British lifeboats, often manned by fishermen, stand by to save life at sea. Their heroism and devotion to duty is world-famous.

British troops lined up on the beach at Dunkirk were swept by Nazi machine-gun fire. Yachtsmen, like those in the top picture, helped in the miracle evacuation. Several gave their lives.

Miss Observation

GIRLS getting make-up taped now; not pink, not orange, but apricot. Healthy red-brown lipstick. Suits most girls too.

GIRLS at home wearing new flower hats look best with rose-pink lipstick, not mauve or cyclamen any more. New powder colour: Cameo.

KNEES latest thing to get beauty culture in U.S.A. Half hose worn for cycling.

SHOES getting flatter. Three to one typists counted wearing neat low heels in yesterday morning.

BLACK on decrease; grey, camel, navy with bright touches popular for girls' business outfits.

WALLFLOWER red-brown shirt and hat make navy or grey suit look very slow. Latest colour scheme from Paris.

GIRL FRIEND wearing new pastel coat improved—literally—out of recognition. Was looking for medium-brown girl in medium-brown straight coat; never recognised gay girl in light blue-and-brown plaid. Tip for mouse-coloured and unenterprising: Go pastel.

STOCKINGS are still worn silk and sheer; but thinnest cotton ones sold out from my favourite store.

STOCKING COLOURS: With flannel grey and camel, light suntan. With browns, rose beige. With navy or black, stockings toned to accessories.

REBONSHIRING: This year's version of last year's passion for dirndl-gaththers. Ribbon and Lastex yarn shirred in one operation; used as trimming for frocks, blouses, various other clothes, furnishings. Grey chiffon blouse trimmed six horizontal rows red ribbonshirting, high-spot of recent exhibition. Can be done by home dressmaker using shirring thread in shuttle instead of usual machine silk.

DE-FUZZ, new American word for taking hair off legs. Favourite methods, there and here: Electric razor, wax plasters.

SAXE BLUE (short for Saxon?) remains English-woman's favourite colour. In any range of dresses or cottons saxe blue sells out first, yellow last, said representative of a big wholesale firm. French first choice, colleague tells him, is still black every time, even in summer.

LOVELY LINGERIE FABRICS

SUCH a number of brides-to-be are busy stitching for their trousseaux, for dainty lingerie is an expensive item when bought ready-made, and the money you have to spend will go so much farther if you can make some of these garments yourself.

Besides, you can choose your own fabrics, colours and special designs. Look, for instance, at the very attractive ensemble of nightdress and matching jacket you see in the sketch.

EXQUISITE DESIGN

THEIR design is simplicity itself, and their exquisite loveliness is due to the soft, delicate crepe with a tiny all-over pattern of pink and blue roses and true lovers' knots on a lovely soft pink ground, in which they have been made.

One of my friends, who is getting married, showed them to me with great pride the other day.

One of the lovely Grafton anti-shrink fabrics in a design of rosebuds and true lovers' knots has been chosen for the trousseau nightgown in the left, and the dainty jacket to go with it.

WILL NOT SHRINK

"DON'T you think they are lovely?" she exclaimed. "I made them myself in one of the new Grafton anti-shrink lingerie fabrics, which are guaranteed never to shrink, stretch or lose their colour."

And she showed me some lengths of these materials which she was going to make up into other pretty clothes; some plain, some patterned all equally charming and in the delicate shades which are so fashionable for lingerie.

Recipes Bring Eggs To Table

The protein in both the yolk and white is necessary for the growth and the repair of body tissues, according to the Bureau of Home Economics, Department of Agriculture. The minerals found in the yolk include lots of iron (in which ordinary diets are likely to be low) and good supplies of calcium and phosphorus. Egg yolks also contain vitamins A, B-1, G and D; the whites are rich in vitamin G.

Since the case in favour of eating more eggs is such a good one, here are several recipes for tempting egg dishes.

TOMATO AND EGG RAREBIT

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups strained tomato
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1 cup grated cheese
Melt butter and mix in the flour. Gradually add tomato, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Then add seasonings and eggs. Cook 4 minutes. Add cheese and cook until cheese is melted. Serve at once on toast.

POACHED EGGS PROVENCIAL

Poached eggs, two per person
2 large onions, chopped
1/4 cup cooking oil
2 cups tomato sauce
Pinch of thyme

Pretty hands and nails—that's the ambition of most girls once they become beauty-conscious. And one of the best ways to encourage this worthwhile beauty trait is to give her a manicure kit. She'll find it's fun to keep her nails polished and shapely.

Manicure Kit For Young Girl

By JACQUELINE HUNT

In every mother's life there comes a day when she realises that the little girl who yesterday was her baby is beginning to think about being to-morrow's glamour girl. Toward that end she's becoming hair-conscious, complexion-conscious and hand-conscious. Unless you are a very casual mother you have already taught your daughter a soap-and-water complexion ritual and simple comb-and-brush routine.

But what have you done about her hands? Teaching her to keep them clean is good as far as it goes. But it isn't enough. What about her cuticles? What about those nails? What about the skin texture? Now is the time to take advantage of her newly aroused interest in her looks and starting doing things about them. On her next birthday or as a reward for the good grooming steps she has already mastered, give her a manicure kit for her very own—one containing manicure scissors, a good, flexible nail file, an emery board, a nail white pencil, a stick for pushing back the cuticle, and, nicest yet, a good looking buffer.

Next teach her to use these implements in a simple but consistent daily routine. Show her how to hold that file and how to use it to shape her small nails roundly, leaving a tiny rim of white. Show her how to use her nail brush under the nails and around them and then to soak her hands in warm soapsuds for a few minutes to soften the cuticles. Demonstrate the pushing back of the cuticles with the little stick gently so the nail root will not be injured to cause unsightly white spots.

Polish Brings Pride

Buy her some paste polish or even a cake of the dry variety and dab it on the nails yourself the first time. But applying the buffer vigorously. Buff from tips toward the cuticles with the "grain" of the nails, not across. After she glimpses the lovely lustre that results you won't have to do any arguing about that part of the process in the future. She will be equally pleased with the magic worked by the little nail white pencil so there will be no more grimy nail tips. The time to use the latter is just before drying her hands.

If you really want to teach her to do the job thoroughly, buy her a fragrant hand cream or perfumed hand lotion—or both if your budget allow. Little girls—like big ones—love pleasant odours and if you place these things within her reach, she soon will be helping herself to them after she has washed her hands. This will soon eliminate chapping, a condition that is common to all children.

For luxurious, once-in-a-while care, there is a fragrant nail oil which you can warm and apply to her fingertips to soften and help stimulate healthy nail growth. Of course, you should do this for yourself regularly! The easiest way to do it is to saturate flannel strips with it and wrap those around the fingers while preparing for the rest of her complete manicure.

Appeal to Her Vanity
If your daughter is really a problem child, preferring to dig in the soil, climb trees or jump rope to keeping herself dainty and feminine, try appealing to her vanity. Perhaps there are little girls who can resist the subtle argument of a long-coveted ring or bracelet, but they are rare. These needs spoil her outdoor fun, but they will make her more careful—perhaps even to the point of remembering to put on gloves "just like mother" when she makes her garden.

Later on when she has her first long party dress, you can add as a reward for her faithful handgrooming a bottle of liquid nail enamel in a soft delicate pink for use only on these special occasions, of course.

Handkerchiefs Are Used As Novel Dress Tops

By ELEANOR GUNN

NEW YORK—Evening dresses, the folded-over bodices of which are made from handkerchiefs, are something new. Take a handkerchief that is from 15 to 20 inches square—one of the many beautifully printed ones—and you will, with a little practice, find that it can be draped into a good-looking dress top. The skirt worn would be plain. You will find also that handkerchiefs may be made into aprons, using either one or two large ones.

Another tricky little novelty is the apron with matching shawl. One such set made of open flannel cotton is fringed around the square apron and shawl with contrasting wool. The set looks very well over a plain sports dress for, as I've tried to put across, shawls and aprons are very new for sports or play clothes but are also worn for gala occasions.

How about providing shawls for your bridesmaids if you are having bridesmaids in your family this June?

Ever so often purple, orchid, wistaria, violet and such shades suddenly appear and conquer the town. "Wistaria hysteria," is one shop's announcement of this interesting event. It about describes the rush women make for these shades when they receive the slightest encouragement. The time seems ripe for a revival of them, but "green grows the fashions" in another shop whose windows play up, among other greens, a "deep hot-blue-green."

Whatever your colour choice, let it be gay. The need for gay clothes was never greater and women can do their bit by wearing them.

As previously reported, cottons are having their hey-day, among them check gingham which seems a particularly happy choice now that checks are better than ever.

Skin Protection

If you turn pink instead of taking on a healthy tan under the sun, then use a heavy tinted cream or a good liquid powder that will protect you. And use a soothing cream at night.

WATCHING RUSSIA

London, June 25.
In the Commons to-day Mr. Dalton, Minister of Economic Warfare, stated at question time that the decline in imports of war materials through Vladivostok had continued. However, he was still keeping a constant watch on that trade.

Mr. G. Le M. Mander: Will you give an assurance that you will co-operate in the closest possible manner with the Ambassador at Moscow?

Mr. Dalton: I'll gladly give that assurance. This, of course, is one of the matters which have already taken up with the Soviet Authorities.—

BEAUTY TREATMENT

HOME beauty culture will make you look more beautiful so why not spend a few minutes every day in acquiring a charming appearance.

Top left: Take care of the ugly hard lines which appear round the nose and mouth. An effective massage is illustrated above. Use a light tapping massage with an upward movement.

Below: Relax the mind and body completely for some minutes during the day. This is as effective as any beauty treatment. It makes the tired lines and that worried look disappear.

Top right: A rubber brush for scrubbing the face is one of the best methods of toning up the circulation. It should be done every morning with quick upward movements.

For Your Lapel

AMONG the latest dress accessories are brooches made in the form of military epaulettes. They are of gilt and have shiny gold fringes. They are just the thing to wear in your lapel, on pocket flaps or upon your shoulders. There are necklaces of choker length to match made of flexible gold with a large double epaulette motif in front—also complete with golf fringes.

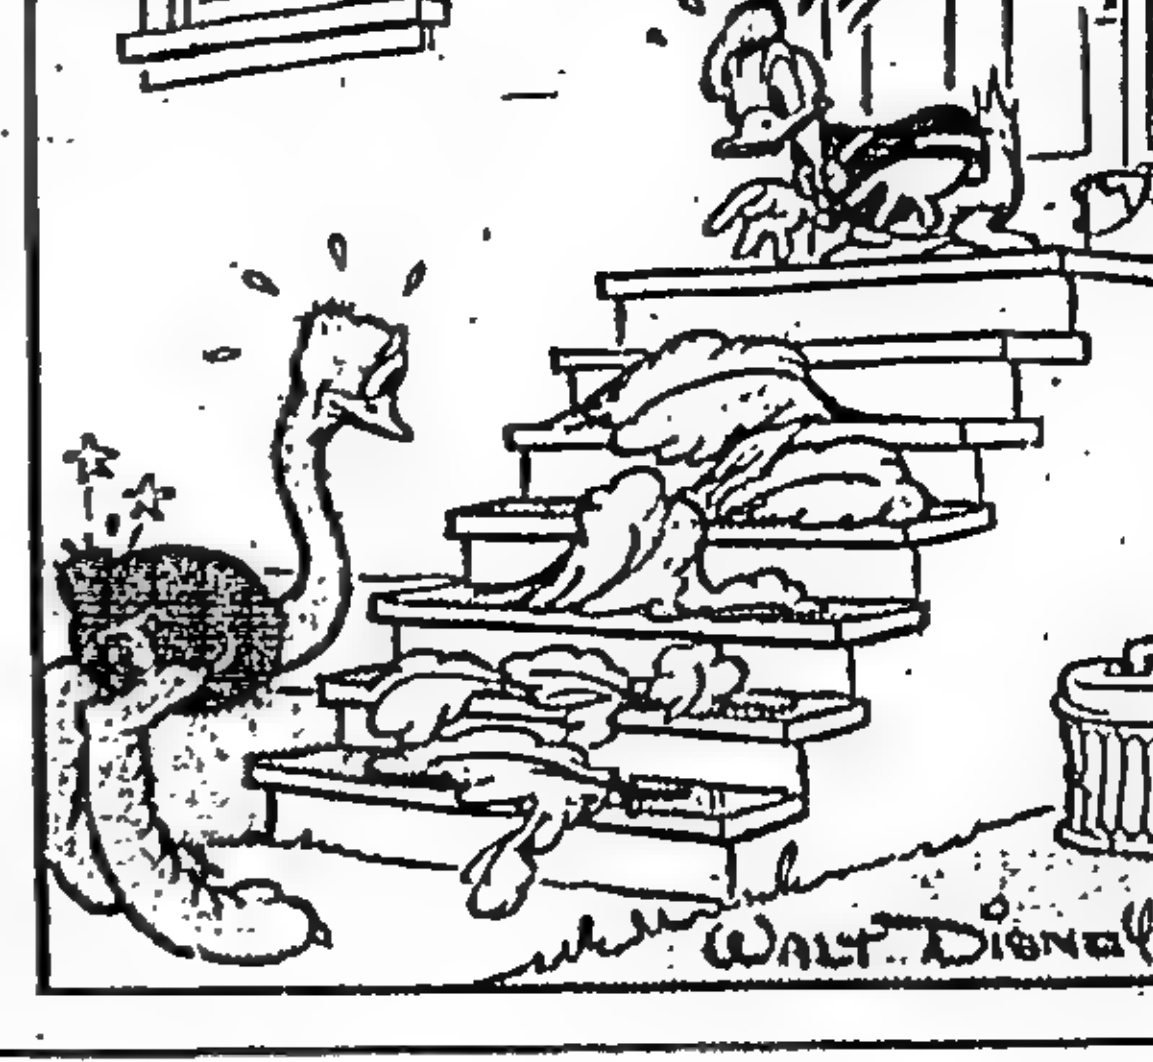

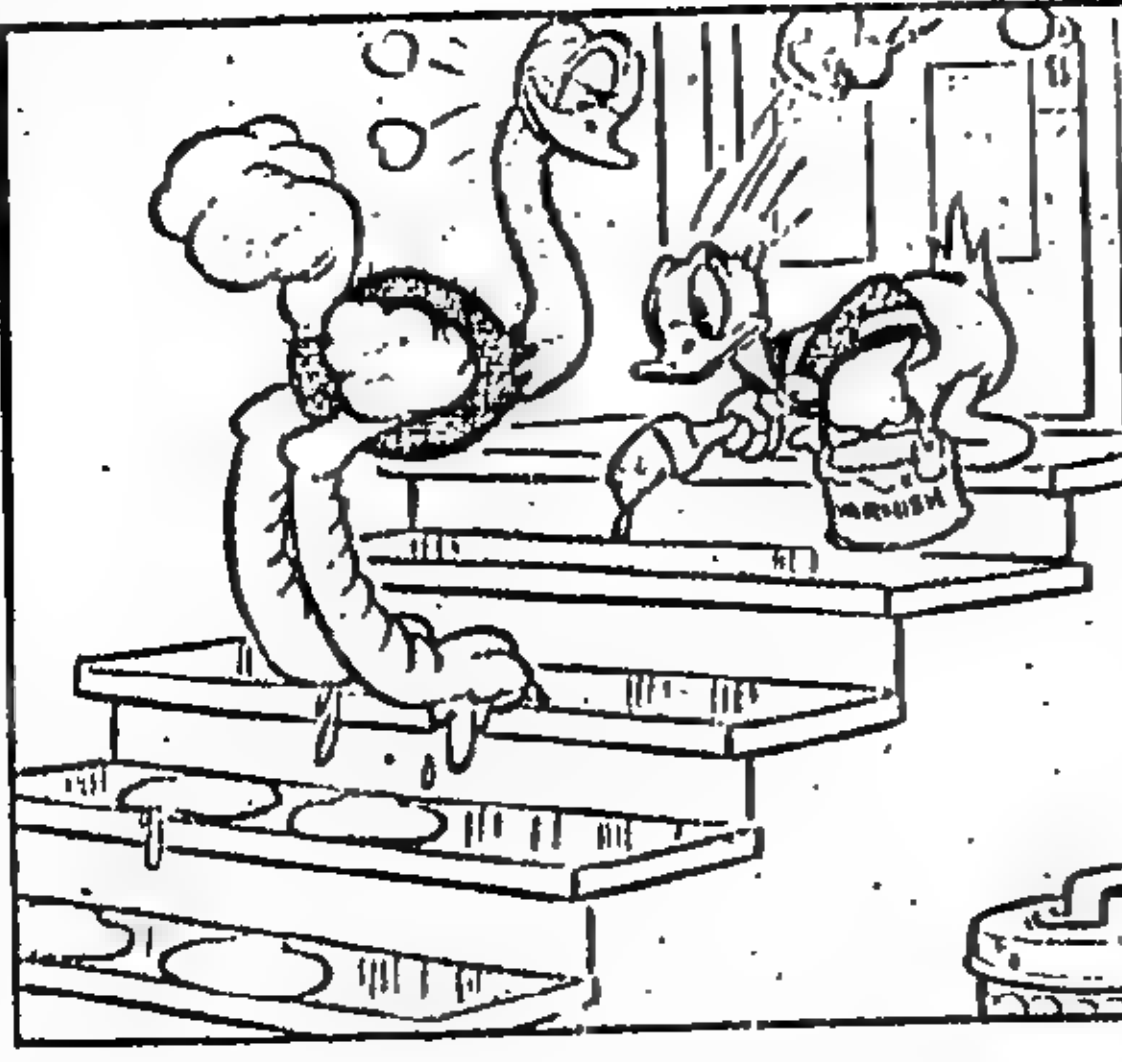

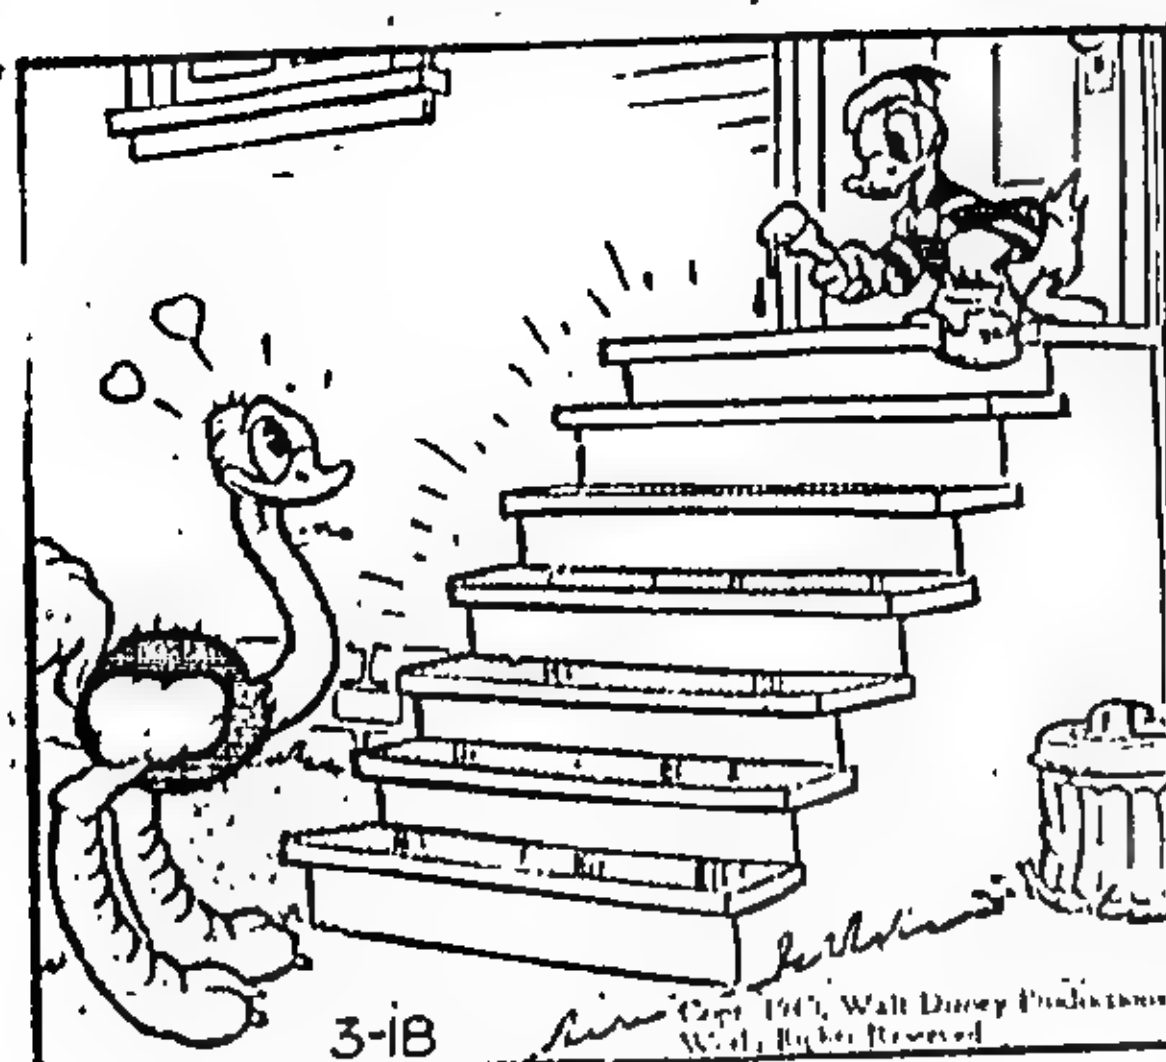

-Musical Boxes

TASTES seem less sophisticated nowadays than of heretofore. We find amusement in all sorts of simple little things. Perhaps that is why so many people are bringing out from retirement musical boxes of various kinds. One very popular one is in the form of a cigarette box. It has a china lid, attractively decorated with painted figures. When it is lifted the box plays an amusing tinkling little tune.

Colours Harmonize

VIVIAN Donner, the fashion commentator, recently appeared at an afternoon party in a soft olive green frock with matching sailor hat trimmed with pale yellow and fuchsia flowers. A short snood held the hat over her dark curls. Her lipstick was matched to the fuchsia-red of her flowers; her complexion powdered a clean, rosy tone, to make the costume colour more flattering.

NEW NAZI TRICK ON THEIR RADIO

The Germans are employing a new radio trick in an effort to cause anxiety in England.

Recently they broadcast the names of several British naval ratings who have been taken prisoner.

The same names, those of men from the destroyer Glowworm, were given over the German radio several weeks ago. The relatives of the men have long since received the official intimation from the Admiralty of their capture.

It is obvious that the names have been repeated, not as a reassuring gesture to the men's families, but to

FRENCH ACTION

Churchill Tells Of British Part

London, June 25.

Rising at 3.47 p.m. to-day to make his latest war statement in the House of Commons, the Prime Minister, Mr. Churchill, said:

"The House will feel profound sorrow at the fate of the great French nation and the people to whom we have been joined so long in war and peace and whom we have regarded as trustees with ourselves for the progress of liberal, cultured and tolerant civilisation in Europe. There is no use or advantage in wasting strength and power upon hard words and reproaches. We hope that that strength and power will be given to us to rescue France from the ruin and bondage into which she has been cast by a mighty enemy and other causes. (Cheers.)

"But, relying upon the true genius of the French people and their judgment upon what has happened to them when they are allowed to know the facts, we shall endeavour to keep such contacts as are possible through the bars of their prison.

"Meanwhile, we must look to our own salvation and effectual defence, upon which, not only the British, but the French and European and the fortunes of the whole world depend.

"The safety of Britain and the British Empire is powerfully, though not decisively, affected by what happened to the French fleet. When it became clear that the defeat and subjugation of France were imminent and that the fine army, upon which so many hopes were set, was retreating under the German advance, Mr. Reynaud, courageous Prime Minister of France, asked me to meet him at Tours, which I did on June 13; accompanied by the Foreign Secretary and Lord Beaverbrook, Minister of Aircraft Production.

"I see that some accounts have been given of these conversations with the French Government which do not at all correspond with the facts. We have, of course, the record kept by one of the Cabinet secretaries who was in attendance, but I do not propose to go into this at any length.

Separate Peace Request

"Mr. Reynaud, after dwelling upon the conditions at the front and the state of the French army, with which I was well acquainted, asked me whether Britain would release France from her obligation not to negotiate for an armistice or peace without the consent of her British ally. Although I knew how great the French sufferings were and that we had not so far endured equal trials or made an equal contribution in the field, I felt bound to say that I could not give our assent, but that it would be no use in adding mutual reproaches to other things we might have to bear.

"We agreed that a further appeal should be made by Mr. Reynaud to the United States and that if the reply were not sufficient to enable him to go on with the fight, then we should meet again and take a decision in the light of the new facts. On June 16 I received a message from Mr. Reynaud, who had then moved to Bordeaux, to say that the American response was not satisfactory and requesting a formal release from France from her obligation under the Anglo-French agreement.

"Cabinet immediately convened, and we sent a message, of which I shall not give the full text, but the general substance was that separate negotiations, whether for an armistice or peace, depended upon the agreement made with the French Republic and not any particular administration or statement. They therefore involved the honour of France.

"However, in view of all one saw of all they had suffered and the forces valiantly working upon them, it was intimated that, provided the French fleet was dispatched to British ports and remained there while negotiations were conducted, His Majesty's Government would give its consent to the French Government asking what terms of armistice would be open to them.

"It was also made clear that His Majesty's Government was resolved to continue the war and to cut itself out of association with any inquiries for an armistice."

Need For Parliament

Mr. Hore-Belisha said he considered the Prime Minister's statement showed the absolute necessity, at these times of carrying Parliament with them at every stage.

"Is it not inconceivable that this great surrender could have been made had the French Parliament been in session and had public opinion, as expressed through the Press, not been subjected to rigorous censorship?" he asked.

"Will the Prime Minister assure us—as I am sure he has the matter at heart—that in this country Parliament and the free Press will be maintained so that the Government will not be cut off from the stimulus and inspiration of the patriotic elements in the country?"

Mr. Churchill: It was certainly not a fault of the French Parliament that it was not in session.

Mr. Hore-Belisha: I agree.

Mr. Churchill: And it certainly was no fault of the French Press that it was not able to comment on these matters. It was driven pell-mell from its seat by the rapid advance of the enemy. I trust that measures we shall take will prevent any similar experience overtaking my honourable friend or the British Parliament. Arrangements have been made which "censor" speeches will be necessary, but which are very carefully worked out to enable Parliament to continue to be the guide, corrector and support of His Majesty's Government and for the Press also to play its functions in all the vicissitudes which may lie before us. (Cheers.)

Pressed by Mr. J. Maxton (Independent Labour) to explain how Mr. Reynaud's cabinet had been removed and from where the Petain Government derived its authority, Mr. Churchill said:

"I certainly cannot do so in a word. It is a very difficult matter to understand the politics of another country; it sometimes is very hard to understand the politics of one's own. (Laughter.)

Asked by Sir Percy Harris (Liberal) for an assurance that at an early date there would be an opportunity for a full, free and frank discussion of the whole situation, Mr. Churchill said he was very much in favour of such a discussion, in public if possible and in secret if necessary. —Reuter.

According to United Press, Mr. Churchill said it was clear from the Armistice that the French fleet would pass to the control of Germany and Italy fully armed.

Hour Of Destiny

THE people of Britain are living to-day through one of the supreme moments of their history, and indeed of all history. The future of our island and Empire, of the French and all democracies, of the very spirit of freedom among mankind, stands in the balance. At such an hour there is only one virtue for us all, and that is courage; only one vice, and that is to breathe the word defeat.

The news is black. No good can come of dissembling the facts. The German onslaught, propelled with unprecedented weight of machinery and explosive, burst with terrific speed through Holland, Belgium and the defences of France and the Channel ports. To protect these ports from enemy hands has been a cardinal point of British politics and strategy down the centuries. Possession of them has given the Nazis tremendous advantages for a war by sea and air against Britain. The peril of invasion has come nearer than at any time for close on a thousand years.

That is the debit side, and it is heavy. All the more reason, then, to steel our resolve and "summon up the blood." Our Navy stands supreme, our heroic Air Force grows. The great nation of the United States is awakening from its isolation, and help in ever-increasing strength will soon be on its way across the ocean. The enemy has achieved his success by the sheer weight of mechanism. Against its overwhelming force no courage, however inspired, no sacrifice, however splendid, is enough to bar the way. We have lived to see the day, prophesied by successive thinkers since the industrial age began, when machines have veritably become the master. What is the answer? More machines, more planes, more tanks, more guns and munitions to rout and destroy the Frankenstein at his own nightmare game. Then, when the terror is over, we can rebuild again a world of sane, free men.

The duty of every man, therefore, at this hour is to fight and to work as never before in our history. To this must be added the duty of stern courage, whatever blows may strike us—and they will be grim. There is only one treachery to-day—to betray the courage that defends the freedom of man. As individuals we are but sparks in the great fire-stream of history; the spirit that moulded our people to greatness was the spirit of liberty, and so long as that is kept alive for our sons to cherish, what befalls each one of us in its defence is of small account.

William Forrest, London "News Chronicle" War Correspondent who has seen for himself the effect behind the lines on the civil population of Hitler's Blitzkrieg, here says:

COOL HEADS ARE THE NEED OF THE MOMENT

THE scene was a cafe struck a dramatic pose and in one of the Channel ports in France now threatened by the Nazis.

After a sleepless night of non-stop bombing the townspeople were coming up from their cellars or coming down from the cliffs. Car-loads of exhausted refugees were resuming their journey to the south, which spelled safety.

Into the cafe, where I was having breakfast with some of my colleagues, came a French Boy Scout, breathless with excitement. "On dit que les Allemands sont deja a Abbeville," he shouted.

A group of refugees, sitting at the next table, sprang to their feet, exchanged glances of paralytic fear, then dashed into the street, and vanished.

Two of the waitresses began to run round in circles, wringing their hands.

The third waitress, a middle-aged woman, looked scornfully at them for a moment, then fishing-boats and other craft

"They say that the Germans are in Abbeville. Who says so? It is the traitor of Stuttgart (the French-born Haw-Haw who broadcasts from Radio Stuttgart). Don't believe a word of his abominable propaganda. I have a husband and even brothers at the front. With millions of other French soldiers they stand between us and the Boche."

IT was magnificent, but of no avail. Looking out of the window we saw that the refugee cars which an hour or so before had been speeding south towards Abbeville were now streaming back. Escape to the south was cut off.

The refugees moved fast—wither bound they could not tell—but the dread news moved faster. Panic seized the town.

Shops and cafes closed down at the last of the bombers had gone, the survivors, instead of enjoy-that were getting up steam to leave.

In a few minutes we were left alone in our cafe with the waitress who had denounced the alarmists. As soon as we had paid our bill she began to put up the shutters. Panic-mongering had prevailed against pep-talk-

G O E B B E L S, with his amazingly adroit propaganda, can claim as much credit for the success of Germany's Big Push as Goering, with his formidable air force.

Parachutists, delayed-action bombs, lone-ranger tanks—all these have a certain military value, but par Excellence they are psychological weapons. And how skilfully they have been employed by the Nazis in their Blitzkrieg!

During the all-night raids, for instance, which preceded the panic in that Channel port, Germans were said to have dropped several delayed-action bombs. Whether they did so or not, I cannot say: the point is that the townspeople believed they had done so.

So when morning came and the last of the bombers had gone, the survivors, instead of enjoying the respite, had to endure this further strain on their frayed nerves.

The delayed-action bomb does no more material damage than another bomb, but its effect on morale is immeasurably worse.

Or take the lone tanks which provided far in advance of the main enemy mechanised column: At night a village went to bed with the comforting thought that the vanguard of the enemy was still 50 or 60 miles away. In the morning it would awaken to the sound of machine-gun fire and see a Nazi tank career- ing towards it.

The villagers don't wait to find out whether the tank was followed by others. "The Boches are coming," went up the cry, and the villagers took to flight. The tank, of course, was doomed to destruction. Sooner or later its career was stopped by an anti-tank gun; but the loss of one tank was far outweighed by the damage it had done—not, I repeat, the material but the psychological damage.

Panic was sown all along the line of its wild suicide adventure. Thousands went to swell the stream of refugees. Roads were blocked worse than ever before. Another handicap had been placed on the mobility of the Allied forces.

IT is altogether the new art of war which was applied on the battle-scarred fields of France and Flanders. The art was developed in Spain and Poland. It was perfected. It was satanic in its subtlety.

Among the factors which contributed to the success of War Lord Adolf I put Panic one of the first.

Cool heads are, therefore, decidedly the need of the moment in England.

£5,000,000 Arms Works Being Built

By A Parliamentary Correspondent

SOME idea of the size of munition factories now being built, and the speed at which they are going up, was given by Colonel Llewellyn (Parliamentary Secretary, Ministry of Supply) in the House recently.

One factory, he said, covered 2,000 acres. It had miles of roads and railways, and its own station on the railway line adjoining. With equipment it would cost £5,000,000.

In spite of the vast scale of the undertaking it was expected that the factory would be finished in one year.

Allegations Denied

The factory was mentioned during a discussion of allegations of dishonesty and malpractices in the building of factories and militia camps brought before the House by Mr. R. Stokes (Lab., Ipswich).

The allegations were denied both by Colonel Llewellyn and Sir Edward Grigg (Parliamentary Secretary, War Office). Inquiries made by various authorities, said Sir Edward, had found no case for further inquiry, but the papers had been sent to the Select Committee concerned with expenditure who could decide if any further investigation was needed.

Denying with the case of Major Reid-Kellett, who was said to have been discharged by the War Office because he had drawn attention to alleged waste and extravagance in the building of camps, Sir Edward said no foundation for the charge had been found, but he was prepared to look personally into the matter.

We Must Understand What Has Happened

IN determining the best course we can take, it is of the first importance to understand how its results have been attained.

There is a fundamental difference between the method on which the offensive in France was carried out and that of 1914. I am not referring to the fact that it took the form of a penetration of the French centre followed by a turn outwards to the right towards the coast, whereas the 1914 offensive was a sweeping advance round the French coastward flank followed by a swing inwards to the left. Nor is it merely that the means have greatly developed from those employed a quarter of a century ago. The differences are not fundamental.

Far more striking is the way that the Germans realised, and exploited, the decisive importance of machine-power compared with man-power.

The basic in their success was that, instead of relying on masses as in 1914, they planned their faith to the penetrative power of a highly-mechanised force manned by relatively small numbers—to quality rather than quantity.

It would appear that three armoured divisions, operating in conjunction with perhaps 300 dive-bombers and backed up by a few motorised divisions, made the breach which shook the defences of France. The number of men employed in this vital thrust was but a tiny fraction of the total arrayed along the frontiers.

The German advance of 1914 may be likened to an invading tide of

THEN as NOW: In September, 1935, Hitler watched this parade of the German Army Tank Corps moving in formation over the Leopold Arena at Nuremberg during the Nazi Party Congress.

marching men; the advance of 1940 to a torrent of machines. On meeting a dam the torrent makes a crack, penetrates it and expands again beyond until another dam is met, when the process is repeated.

While we are now coming to talk about "total warfare," shouting the term as if it were a new slogan to save thought, the Germans have progressed a stage beyond it—by exploiting the conception of "qualitative warfare."

Their conscript masses have helped to mask from us the significance of the special skeleton keys which they were forging for their purpose.

It was through the use of picked forces with the essential character of volunteers that they paved the way for their startling achievements. The men composing these key forces comprised only a small fraction of their total man power. These chosen men, who fulfilled the "Gideon" principle, represented by the tank crews, the aircraft crews and the parachutists.

Yet their conception is not such a novelty as it may appear to most of our statesmen and public. It is merely an advance to the stage which was reached by our more advanced military thinkers soon after the last war.

What the German Command did was to put into practice ideas from which it was not too proud to learn, whereas our own authorities, distrusting them as untried "theories," considered it safer to keep in the familiar rut.

There is nothing so unsafe for a nation as military conservatism.

STRATEGY TEST: Answers

1. Before 1912 Albania was part of the Turkish Empire in Europe, became independent in 1913 at the end of the Balkan war by the Treaty of London. It was ruled by King Zog, formerly President, from 1928 till 1939.
2. On April 7, 1939.
3. 11,000 square miles. Population 1,003,100.
4. (a) The Strait of Otranto. (b) 50 miles wide.
5. Albania is bounded by Yugoslavia on north and north-east and Greece on the south-east.
6. Durazzo (77,800), Scutari (132,330), Tirana (57,808).

The control of both shores of Strait of Otranto and the occupation of Albania formed a valuable jumping-off point for Italian economic and military control of the South-eastern Balkan area. The Italian army of occupation in Albania can exert pressure on Yugoslavia, Greece and even on Rumania.

FRANCO-GERMAN TERMS IN FULL

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—The terms of the Franco-German armistice were published in Germany for the first time to-day by the official German news agency.

The Articles are the same as those already published abroad with some exceptions.

Article 1 which was given briefly as: "The immediate cessation of hostilities" is shown to be much more specific.

It reads: "The French Government agrees to cause the cessation of hostilities against Germany in France, in French Colonial possessions, protectorates and mandated territories."

Implicit Obedience To Nazis
Article 3 dealing with the German rights as an occupying Power, explicitly binds the French Government "to instruct immediately all French authorities and public offices in occupied territory to obey all the orders of the German Command and to co-operate with them correctly."

Article 6 providing for the storage, under German and Italian control, of French arms and military equipment in the unoccupied area of France, adds: "The German High Command retains the power to order any measures necessary to prevent the unauthorized use of this material."

Article 7, which requires the French to hand over the plans of fortifications and particulars of mines and other defences, includes a provision that "all such obstacles must be removed by the French forces at the demand of the Germans."

French Fleet Promise
Article 8, calling home the French Fleet for demobilisation and disarmament, specifies that "the harbour to which a warship is to return must be determined on the basis of its home port in peacetime."

This Article, after making "a solemn declaration" that Germany will not use the French Fleet for her own purposes during the war, says: "The German Government further solemnly and expressly declares it does not intend to claim the French Fleet on the conclusion of peace."

To Return Nazi Ships
Article 11, after dealing with the disposal of French merchant shipping, demands "the handing over in good condition on demand of all sized German merchant ships in French ports."

Article 12, which forbids French aircraft to leave the ground, adds that "any aircraft taking off without German permission will be regarded by the German Air Force as an enemy and will be treated as such."

By Article 13, dealing with the surrender intact of all military and other establishments as well as communications in the occupied area, the French Government undertakes to ensure that "skilled labour, rolling stock and other means of transport are available in the amount necessary to the normal needs of peace."

Article 17, laying down that supplies in the occupied territory can be used only in agreement with the German Government which "undertakes to take into consideration the vital needs of the population of the unoccupied territory."

Release Of Prisoners
Article 19 requires the release not only of German war prisoners but of civilians "detained for acts in favour of the German Reich." This Article adds that the French Government must hand over all Germans named by the German Government who are residing in France and in the French Colonies, protectorates and mandated territories.

The French Government undertakes to prevent the removal of German military and civilian prisoners from France to French possessions or abroad.

The complete lists will be submitted of all prisoners who have already been taken outside France as well as German war prisoners who are sick or wounded and are incapable of being transported.

which was heavily reinforced with timber. The walls were painted white and the timber bright red, the effect being cheerful and reassuring.

People sat down on the benches and found it rather like being in a bus—wondering when it was going to start. They were not very talkative, except for one man who decided he was the wag of the party. Most of them began to doze off until the shelter looked like a railway station waiting room. They heard no bombs or anti-aircraft fire, although some planes passed overhead.

Then after a couple of hours the sirens blew the all-clear. They all got up and trooped back across the street to bed, except for one Canadian observer who mounted his bicycle and pedalled down the street under the glare of steel-helmeted wardens, to report at the microphone that after all really nothing had happened.

There has been no official pronouncement yet by the Governor General of French Indo China but it is believed that the French colony, although no longer able to rely on support from the Motherland, will certainly resist any Japanese attempt to enter Haiphong or to land troops on French soil. It is pointed out in this connection that a not inconsiderable part of the French navy, including cruisers and submarines, is stationed in Indo China waters.

Floods On Frontier

Meanwhile, the 1,500 Japanese troops stationed along the Hongkong frontier are flourishing this morning in the heaviest floods experienced in the Shum Chun district for many years.

The Shum Chun River has overflowed its banks at several points, inundating the surrounding country. Parts of Shum Chun itself are reported to be under water and the highway between Shum Chun and Namtau, which the Japanese have been repairing with conscript Chinese labour, is under water at several points.

Except for Japanese planes lazily reconnoitring for Chinese troop movements, there are no signs of military activity along the frontier.

A "Domel" message this morning, however, claimed that Japanese forces yesterday entered Pingshan, 14 miles north-east of Shumchun.

The message indicates that it is the intention of the Japanese forces to occupy the entire border area from Namtau to Mirs Bay.

It is reported that the two bridges across the Shum Chun River will be dismantled by the military authorities to-day. These bridges were dismantled in August last year, but were repaired after the Japanese evacuated the frontier area.

Appeal For Refugees

Mr. Chan Kam-po, Chairman of the Po On Chamber of Commerce, who is now in Hongkong, has appealed to local Chinese circles to donate funds to relieve the large number of refugees who fled into the New Territories after the fall of Namtau and Shumchun.

The evacuation was carried out in orderly fashion some of the refugees withdrew with the Chinese troops while the rest fled across the border into the New Territories.

R.A.F. Attack Nazi Supply Depots WIDESPREAD RAIDS ON GERMANY

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—An Air Ministry communique states:

"Yesterday, our bombers, although hampered by bad visibility, attacked aerodromes at Eindhoven, Schiphol and Waalhaven, which are the bases in occupied Dutch territory from which enemy bombers can set out to attack this country."

"The operations were continued during the night. Schiphol was again attacked and also the aerodrome at DeLooy."

"Aerodromes at Mulheim and at Kessel in Westphalia were also bombed."

Naval Base Raided
"Other formations of our bombers attacked the naval base at Helder, where explosions and fires were caused."

"At Dortmund, an oil deposit and marshalling yards were bombed and also targets at Kamen, east of Dortmund, and Kassel, where the aircraft works were set on fire."

"Aerodrome buildings and aircraft works at Döbeln, near Tircmen, were also attacked."

"Other aircraft bombed Dortmund-Ems Canal, where the lock-gates and barges were hit."

"Railway junctions and stations near Emmerich, between the Ruhr and the Dutch frontier, were also damaged."

Planes Return Safely

"All our aircraft returned safely from both the day and night operations."

"An Anson aircraft of the Coastal Command was attacked by four Messerschmitt single-engine fighters while patrolling over the English Channel in the ensuing engagement, one Messerschmitt was shot down in flames. The other enemy fighters abandoned the pursuit and our aircraft returned safely to its base."

SHOES for GOLF and HIKING

LOTUS "DORMEONE" SHOES are very old and tried favourites. They have two special features—the LOW HEEL and the "DORMEONE" STRAP.

The heel is only 3/4" high. This means that the weight of the body is thrown well back and a correct stance is enforced. Almost as good as the ideal—the barefoot stance.

The "DORMEONE" strap acts like a veritable extra ligament, bracing the arch of the foot constantly and taking away the strain of the low heel. It is adjustable both for position and tension. It permits a full day's golf or hiking without foot fatigue.

DUPLICATE STATEMENT

House Of Lords Hears
Churchill Explanation

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—A statement similar to Mr. Winston Churchill's in the House of Commons was made by Viscount Caldecote, Leader of the House of Lords, to-day.

In the course of his statement, Lord Caldecote emphasised that in both the occupied and unoccupied regions of France, "Marshal Petain and his colleagues are held tight in the grip of the enemy. The real government of France will be found in Berlin, not Paris."

Difficult Relations

Britain's formal relations with the Government of France, he said, were now bound to be very difficult and were actually full of danger. In fact, they might prove actually full of danger, he said, they might prove actually impossible, save with the consent of Germany, that any such relations should exist at all.

"With sorrow I am afraid that it must be recognised that the French submission has made the sovereignty of the part of the field, a definite supremacy over the lucky and ally of Germany."

"But I am empowered to give an assurance that if there are any contacts which can be maintained, His Majesty's Government will lose no opportunity."

Importance Of French Fleet

Discussing the fate of the French Fleet, Lord Caldecote said no one would be unaware of the powerful aid which the Fleet could bring either to Germany or to Great Britain.

"Our defences would indeed, in part, depend upon the ships which had still quite lately been operating in the Mediterranean with the Royal Navy. It would be more than a misfortune and cause for shame if the forces so lately used in the service of the Allies were to be transferred to the enemies of France and ourselves."

In conclusion, Lord Caldecote hoped that the French Empire in many parts of the world would see to the continuation of the struggle.

He declared that the superior initiative and skill of "our troops in the Middle East has established in that part of the field, a definite supremacy over the lucky and ally of Germany."

"The feat of the trawler with a four-inch gun in subduing an Italian submarine may be regarded as typical of that supremacy."

WOMEN GOLFERS CONTRIBUTE TO WAR FUND

Schoolgirl Overcomes The Champions At Royal Mid-Surrey

(By "Birdie")

RUSHING IN from all parts of Britain, and snatching brief holidays from their war-work, over 130 women golfers, including the champions (past, present and future) took part in a grand tournament at the Royal Mid-Surrey course organised by the "Daily Sketch" in aid of the British War Fund just over a month ago.

Included were Miss Pam Barton (the champion), Miss Wanda Morgan (1935 British champion and international), Miss Molly Gourlay (1926 and 1929 English champion and international), Mrs. A. C. Critchley, formerly Miss Diana Fishwick (1930 British champion, 1932 English champion and international), Miss Doris Chambers (1923 British champion and international) and Miss Beatrice Perry (nine times winner of Tasmanian title).

But Miss Maureen Ruttle, 17-year-old schoolgirl at Parkstone, overcame this formidable field with a very fine 75 (two over Par).

This champion of the future jumped to fame a couple of years ago when she made herself the stumbling block for several of the "stars" in the Open. Being still at school, she has only her week-ends for golf, but since the war began she has played in 15 competitions and has won all of them! She went out in a perfect 36, but the bunkers at the 10th put a 5 on her card and she came home with 39.

Wanda Morgan was second with 77, which was a magnificent effort considering that this, as was the case with many of the others, was her first time of swinging a club since August last year. Molly Gourlay returned a gallant 70 in her first game since last August, but Pam Barton was among the "also rans" with 81. How essential practice is, Miss Barton learned at the 16th. For a champion to take two out of a bunker might cause comment; three might create an article—but sympathise with the champion for she took four to get out of the sand at the 16th!

However, it was the game and the cause that mattered. This was a reunion of players who had not seen each other since last year, and medals were provided for all to commemorate the occasion.

Henry Cotton, whose wife took part in the tournament, augmented the proceeds with the auction of a set of clubs from seven authentic champions—himself, James Braid, J. H. Taylor, Sandy Herd, Arthur Havers, Alfred Padgham and H. Whitcombe.

COTTON turned up just after his wife had finished.

Said Mrs. Cotton: "I have walked 27,329 kilometres watching you play golf, and you can't turn up in time to watch me."

Said Mr. Cotton when asked why he did not carry his wife's clubs:

(1) that he did not want to be accused of putting his wife in a position of lawfully taking his advice;

Tests For Soviet Sportsmen

MOSCOW, June 18 (Reuter).—Soviet sportsmen are undergoing tests for the "ready for labour and defence" badge.

In addition to 14 tests in running, swimming, skiing and other sports the new schedule includes six exercises to test the competitor's strength, agility, courage, speed, endurance and accuracy.

In the test for courage, for example, candidate may choose between parachute jumping, rope-walking or climbing a difficult mountain.

Tennis Postponed

The League tennis matches arranged for yesterday were cancelled owing to the sudden condition of the grounds.

(2) that he did not want to do a caddie out of a job;
(3) that he didn't want to have a domestic scene on the course by having his wife refuse his advice, as she certainly would.

THE leading scores of the Tournament were:

Scratch.—Miss M. Ruttle 75, Miss W. Morgan 77, Miss Levett-Cameron 78, Miss I. Duxford 79, Miss M. Gourlay 79, Mrs. Reevink and Mrs. J. Beck 80, Miss Pam Barton 81.
Silver Division (Handicap).—Mrs. Black 80-12-71, Mrs. S. E. Lawrence 84-13-71, Mrs. C. Armstrong 81-9-72.
Bronze Division (Handicap).—Miss M. Turquand 101-33-68, Miss M. Abbott 97-19-78, Miss C. Rizoul 97-19-78, Mrs. Houston 105-27-78, Mrs. S. Parker 105-27-78.

ANOTHER news item from Home is that arrangements for the "News Chronicle" £500 Tournament have been completed, and will be held on the East Brighton course on September 4, 5 and 6.

There will, however, be a new order this year. The competition will be open to professional and amateurs with handicaps of 3 or less, and will be in the nature of an unofficial championship as the Open is unlikely to be played this year. Alfred Padgham, now a wartime policeman, won last August with an aggregate of 279 for 72 holes.

Apart from the £500 prize money for the professionals, there will be prizes for the three leading amateurs. All the proceeds will be shared by the Red Cross and the P.G.A. benevolent fund.

The competition has been sanctioned by the English Golf Union and the P.G.A. One round will be played on each of the first two days, and two rounds on the final day.

THE thirty-seventh-hole victory of Henry Cotton over Alfred Padgham in the "News of the World" £1,250 tournament appears to have raised an argument at Home whether 18 or 36 holes provides the fairer test.

Cotton was one up after the first 18, and the match was all square at the 36th. Some seem to think that to have the match decided on the extra hole was unsatisfactory.

Personally, I think it an idle argument. If the match were over 18 holes, and if it were all square at the 18th, it would then have to be decided on the extra 18th, which would amount to the same thing.

And it can be advanced in favour of the longer match, that the greater the number of holes, the greater are the chances of the more consistent and better player winning.

London Counties Win Easily

DETAILS of two further county cricket matches have reached Hongkong—Leicestershire beat Northants by 8 wickets at Barwell, and Derbyshire and Notts drew at Trent Bridge—while in a third match, London Counties easily beat Honor Oak by 111 runs.

Only two centuries were scored, and both were in the Derby-Notts match. A. Alderman was 100 not out in Derby's second innings, and G. F. H. Heane scored 101 in Notts' first knock. Drake (Leicester) returned the best bowling analysis of the day—6 for 26—while Wellard (Somerset and London Counties) took 5 for 27 against Honor Oak.

Filipino Flyweights Fight a Draw

Leading Contenders For World Championship

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18 (UP).—Little Dado and Little Pancho, Filipino boxers who top the flyweight ranks, fought to a draw in ten rounds here last night.

Dado, a 2-to-1 favourite prior to the bout, landed four blows to Pancho's one, but they were of the "creampuff" variety and left Pancho unmarked.

Pancho missed frequently, but when he landed he staggered Dado, for his punches were solid and carried all his weight behind them.

Dado after the bout said he sought to win on a knockout in the last two rounds, but "Pancho tied me up nicely."

FAST AND FURIOUS
There were no knockdowns, but the bout was fast and packed with good action.

The fight proved to be a financial failure, for the gross gate amounted only to U.S.$5,300. Dado took 50 per cent. of the gate, while Pancho had to be content with 12½ per cent.

Dado weighed 111 pounds, and Pancho 111½.

Little Dado is generally recognised as the leading flyweight.

PROMPT ISSUE OF WAR LOAN ADVOCATED

Singapore Councillors Suggest Immediate Action

MR. J. I. DAWSON, the Chamber of Commerce representative on the Singapore Legislative Council, giving his personal views at a recent meeting, said he favoured the prompt issue of a war loan. He thought an issue at par, currency 19 years, rate of interest three per cent., were adequate terms. The Colony could subscribe at least $30,000,000, he said.

Mr. E. C. H. Charlwood and Mr. E. N. C. Woolerton also advocated immediate action regarding a loan and suggested war taxation in incomes.

Mr. Dawson said the servicing of the loan would require extra taxation, and he personally felt that income tax was "the fairest and most equitable" means of servicing it and meeting other steeply rising burdens of wartime.

This was conditional, however, on the tax applying to the whole of Malaya and to it being in force for a definite time after the end of the war.

He had hoped that the report of the committee which was appointed to investigate the question of a war loan would have been tabled that day, and that they should learn that it was favourable to such a measure—the purpose of which would be to make available to the Imperial Government with the least delay possible a large sum for the prosecution of the war. It was unfortunate that that had not been possible, but in its absence he took the liberty of making a few remarks on the subject of a war loan and the means to service it.

Prompt Issue

Mr. Dawson said he had all along contended that the prompt issue of a war loan was an essential step, and that opinion was also held by a considerable number of representative institutions and men.

The arguments against its issue, or for its indefinite delay until all measures of taxation necessary to ensure its service and liquidation were cut and dried, had seemed to him over-cautious, for there had never been any doubt that the Colony's finances such a loan, although the method might be open to differences of opinion.

The suggestion had been made by a responsible local association that the terms of a war loan should be issued at par, currency 19 years, rate of interest three per cent.—which seemed to him to be adequate terms. He was of opinion, however, that, if possible, a war loan should be issued jointly by all Malayan Governments. But if that meant delay while lengthy arguments and correspondence were conducted with the different administrations in order to settle beforehand what share of the cost and charges each should bear, he would rather say—let us get on with a Colonial loan at once and let the Malay States make their own decisions as soon as they could.

He did not overlook that there were serious objections to such a course, and undoubtedly a Malayan loan was by far the best.

Therefore he hoped that the extreme gravity of the situation would spur all concerned to negotiate with

Fresh Taxation

The service of the loan would undoubtedly require fresh taxation. With others, he had devoted considerable time and study to ways and means on taxation, and quite a number of potentially important sources of revenue had presented themselves, but, as the report of the body which had been conducting that investigation was not yet complete, he could say no more on that aspect.

Nevertheless, he felt he could say that his personal opinion, which had never been hostile to the principle of a tax on incomes and profits, was confirmed that almost all alternatives to such a tax had serious objections and it was that form of impost which was likely to provide, in the fairest and most equitable fashion, the means to service loans and to meet the other steeply rising burdens of war-time.

But to that conclusion he attached the conditions that it had to apply to the whole of Malaya, had to be in force only for a definite time after the end of the war, and be in that respect under control of the legislative bodies.

Above all, it had to be administered firmly and effectively, and even ruthlessly where there was reason to suspect attempts to evade or to corrupt, added Mr. Dawson.

BRITAIN'S EFFORT

Crystal Palace Towers For Demolition

London, June 25.

Two of London's most prominent landmarks are to be demolished—the steel towers of the Crystal Palace. The iron in them is to be given to the Government.

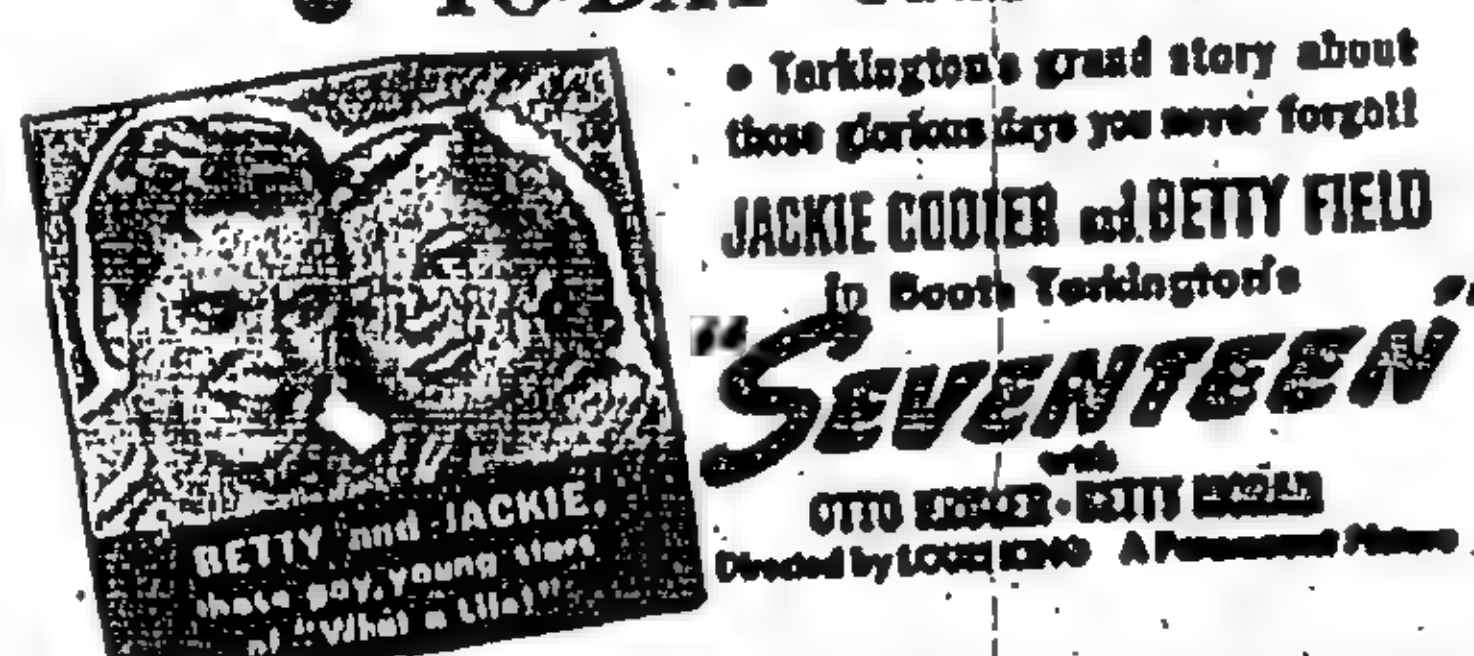

The trustees made this announcement to-day, stating they felt the time had come for them to give what they could towards the Government's request for all the scrap iron that could be spared.

The towers were the only structures of the Crystal Palace which remained after the disastrous fire on November 30, 1936. They are 230 ft. high and contain several thousand tons of iron.—Reuter.

1 FILM 5 MONTHS, £4,250,000

IN less than five months the film version of "Gone With The Wind" has earned £4,250,000 in the United States.

This beats all previous box-office records there, says the British United Press.

And the film is still going strong. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer expect that more than £7,500,000 will have gone into box-offices before the film has finished its run in America.

Then there will be the receipts from the British Empire. M.G.M. is trying to gross £1,000,000 in Britain alone.

But, as P. L. Mannon, "Daily Herald" Film Critic, announced the suggested minimum of 3s. 6d. to see the film is causing a storm of protest in Britain.

Miss Margaret Mitchell, so far a "one-book" author, has refused to write a sequel to "Gone With The Wind."

She received £12,500 for the film rights to her book, but this has now been doubled.

AMERICAN OPINION

One Hundred Per Cent. Behind Great Britain

That the citizens of the United States of America are 100 per cent. behind Great Britain in her present struggle for freedom, was the view expressed by Dr. R. E. Beddoe, member of the American College of Hospital Administrators and Superintendent of the Great Memorial Hospital at Wuchow, at the weekly luncheon of the Hongkong Library Club yesterday.

Dr. Beddoe said he had just returned from the United States, where he had the privilege of speaking over 250 times in 12 months on Far Eastern affairs.

"You may be interested to know," he said, "what the consensus of American opinion is to-day. I wish to say to you that the United States is 100 per cent. behind England in this terrible situation. (Applause.) I want you to know also that there are many insidious and destructive forces, but having gone all over the country and spoken to thousands of people, I am quite confident that when the crisis develops you will find your cousins on the right side." (Applause.)

After saying he was proud of his Anglo-Saxon heritage, Dr. Beddoe concluded: "I want you to know that I recognise, together with millions of American people, that there is something fine and clean about an Englishman, and that you have some cousins across the sea who are proud of their relationship." (Applause.)

SEA PICTURES

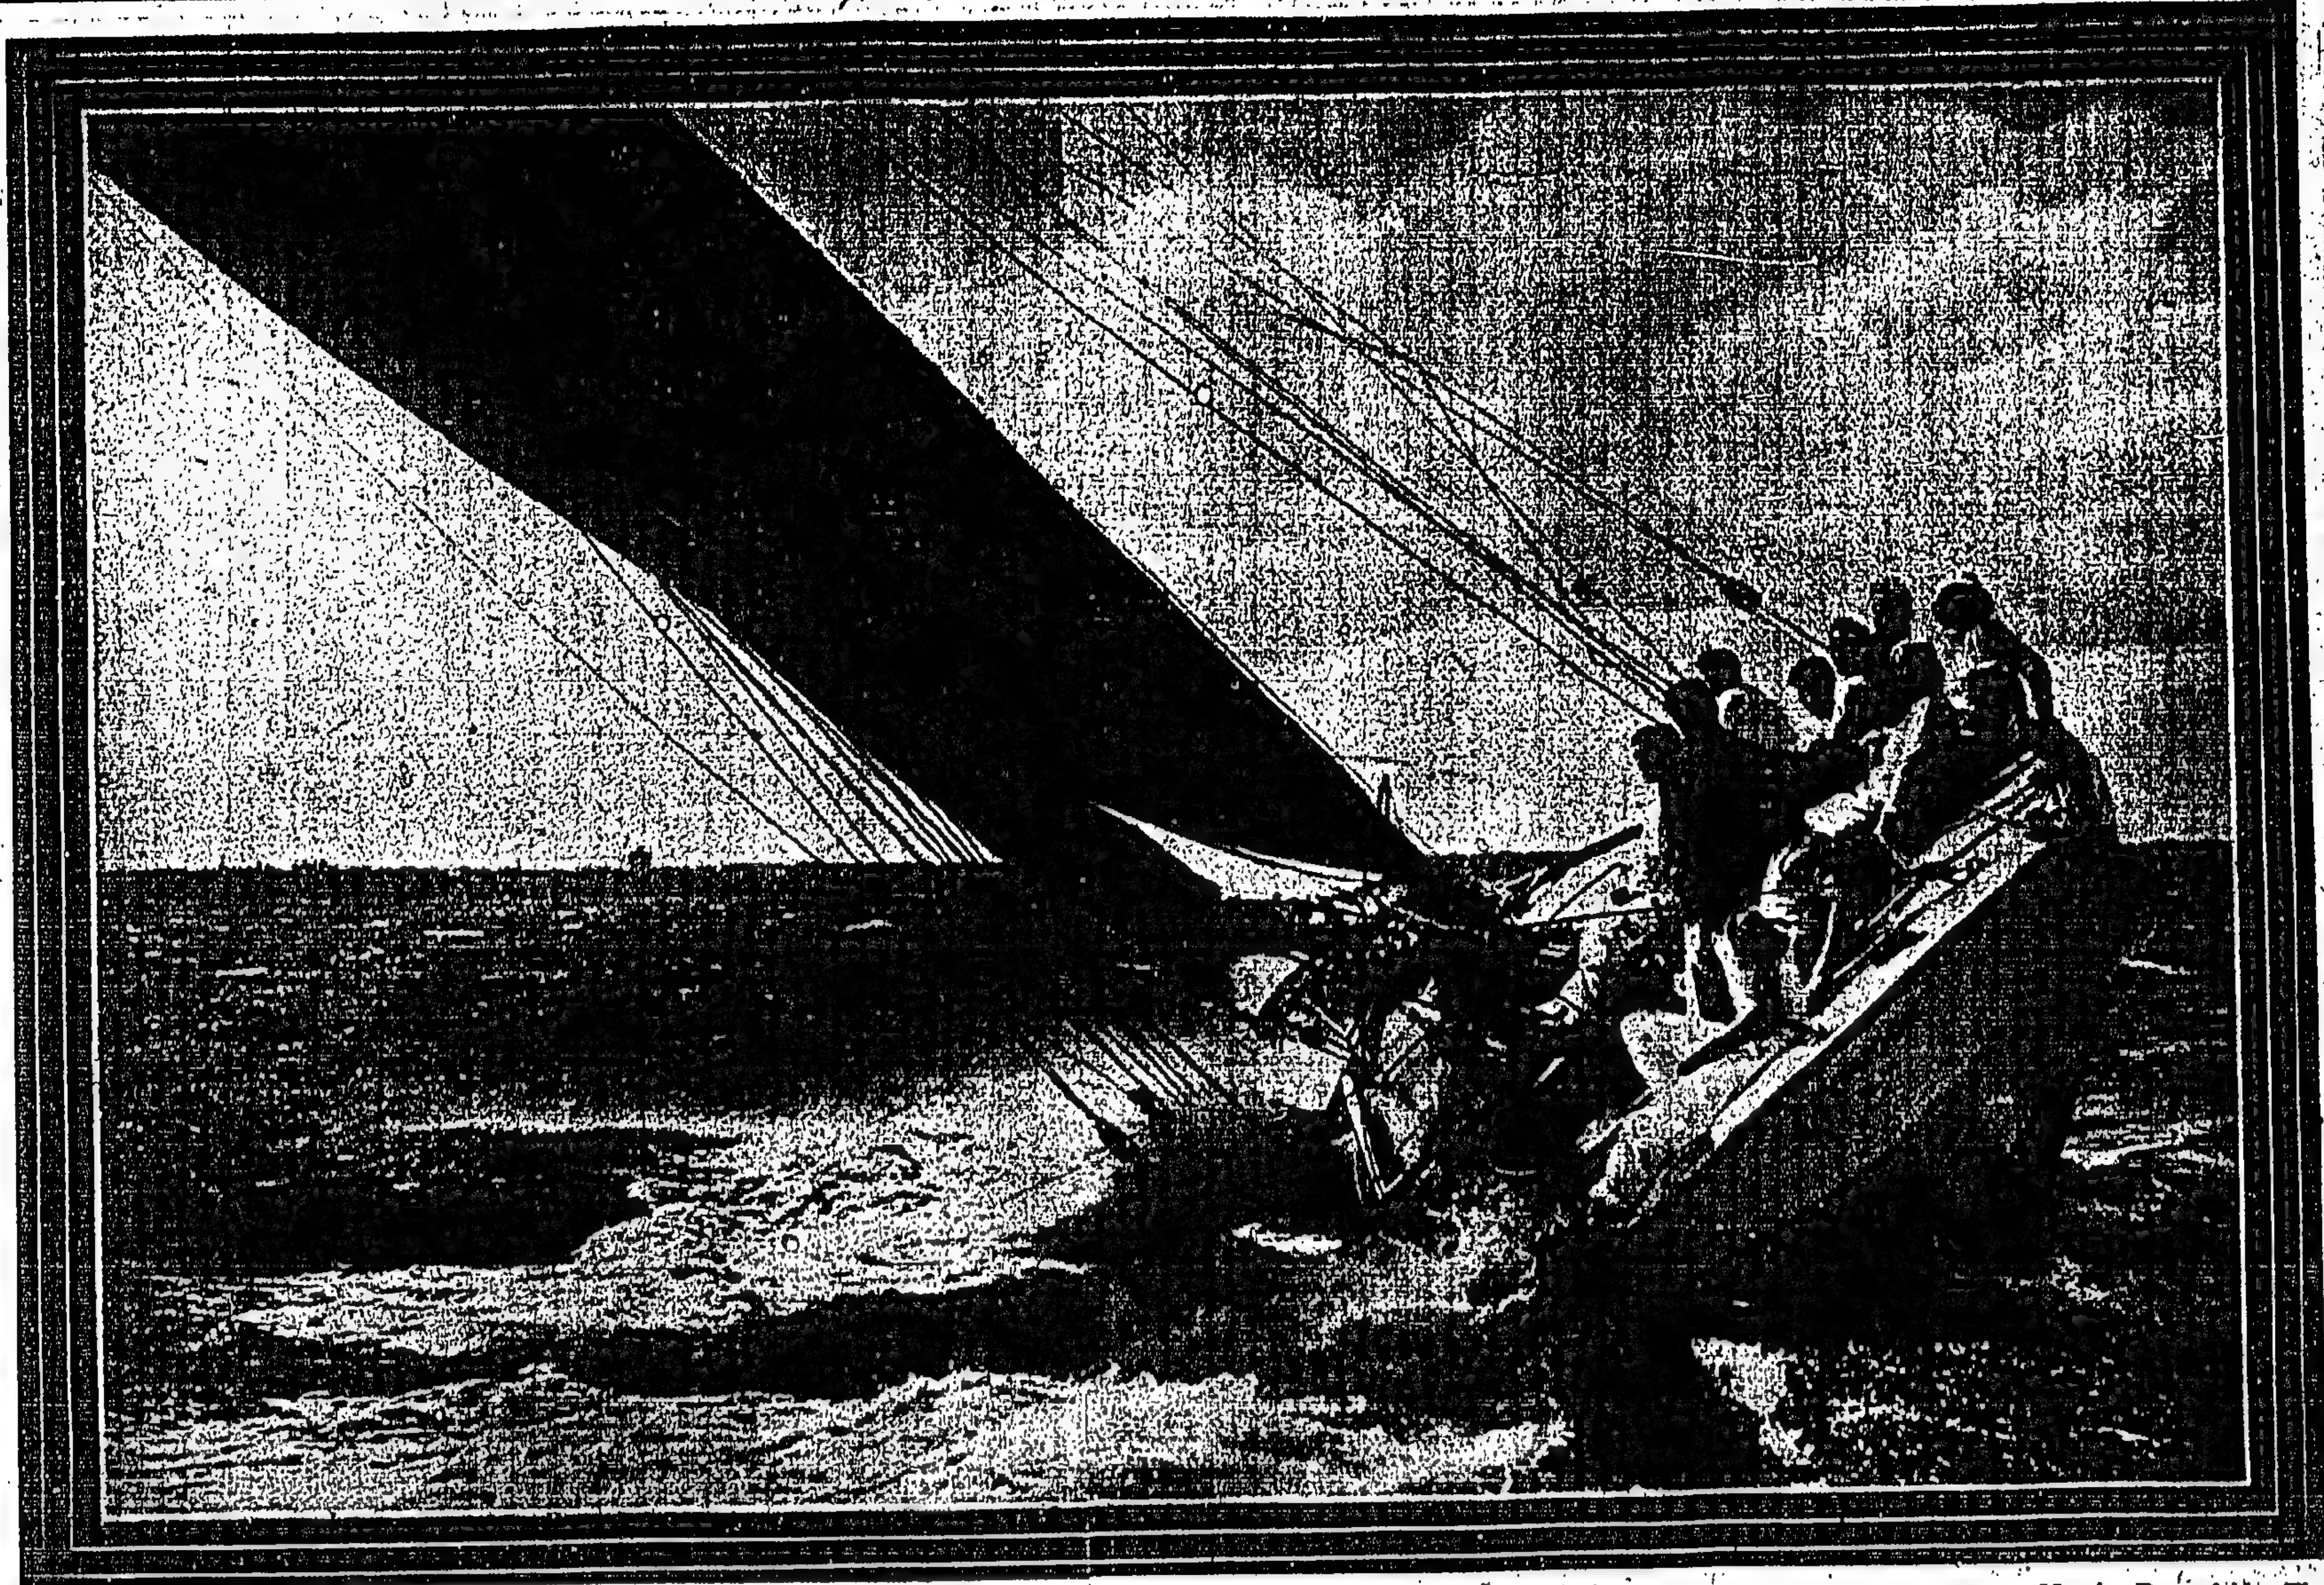

The dramatic pictures on this page, exclusive to "The Telegraph," highlight three moods of the sea as man encounters it.

There is a vast difference between the sea in the beautiful action study at the right and the bullet-torn sea of the Dunkirk evacuation, seen on the last picture on the page.

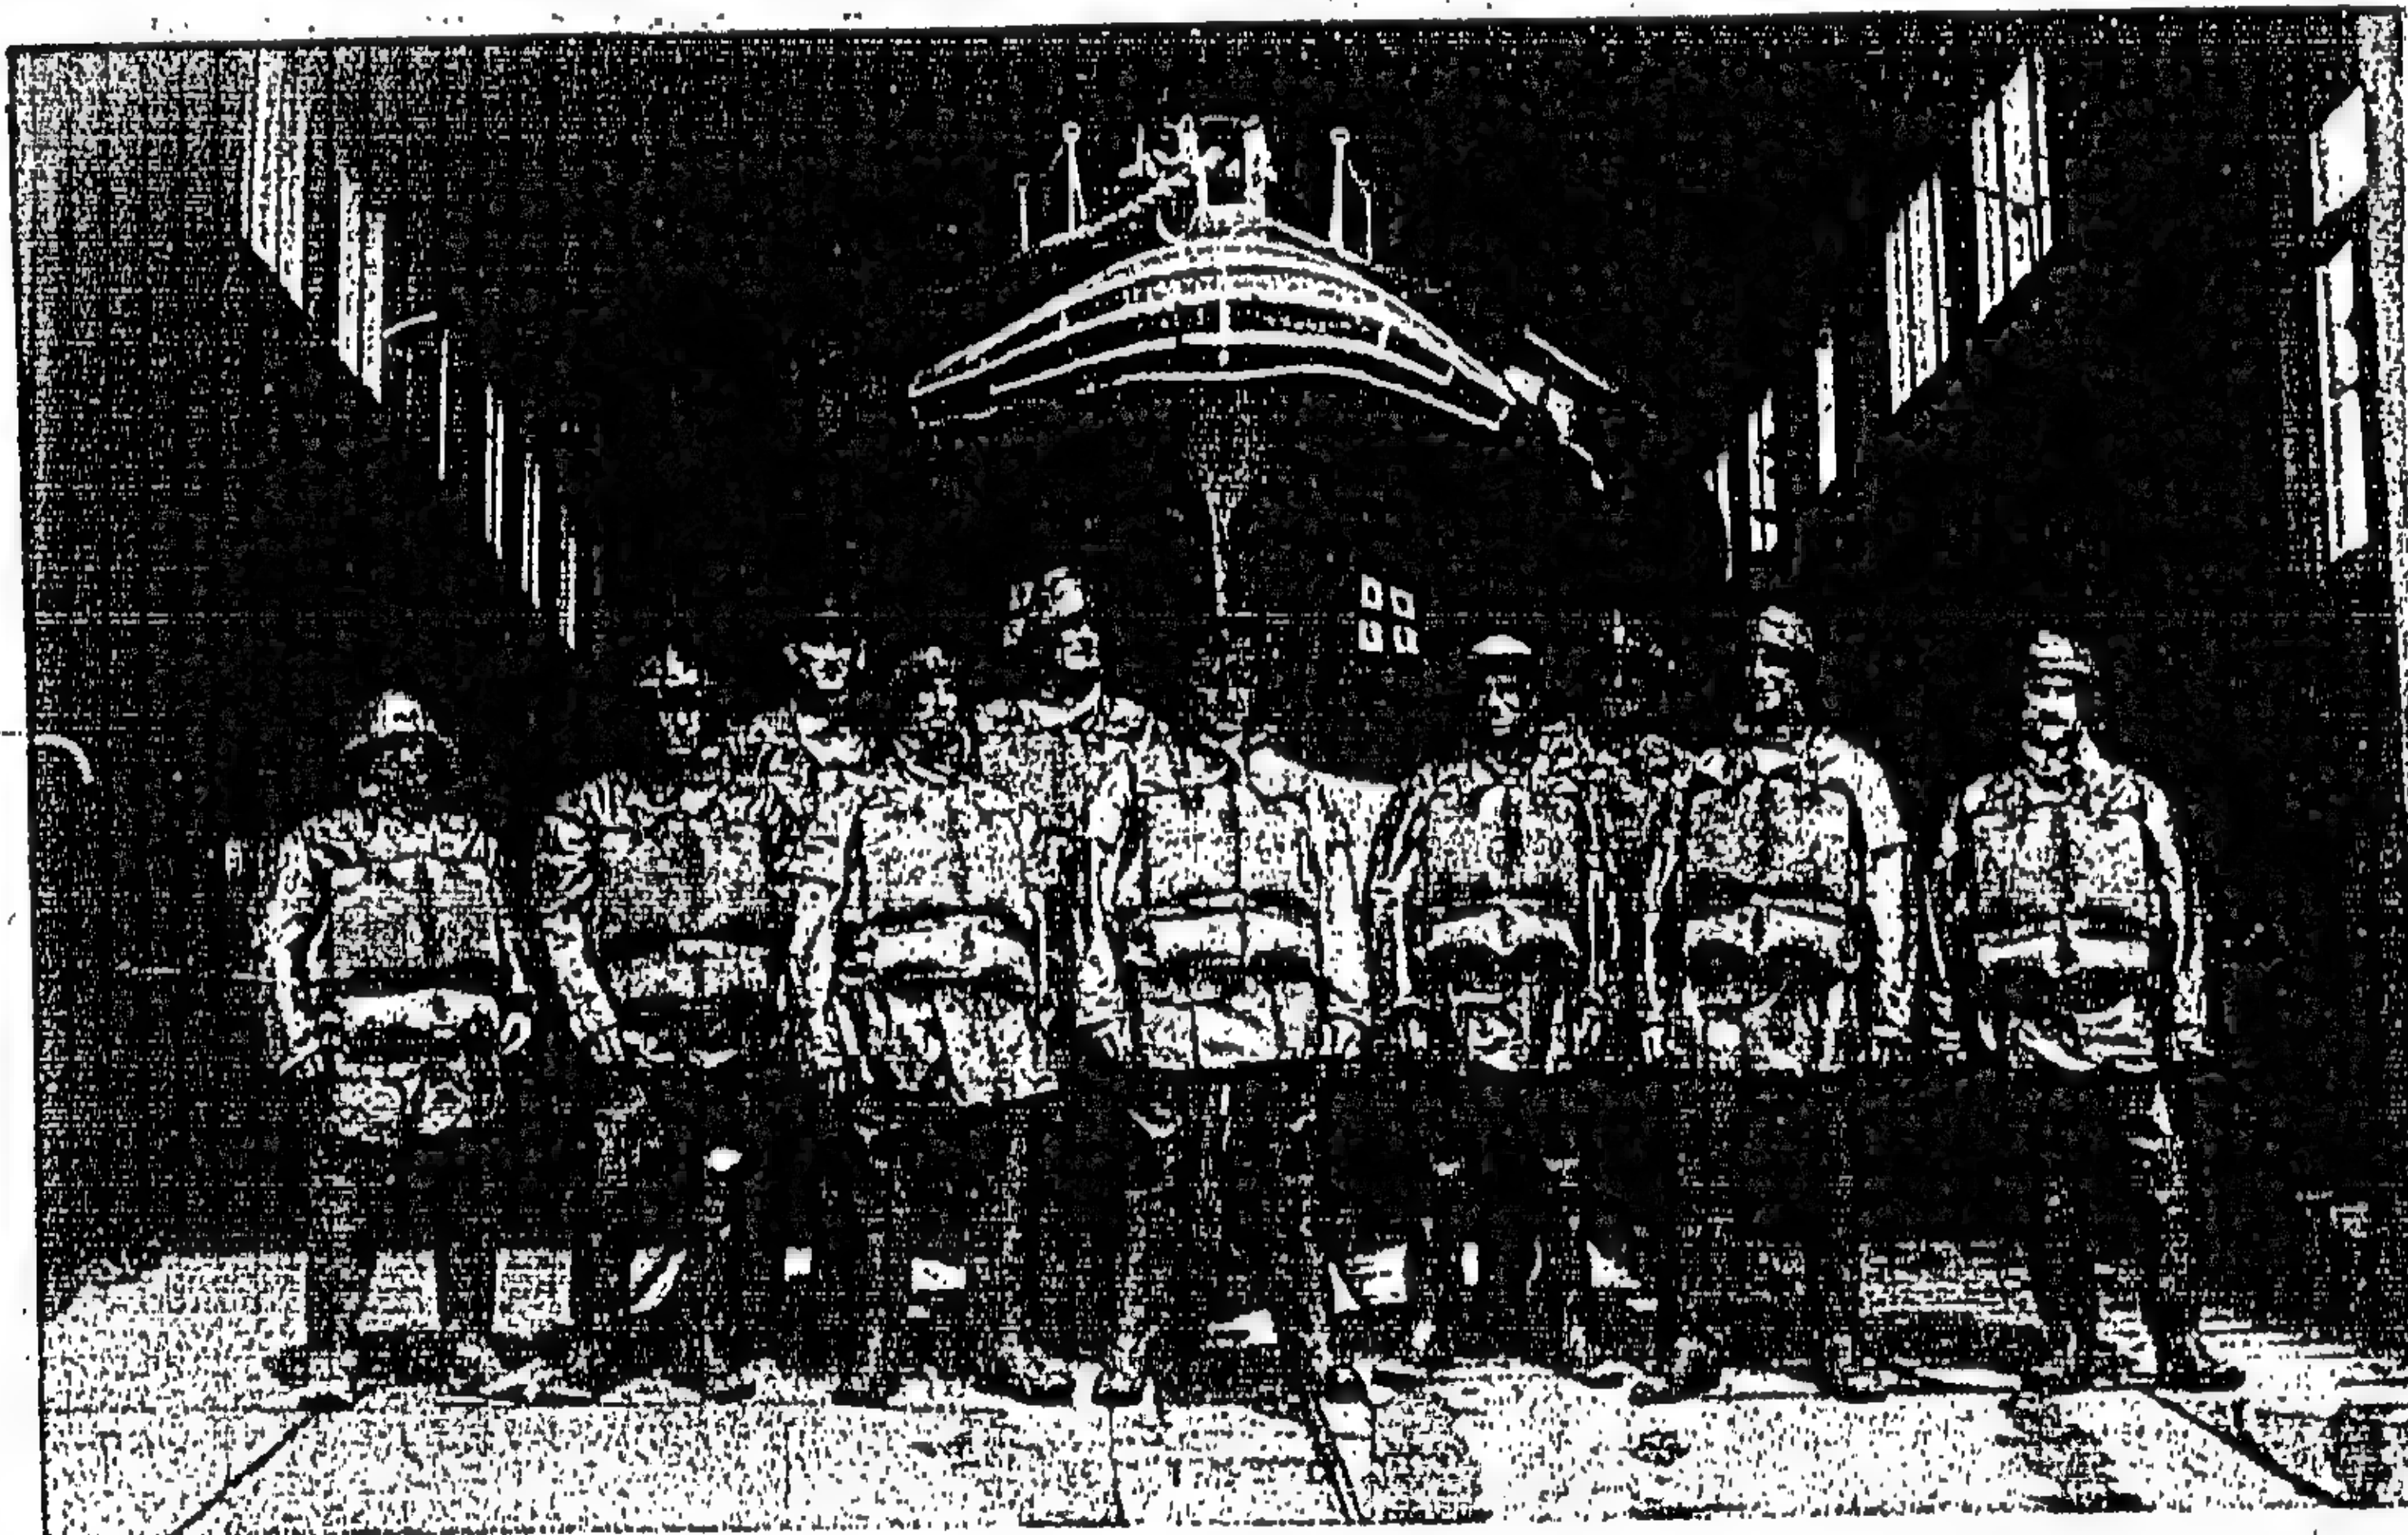

Yet men who were peaceful yachting enthusiasts a few months before took part in the grimmest hours sea-warfare has ever known. Several died in helping evacuate British troops from Flanders.

The other pictures show the men to whom the sea is always grim — British lifeboat crews. To them too the war has brought new dangers, new labours.

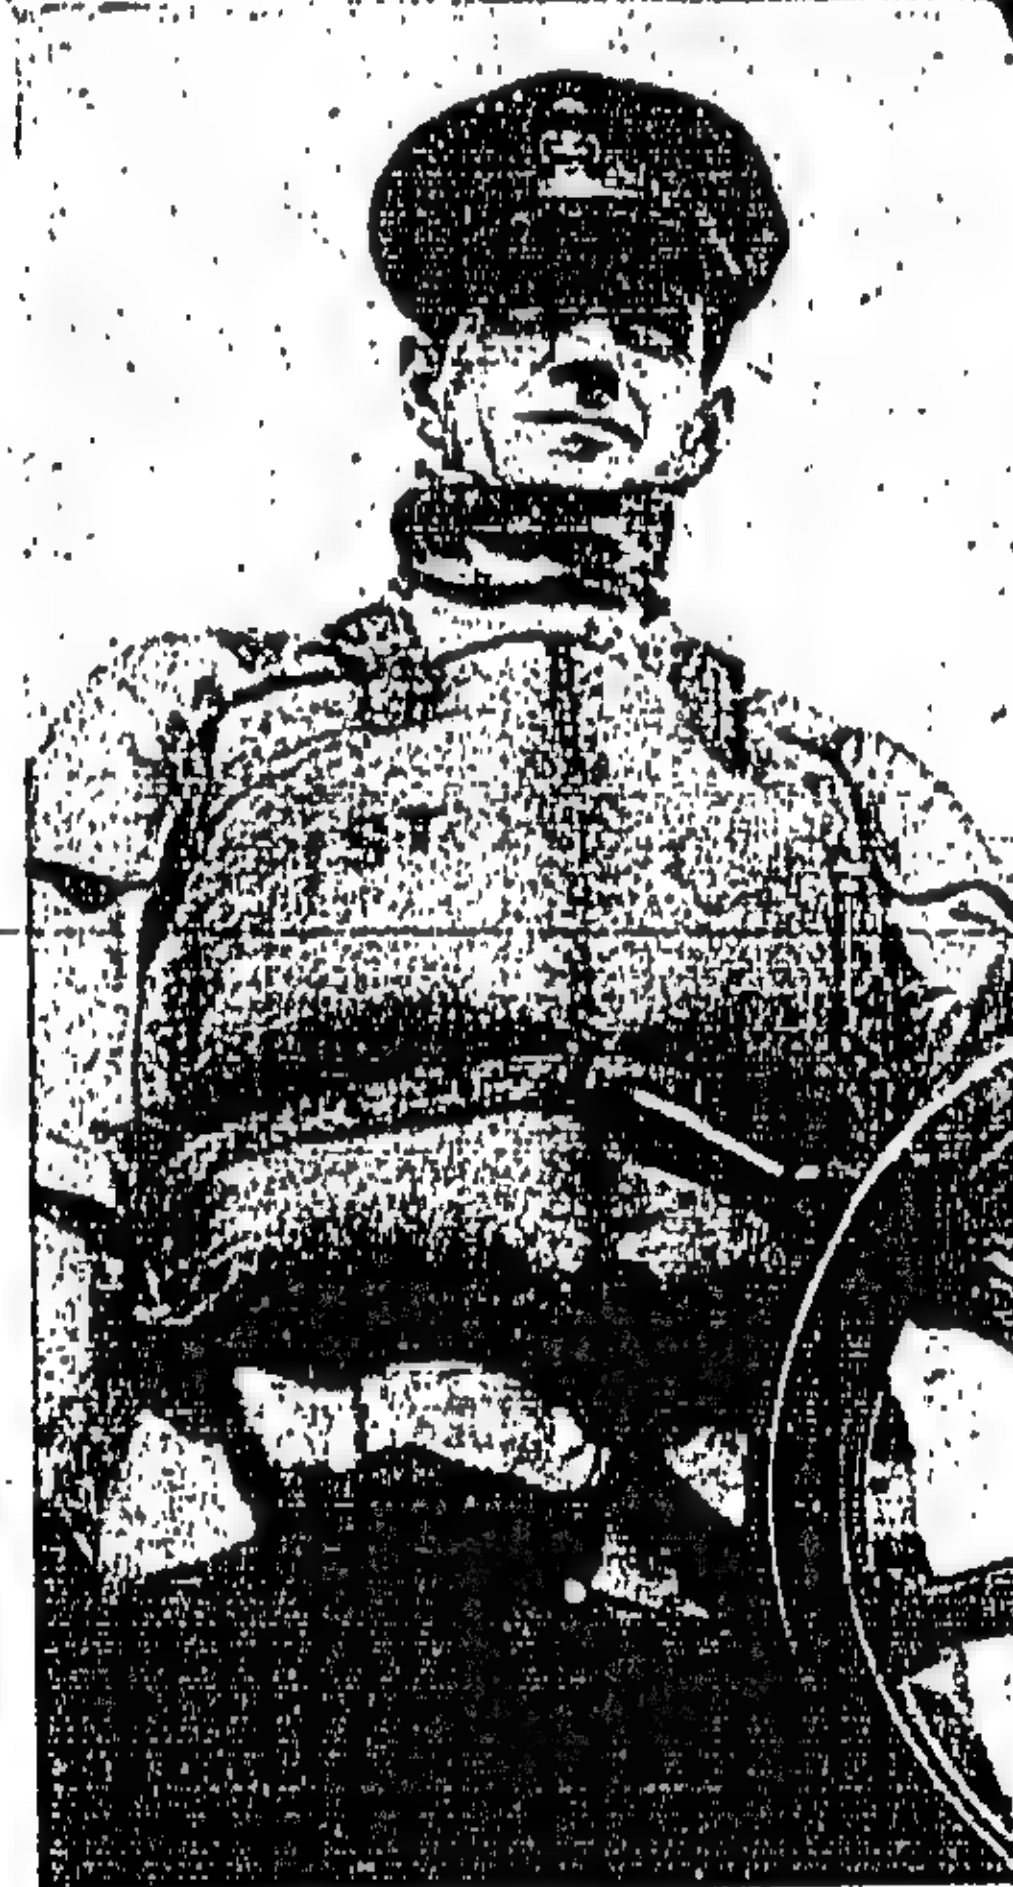

But that same sea is the one thing Hitler's legions can not conquer. It is the seas that will bring Britain final victory.

LEE RAIL AWASH.—This magnificent yachting picture, one of the finest ever taken, won a major prize in an American photographic contest for Cameraman Morris Rosenfeld. The yacht is the "Typhoon," one of the famous craft of the wealthy New York Yacht Club.

Britain's lifeboat crews have rescued more lives during the last nine months than during any similar period in history. Submarine and mine warfare has made their work arduous, dangerous. This is the crew of the Southend lifeboat station.

Coxswain Page of the Southend lifeboat. Repeatedly since the war began, the lives of neutrals, women and children, have depended on the skill and courage of British lifeboat coxswains.

LIFEBOATS CARRY ON

Fine, modern equipment is carried on all British lifeboats. All but a dozen boats on isolated shores are new motor-driven. This is a patent device for firing a lifeline to stricken ship.

In all weathers, British lifeboats, often manned by fishermen, stand by to save life at sea. Their heroism and devotion to duty is world-famous.

British troops lined up on the beach at Dunkirk were swept by Nazi machine-guns. Yachtsmen, like those in the top picture, helped in the miracle evacuation. Several gave their lives.

Miss Observation

GIRLS getting make-up taped now; not pink, not orange, but apricot. Healthy red-brown lipstick. Suits most girls too.

GIRLS at home wearing new flower hats look best with rose-pink lipstick, not mauve or cyclamen any more. New powder colour: Cameo.

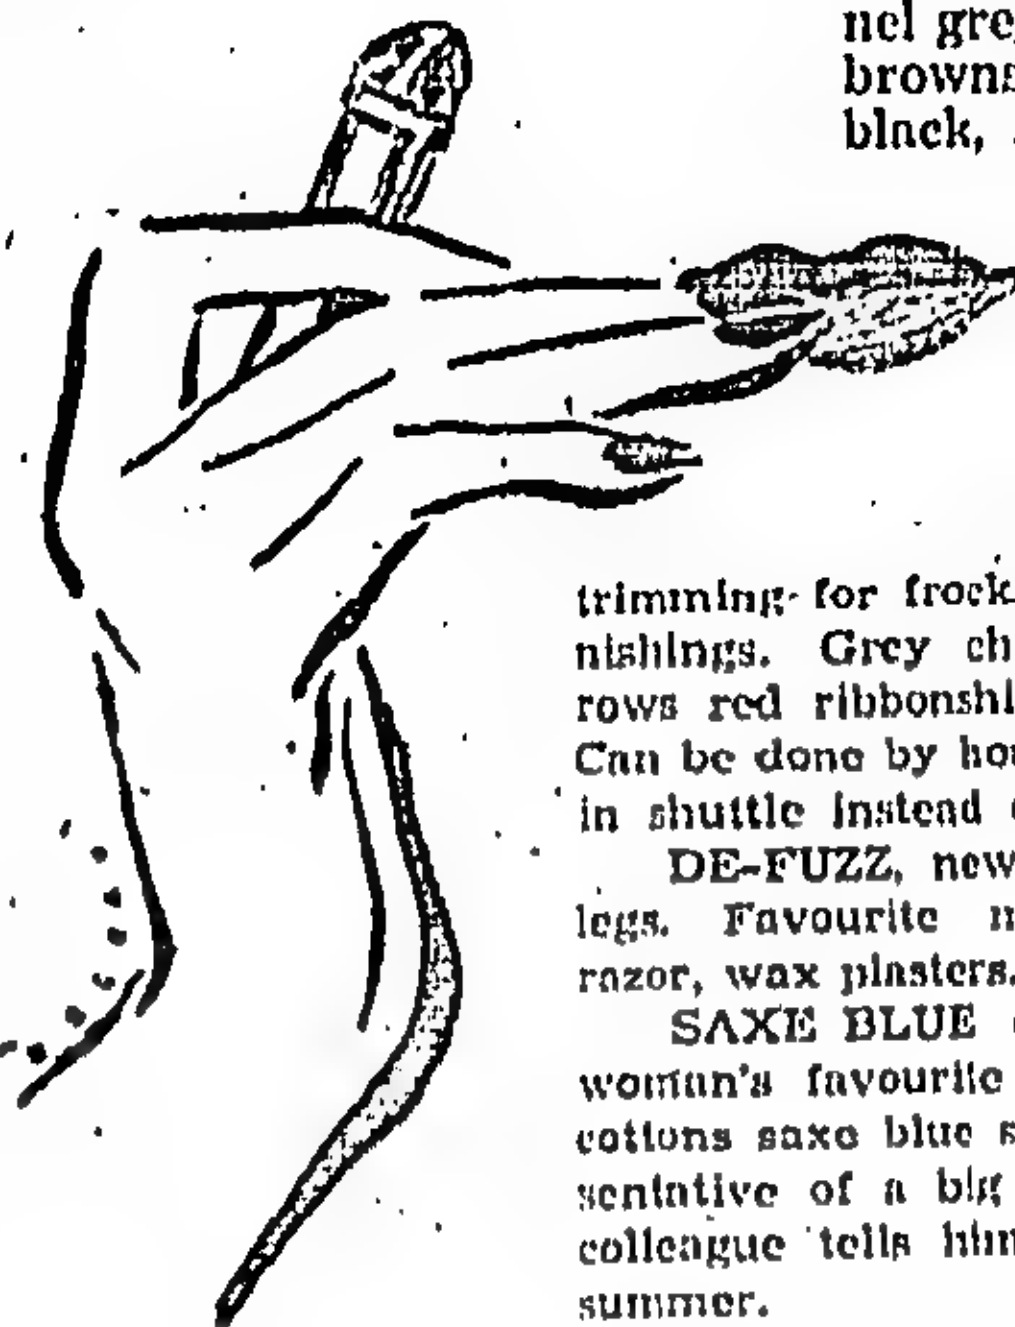

KNEES latest thing to get beauty culture in U.S.A. Half hose worn for cycling.

SHOES getting flatter. Three to one typists counted wearing neat low heels in yesterday morning.

BLACK on decrease; grey, camel, navy with bright touches popular for girls' business outfits.

WALLFLOWER red-brown shirt and hat make navy or grey suit look very slow. Latest colour scheme from Paris.

GIRL FRIEND wearing new pastel coat improved—literally—out of recognition. Was looking for medium-brown girl in medium-brown straight coat; never recognised gay girl in light blue-and-brown plaid. Tip for mouse-coloured and unenterprising: Go pastel.

STOCKINGS are still worn silk and sheer; but thinnest cotton ones sold out from my favourite store.

STOCKING COLOURS: With flannel grey and camel, light autumn. With browns, rose beige. With navy or black, stockings toned to accessories.

RIBBONSHIRTING: This year's version of last year's passion for dirndl-gathers. Ribbon and Latex yarn shirred in one operation; used as trimming for frocks, blouses, various other clothes, furnishings. Grey chiffon blouse trimmed six horizontal rows red ribbonshirting, high-spot of recent exhibition. Can be done by home dressmaker using shirlastic thread in shuttle instead of usual machine silk.

DE-FUZZ, new American word for taking hair off legs. Favourite methods, there and here: Electric razor, wax plasters.

SAXE BLUE (short for Saxon?) remains English-woman's favourite colour. In any range of dresses or cottons sax blue sells out first, yellow last, said representative of a big wholesale firm. French first choice, colleague tells him, is still black every time, even in summer.

LOVELY LINGERIE FABRICS

SUCH a number of brides-to-be are busy stitching for their trousseaux, for dainty lingerie is an expensive item when bought ready-made, and the money you have to spend will go so much farther if you can make some of these garments yourself.

Besides, you can choose your own fabrics, colours and special designs. Look, for instance, at the very attractive ensemble of nightdress and matching jacket you see in the sketch.

EXQUISITE DESIGN

THEIR design is simplicity itself, and their exquisite loveliness is due to the soft, delicate crepe with a tiny all-over pattern of pink and blue roses and true lovers' knots on a lovely soft pink ground, in which they have been made.

One of my friends, who is getting married, showed them to me with great pride the other day.

One of the lovely Grafton anti-shrink fabrics in a design of rosebuds and a true lovers' knot has been chosen for the trousseau nightie, on the left, and the dainty jacket to go with it.

WILL NOT SHRINK

"DON'T you think they are lovely?" she exclaimed. "I made them myself in one of the new Grafton anti-shrink lingerie fabrics, which are guaranteed never to shrink, stretch or lose their colour."

And she showed me some lengths of these materials which she was going to make up into other pretty clothes; some plain, some patterned—all equally charming and in the delicate shades which are so fashionable for lingerie.

Recipes Bring Eggs To Table

By JUDITH WILSON

THE wise housewife should not neglect this good protein food in her meals. Either the brown-shelled or white-shelled egg is a storehouse of protein, minerals and vitamins.

The protein in both the yolk and white is necessary for the growth and the repair of body tissues, according to the Bureau of Home Economics, Department of Agriculture. The minerals found in the yolk include lots of iron (in which ordinary diets are likely to be low) and good supplies of calcium and phosphorus. Egg yolks also contain vitamins A, B, G and D; the whites are rich in vitamin G.

Since the case in favour of eating more eggs is such a good one, here are several recipes for tempting egg dishes.

TOMATO AND EGG RAREBIT
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups strained tomato
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1 cup grated cheese
Melt butter and mix in the flour. Gradually add tomato, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Then add seasonings and eggs. Cook 4 minutes. Add cheese and cook until cheese is melted. Serve at once on toast.

POACHED EGGS PROVINCIAL
Poached eggs, two per person
2 large onions, chopped
1/4 cup cooking oil
2 cups tomato sauce
Finch of thyme

Make sauce for poached eggs by sautéing onions in oil until beginning to brown. Add tomato sauce and thyme, and simmer until onions are soft. Poach eggs and serve with sauce poured over eggs.

POTATO OMELETTE
1 cup milk
1 cup mashed potatoes
1/2 teaspoon onion juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
4 eggs separated

Combine milk with mashed potatoes. Add onion juice, pepper and salt. Mix in beaten egg yolks. Fold in, stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into greased pan and cook until bottom is brown. Then place under broiler to brown top, and serve with bacon.

MUSHROOM-EGGS AND NOODLES

Pretty hands and nails—that's the ambition of most girls once they become beauty-conscious. And one of the best ways to encourage this worthwhile beauty trait is to give her a manicure kit. She'll find it's fun to keep her nails polished and shapely.

Manicure Kit For Young Girl

By JACQUELINE HUNT

IN every mother's life there comes a day when she realises that the little girl who yesterday was her baby is beginning to think about being to-morrow's glamour girl. Toward that end she's becoming hair-conscious, complexion-conscious and hand-conscious. Unless you are a very casual mother you have already taught your daughter a soap-and-water complexion ritual and simple comb-and-brush routine.

But what have you done about her hands? Teaching her to keep them clean is good as far as it goes. But it isn't enough. What about her cuticles? What about those nails?

What about the skin texture? Now is the time to take advantage of her newly aroused interest in her looks and startling doing things about them. On her next birthday or as a reward for the good grooming steps she has already mastered, give her a manicure kit for her very own—one containing manicure scissors, a good, flexible nail file, an emery board, a nail white pencil, a stick for pushing back the cuticles, and, nicest yet, a good looking buffer.

Next teach her to use these implements in a simple but consistent daily routine. Show her how to hold that file and how to use it to shape her small nails roundly, leaving a tiny rim of white. Show her how to use her nail brush under the nails and around them and then to soak her hands in warm soapsuds for a few minutes to soften the cuticles. Demonstrate the pushing back of the cuticles with the little stick gently so the nail root will not be injured to cause unsightly white spots.

Polish Brings Pride
Buy her some paste polish or even a can of the dry variety and dab it on the nails yourself the first time—applying the buffer vigorously. Build from tips toward the cuticles, with the grain of the nails, not across. After she glimpses the lovely lustre that results you won't have to do any arguing about that part of the process in the future. She will be equally pleased with the magic worked by the little nail white pencil so there will be no more grimy nail tips. The time to use the latter is just before drying her hands. If you really want to teach her to do the job thoroughly, buy her a fragrant hand cream or perfumed hand lotion—or both if your budget allows. Little girls—like big ones—love pleasant odours and if you place these things within her reach, she soon will be helping herself to them after she has washed her hands. This will soon eliminate chapping, a condition that is common to all children.

For luxurious, once-in-a-while care, there is a fragrant nail oil which you can warm and apply to her fingertips to soften and help stimulate healthy nail growth. Of course, you should do this for yourself regularly! The easiest way to do it is to saturate flannel strips with it and wrap those around the fingers while preparing for the rest of her complete manicure.

Appeal to Her Vanity
If your daughter is really a problem child, preferring to dig in the soil, climb trees or jump rope to keeping herself dainty and feminine, try appealing to her vanity. Perhaps there are little girls who can resist the subtle argument of a long-coveted ring or bracelet, but they are rare. These needn't spoil her outdoor fun, but they will make her more careful—perhaps even to the point of remembering to put on gloves "just like mother" when she makes her garden.

Later on when she has her first long party dress, you can add as a reward for her faithful handgrooming a bottle of liquid nail enamel in a soft delicate pink for use only on these special occasions, of course.

Handkerchiefs Are Used As Novel Dress Tops

By ELEANOR GUNN

NEW YORK—Evening dresses, the folded-over bodices of which are made from handkerchiefs, are something new. Take a handkerchief that is from 15 to 20 inches square—one of the many beautifully printed ones—and you will, with a little practice, find that it can be draped into a good-looking dress top. The skirt worn would be plain. The skirt also that handkerchiefs may be made into aprons, using either one or two large ones.

Another tricky little novelty is the apron with matching shawl. One such set made of open flannel cotton is fringed around the square apron and shawl with contrasting wool. The set looks very well over a plain sports dress for, as I've tried to put across, shawls and aprons are very new for sports or play clothes but are also worn for gala occasions. How about providing shawls for your bridesmaids if you are having bridesmaids in your family this June?

Ever so often purple, orchid, wistaria, violet and such shades suddenly appear and conquer the town. "Wistaria hysteria," is one shop's announcement of this interesting event. It about describes the rush women make for these shades when they receive the slightest encouragement. The time seems ripe for a revival of them, but "green grow the fashions" in another shop whose windows play up, among other greens, a "deep hot-blue-green."

Whatever your colour choice, let it be gay. The need for gay clothes was never greater and women can do their bit by wearing them. As previously reported, cottons are having their hey-day, among them check gingham which seems a particularly happy choice now that cheeks are better than ever.

Skin Protection

If you turn pink instead of taking on a healthy tan under the sun, then use a heavy tinted cream or a good liquid powder that will protect you. And use a soothing cream at night.

WATCHING RUSSIA

London, June 25.
In the Commons to-day Mr. Dalton, Minister of Economic Warfare, stated at question time that the decline in imports of war materials through Vladivostok had continued. However, he was still keeping a constant watch on that trade.

Mr. G. Le M. Mander: Will you give an assurance that you will co-operate in the closest possible manner with the Ambassador at Moscow?

Mr. Dalton: I'll gladly give that assurance. This, of course, is one of the matters which have already taken up with the Soviet Authorities—Reuters.

BEAUTY TREATMENT

HOME beauty culture will make you look more beautiful so why not spend a few minutes every day in acquiring a charming appearance. Top left: Take care of the ugly lined lines which appear round the nose and mouth. An effective massage is illustrated above. Use a light tapping massage with an upward movement.

Below: Relax the mind and body completely for some minutes during the day. This is as effective as any beauty treatment. It makes the tired lines and that worried look disappear.

For Your Lapel

AMONG the latest dress accessories are brooches made in the form of military epaulettes. They are of gilt and have shiny gold fringes. They are just the thing to wear in your lapel, on pocket flaps or upon your shoulders. There are necklaces of choker length to match made of flexible gold with a large double epaulette motif in front—also complete with golf fringes.

Musical Boxes

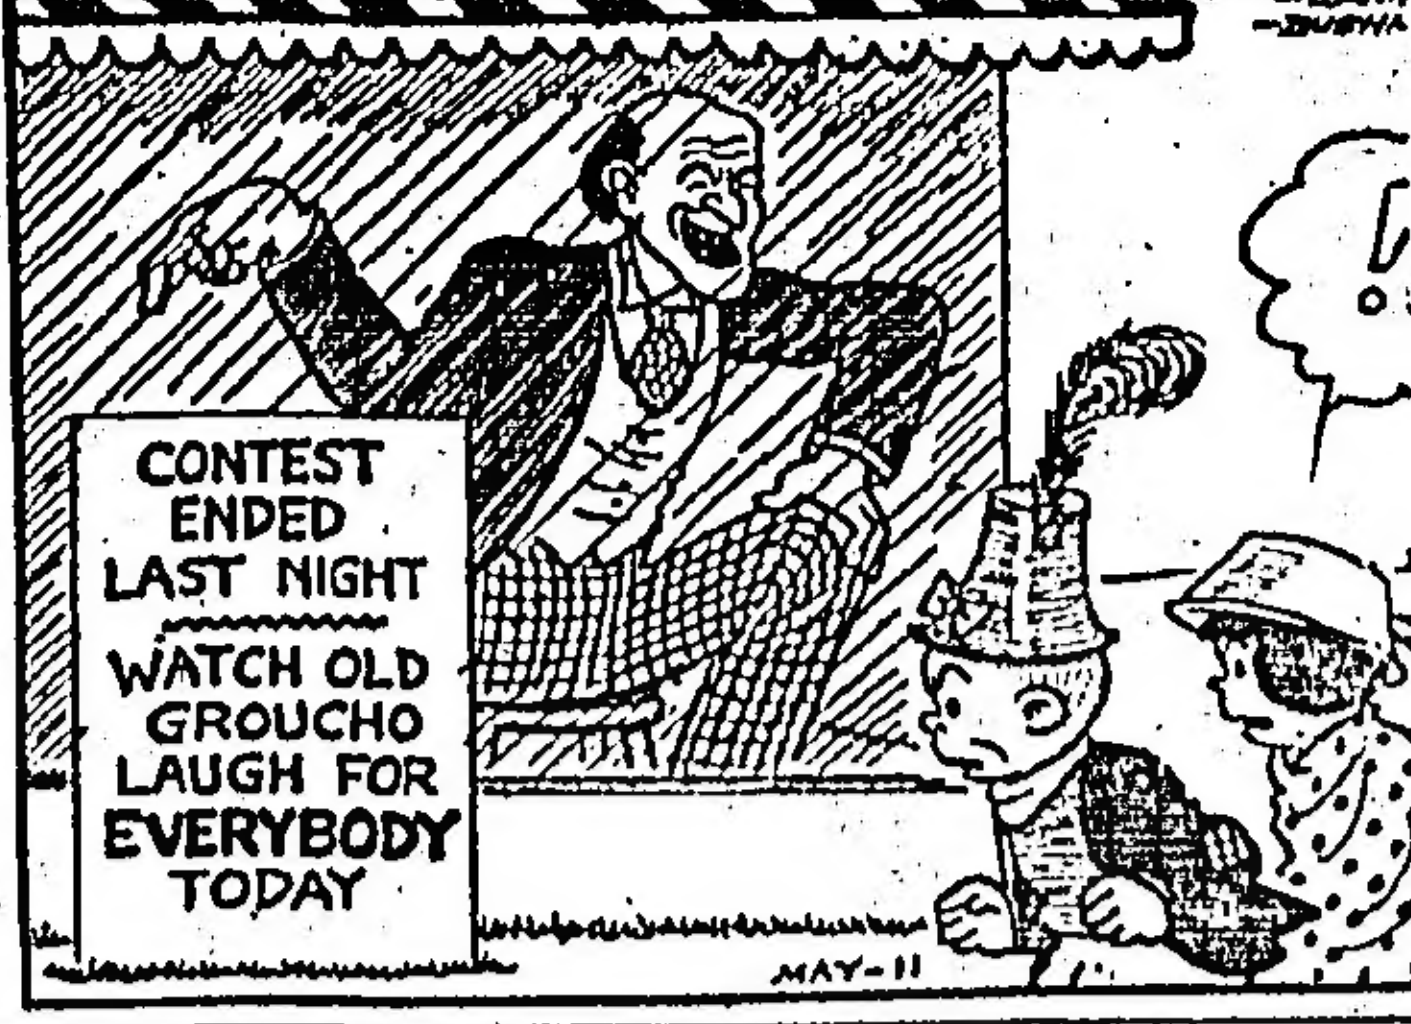

TASTES seem less sophisticated nowadays than of heretofore. We find amusement in all sorts of simple little things.

Perhaps that is why so many people are bringing out from retirement musical boxes of various kinds. One very popular one is in the form of a cigarette box. It has a china lid, attractively decorated with painted figures. When it is lifted the box plays an amusing tinkling little tune.

Colours Harmonize

VIVIAN Donner, the fashion consultant, recently appeared at an afternoon party in a soft olive green frock with matching sailor hat trimmed with pale yellow and fuchsia flowers. A short snood held the hat over her dark curls. Her lipstick was matched to the fuchsia-red of her flowers; her complexion powder a clear, rosy tone to make the costume colour more flattering.

Epic Story Of Defence Of Calais 3 BATTALIONS SAVED THE B.E.F. IN FLANDERS

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—The epic story of the defence of Calais by three battalions of the Rifle Brigade was given in an authoritative statement here to-day.

They were ordered to hold the town and did not realise by their gallantry that they were saving the British Expeditionary Force.

The units concerned were a Battalion of the 60th Rifles, a Battalion of the Queen Victoria's Rifles, and a battalion of the Royal Tank Regiment.

Refused To Surrender
On the morning of May 25, after heavy fighting in the previous days, a flag of truce was passed through the British lines to the Brigadier. The demand for immediate surrender was refused.

At 9 a.m., a heavy bombardment began and was accompanied by almost incessant dive-bombing. Our defensive position and the dinner town were reduced to a shambles and set aflame.

Incessant Fighting
The Brigade had little or no sleep or rest from May 21 to May 25. They were constantly moving and fighting. Food, water and ammunition were all short and it had been impossible

D.E.I. ARE NORMAL

House Of Commons
Statement

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary of State, was asked what was now the position in the Dutch East Indies.

He was also asked what discussions, if any, had taken place either with the Japanese Government or with the United States Government or with both concerning any possible developments arising from the removal of the Dutch Government to London.

Nothing To Report
In replying, Mr. Butler said: "There is nothing to report from the Netherlands East Indies where the situation is normal."

"The Government have made known their desire that the status quo in the Netherlands East Indies should be preserved."

"Declarations in the same sense have been made separately and independently by the Governments of the United States and Japan."

Berlin Express To Start Again

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
BERLIN, June 25 (Domei).—A direct railway service between Berlin and Paris will be re-opened in a few days, it is reliably learned here to-day.

A Look Through The "Telegraph"

50 YEARS AGO

That charming ornament of the London stage, Florence St. John, asserts that she reduced herself from 120 to 105 lb. by simply by walking a great deal and going almost entirely without liquids at any time. She first lays on coat of cream imperceptible, over blismuth, which costs 22 a bottle; she then puts the rouge on a tiny brush, and then the blue line beneath the eyes, and blue line beneath the eyes. She never "makes-up" the lips at all, rightly considering that the expression of the face depends very much on the mouth. If used dry, blismuth gleams like white marble when used moist, the result is white. She removes her "make-up" with cold cream and a wash of borax and camomile water. "Florence" tells us a great deal more, but we hold it over until we can find time to write an article on the mysteries of the ballet.

The untimely wave of illness which has overtaken the Test cricketers seems to be spreading to the batsmen. Mr. W. L. (Britain) in addition to Senorita Alvarez (Spain) has been compelled to scratch from all sections. The bar-leg question was revived to-day when the American, Miss Smith Cross, and the Danish player, Miss Stockel, appeared at Wimbledon without stockings.

They were reminded of the Wimbledon tradition and the players then explained that they had acted in ignorance. All the overseas players have now been instructed regarding stockings.

When M. Pietri, French Minister for the Colonies, referred at a meeting of the League of Nations last week, to the "strict discipline" to which the revolutionists now seeking to overthrow French rule in Indo-China have subjected themselves, the statement was based on an observation of a number of remarkable facts associated with the recent uprising.

A black cloud looms on the boxing horizon. It is the bulk of Joe Louis, Alabama negro, 21 years of age, and 195 pounds. To-night, in convincing style, he delivered a technical knockout to Primo Carnera, 27½ pound Italian, and ex-heavyweight champion of the world. It took him less than six rounds.

Germany had agreed never again to resort to what was known as "unrestricted submarine warfare," declared Sir Bolton Byre-Moncell, First Lord of the Admiralty, in a speech when replying to a question put by Admiral Campbell.

The First Lord said the German representatives during the negotiations in connection with the Anglo-German Naval Agreement, stated that Germany was prepared unreservedly to adhere to the rules of submarine war set out in Part IV of the London Naval Treaty.

This provided that, except in cases of persistent refusal to stop, on being duly summoned, or active resistance to a visit or search, a warship, whether surface vessel or submarine, may not sink or disable merchant vessels without first having placed the passengers, crew and ship's papers in a place of safety.

Ship's boats are not regarded as a place of safety unless the safety of passengers and crew is assured in existing sea and weather conditions or by proximity to land, or near the presence of another vessel able to take the passengers and crew aboard. This undertaking, given by Germany, was an entirely new one, said Sir Bolton Byre-Moncell, and not an extension of any pre-war one. The only Powers juridically bound by Part IV of the Treaty were Britain, the United States and Japan, as France and Italy did not ratify it.

SUPERB COURAGE

Brilliant R. A. F. Pilot
Awarded The D. S. O.

LONDON, June 25 (Reuter).—A remarkable story of personal dash and courage is revealed in the announcement of the award of the D.S.O. to Flight Lieutenant Soden, who is at present missing.

Flight Lieutenant Soden's flight was ordered to France at short notice and during the following two days he acted as leader in many combats against the enemy. He personally shot down five enemy aircraft and possibly two more, while his flight destroyed a further seven.

Attacked 50 Planes
On one occasion, Flight Lieutenant Soden attacked, single-handed, between 50 and 60 enemy fighters, destroying one of them.

On another occasion, while his aerodrome was being heavily bombed, Flight Lieutenant Soden jumped from the shelter of a trench, climbed into the nearest fighter aircraft without knowing whether it was fully fuelled or armed and, despite the presence of delayed action bombs on the aerodrome, which was covered in smoke, he took off and attacked a greatly superior force.

Flight Lieutenant Soden is a Londoner, aged 23.

N.Y. FRENCHMEN DENY GOVT.

NEW YORK, June 25 (Reuter).—A statement issued by a group of influential French citizens here states: "We consider that the present French Government, having to deliberate in territory occupied or controlled by the enemy, is no longer in a position to represent and safeguard the permanent interests of France."

"We wish to express our gratitude to the British Government for inviting the French people remaining in free lands to continue the fight to ultimate victory, and for re-affirming the promise to re-establish France in full possession of her rights and territories."

His War Has Gone On Since 1914
"I've been at war with Germany ever since 1914," declares a pilot of the Fighter Command.

Being Manx, he was committed to war by the Isle of Man Parliament in 1914. "After the last war, although we had ourselves declared war against Germany, they forgot us at the peace conference and we did not join our piggy banks."
